NATS TRIUMPH AS MARBERRY HALTS TIGERS

Detroit Held to Five Hits as Big Pitcher Gains 3-0 Shutout.

PACE IS MAINTAINED AS MACKS ALSO WIN

Judge Leads Attack on Hoyt With Pair of Doubles.

FIRST-BASEMAN AIDS WITH FAST FIELDING

Myers' Walk, Cronin's Single and Harris' Triple Score Two Runs in Sixth.

By FRANK H. YOUNG
(Staff Correspondent of The Post).

Navin Field, Detroit, Mich., July 15. Fred Marberry, pounded out of the box by the Tigers in the opening double-header here Saturday, staged a come-back against them in the final game of the series this afternoon and turned in a brilliantly pitched shut out victory, 3 to 0. Marberry granted but five well-scattered hits and was never in serious trouble, although the Bengals twice made minor threats.

The Nats' victory matched that of the Athletics, who again won from the Browns at St. Louis. The Tigers, however, won the series with Washington, three games to two.

Waite Hoyt, former Yankee, toed the slab for the home team and was beaten for the second straight time while facing the Nats in Detroit livery. He was not pounded exceptionally hard, but the Nationals managed to cluster some of their blows when they were needed most.

Judge Ends Slump.

Eight hits were charged against Hoyt and one to Charley Sullivan, who succeeded him, Sam Rice being credited with three singles while Joe Judge came out of a slump and poled out a brace of doubles, one of which drove a mate home. Dave Harris' triple, which scored Cronin in the sixth, was the longest hit of the game, the Greensboro Sheriff also missing getting a homer which was foul over the left field fence by a matter of inches.

While turning in his tenth victory of the season, Marberry held Bucky Harris' sluggers to one extra base blow, this being a wasted double in the fifth. He also proved to be the only pitcher who in the past few games has been able to silence Dale Alexander's bat, the big fellow never even approaching a hit, while fanning once.

The Tigers were the first to threaten, having men on first and third when the final out was turned in in the opening canto, as a result of Johnson's single and theft, Gehringer's sacrifice fly, and a walk, but it was the Nationals who first broke into the scoring column. They did this in the fourth, after having had but one man on base in the three previous rounds.

Rice Leads Off With Hit.

Rice led off with a single between third and short and it looked as though this would prove a wasted effort when Cronin and Harris died on flies. Hoyt had two strikes called on Judge when he shot a fast one down the groove and a double resulted, on which Rice was able to score with ease.

Round five started as though the Harrismen might get this run back, for Hayworth led off with a double to left. Judge, however, helped the cause by making a great play on Hoyt's intended sacrifice, tossing out

Montanans Cast Votes in Primary

Justice of State Supreme Court or Publisher to Oppose Walsh.

Helena, Mont., July 15 (A.P.).—Returns from 42 scattered precincts of 1,493 in Montana gave Galen 1,663, Shelley 760 for the Republican nomination for United States senator.

While the primary developed no big issues, close followers of Montana politics believe a record vote has been cast.

The Republicans chose between Albert J. Galen, associate justice of the supreme court, and O. H. P. Shelley, Red Lodge publisher, for an opponent for United States Senator Thomas J. Walsh, in the general election. Representative Scott Leavitt, Republican of the Second District, and Mark D. Fitzgarrald, Republican candidate for Congress in the First District, has no opposition.

Calvin Coolidge

Says: Because the rule of eternal vigilance requires us to strive to make our Government better we should not conclude that it is not already good. If any one will examine the course of Federal legislation for the past decade surprisingly little will be found that is distinctly bad and most of that is chiefly because of the expense involved. Oftentimes the House or the Senate have come to a wrong decision which further deliberation has corrected before final enactment. Sometimes the veto power of the President has saved the situation. On occasion the power to investigate has been criticized. But even these explorations by revealing the truth or falsity of accusations have often been most salutary. If too little thought has been given to cooperation with the service which those responsible for the conduct of business are trying to render, scrupulous care has been exercised in efforts to promote the welfare of the great body of the people. The general level of ability and character of the holders of Federal office is remarkably high. The people are in control of their own affairs. Self-government is a success. The United States is worthy of the best we can give it.

COOLIDGE'S RETURN BOOMED BY MAYOR

Former President Loses His Wife at Tercentenary in Boston.

CURLEY WARM IN PRAISE

Boston, July 15 (A.P.).—Former President Calvin Coolidge, although he took no active part in the tercentenary exercises and did not speak, figured prominently in two out of the ordinary incidents today.

First, he lost his wife.

Second, he was informed by no less a political authority than James M. Curley, Democratic Mayor of Boston, that he might be President again if he so chose.

Mr. and Mrs. Coolidge were received by Gov. and Mrs. Frank G. Allen at the State House today drawn perhaps by old memories of the days when he served in the legislature and presided over the senate which he had not seen since 1915.

While on his way there he suddenly discovered that Mrs. Coolidge was not with him. He had started to retrace his steps when a legislative messenger asked if there was anything he could do.

"I've lost my wife," said Mr. Coolidge.

Mrs. Coolidge was found with Mrs. Allen.

As Mayor Curley mounted the speaker's stand on the Common to begin his address, he turned to recognize notables gathered there, and facing Mr. Coolidge, said:

"Honored President that has been and, if he so desires, may again be," then proceeded with his prepared address.

Mr. Coolidge's face, as a ripple of amusement ran over the crowd, remained inscrutable.

Boy Critically Hurt In Mysterious Fall

Broker's Son, 7, Believed to Have Had Tumble in Play.

Robert C. Jones, jr., 7 years old, of 4801 Indian lane, Wesley Heights, is in a critical condition at the Emergency Hospital, suffering from a fractured skull, received, police, say, in an unexplained fall yesterday evening.

The boy was taken to Emergency Hospital and, despite efforts of physicians, was still unconscious early today. No other injuries were found and physicians assume that the injury was received in a fall while playing near his home.

Robert C. Jones, father of Robert, is an investment broker, with offices at 1510 H street northwest.

MISSING GIRL OF 14 BELIEVED ABDUCTED

Franconia, Va., Child Last Seen Sunday as Man Drove Her in Car.

HER SISTERS SENT HOME

A 14-year-old girl, believed to have been abducted, is the object of a widening search by Fairfax County authorities, it was revealed last night following a fruitless investigation since Sunday afternoon.

The girl, Louise Gladys Sission, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Sission, of Franconia, Va., disappeared in the automobile of an unidentified man just as she was about to enter the Beulah Baptist Church at Franconia between 2 and 3 o'clock Sunday afternoon.

Witnesses told Sheriff Kirby, who is directing the search, that Miss Sission was hailed by the man as she reached the church door with her two smaller sisters. Her alleged abductor was seated in a large green automobile parked close by.

After the two had talked for a few minutes the man beckoned to the two smaller girls, gave each of them a nickel and told them to go home. He then drove away swiftly with Miss Sission.

The parents of the missing girl were not alarmed at first, as they believed she had merely gone riding with a friend. When she had not returned late Sunday night they began an investigation but did not notify Sheriff Kirby until Monday night.

The letters "G. E. M." were said to be engraved on the car which carried the girl away. Miss Sission, a girl of fair complexion, with blue eyes, and weighing about 127 pounds, wore a yellow dress when she disappeared. She walks with a slight limp.

Triple Slayer, 64, Must Die August 15

Arkansas Governor Names Date for Electrocution of Howell.

Little Rock, Ark., July 15 (A.P.).—Electrocution of W. H. Howell, 64, triple slayer, was set by Gov. Parnell today for Friday, August 15. A long legal fight in Howell's behalf ended two weeks ago when the supreme court upheld the result of the last sanity hearing conducted by Warden S. L. Todhunter, of the State penitentiary, in which a jury found Howell sane.

Howell was convicted in Crawford County of the murder of Jim Nicholson, aged inmate of the Crawford County Infirmary. At the same time he slew Nicholson he was accused also of killing Cliff Deffenbaugh, infirmary superintendent, and Mrs. Deffenbaugh.

Howell will be the oldest person electrocuted in the State.

POLICE SNARES ELUDED BY NEW BAKER SUSPECT

Itinerant Painter Quits Chesapeake Beach as Hunt Begins.

TATTOOED ARM KEPT COVERED, SAY MATES

Man, Thought Barrere, Goes Before Getting Money Due.

OLD AUTO HE USED IS FOUND ABANDONED

Pictures of Long-Sought Fugitive Are Said to Be Like Workman.

An itinerant painter, believed to be Herman H. Barrere, suspected of the murder of Mary E. Baker, has eluded capture at Chesapeake Beach, Md., when he fled before the arrival of police, leaving behind him a dilapidated automobile.

For the past two weeks a man, resembling Barrere and bearing tattoo marks on his forearm, had been employed as a sign painter by a roadstand owner named Paul Forthier, at the Maryland resort. One of the men at the roadstand reported to Sheriff Maurice M. Buckler that the painter had a tattooed heart pierced by an arrow on his right forearm.

Sheriff Buckler learned upon investigation that the man always had his shirt sleeves rolled down even while painting. A few days ago he raised the cuff of his right sleeve above the wrist and one of the roadstand employes noticed the heart. When the suspect noticed that he was being observed he covered the forearm.

Sheriff Was Too Late.

The Calvert County sheriff visited the roadstand on Monday only to learn that the man had disappeared, although his painting contract had not expired. Search of the neighborhood revealed that the old automobile in which the man had ridden was abandoned nearby.

Further inquiry showed that the man had been in the vicinity for two weeks doing odd painting jobs on houses in the neighborhood of North Beach and Chesapeake Beach. Interrogation of the persons who had employed the painter revealed that the man had always worked with his sleeves rolled down.

Alarm Is Spread.

Believing the man may have been the long-sought Barrere, Sheriff Buckler obtained a picture of the suspect, together with a minute description which he showed to the employers and others who had observed the man. They all noted a general resemblance between the painter and Barrere. All seemed to think that the painter was huskier than the picture of Barrere. The picture the

LINGLE SLAYER SUSPECT MUST GO TO CHICAGO

Frankie Foster, Gunman, Loses Extradition Fight in West.

MAY SEND PRISONER BACK BY AIRPLANE

Hotel Clerk Says He Saw Defendant in City Day of Murder.

ANOTHER KEY FIGURE MENTIONED IN CASE

Newspaper Reports Gangster Was Sighted Near Killing Scene.

Los Angeles, July 15 (A.P.).—Frankie Foster, gangster, late today lost his fight against extradition to Chicago, his home, where he is under indictment for the murder of Alfred Lingle, newspaper reporter. Preparations were begun to return the prisoner to Chicago by airplane. Superior Judge McComb denied a writ of habeas corpus to Foster after a court hearing.

Donald H. Wilson, clerk at the St. Clair Hotel, Chicago, testified he saw Foster at the hostelry June 11, the day Lingle was assassinated.

Foster said he left Chicago June 6 or 7, and went to Santa Fe, N. Mex. He was arrested here two weeks ago.

He Liked Santa Fe.

"I went to Santa Fe because I liked it there," Foster said. "I had no business to transact there."

Under further questioning by Deputy District Attorney Tracy Becker regarding the name of the Pullman car he was in, the name of the porter, which meals he ate in the diner and whether he took a berth or section, the gangster seemed irritated.

The prisoner was allowed a few minutes with his wife and then was turned over to Chicago authorities.

New Key Figure.

Chicago, July 15 (A.P.).—Ted Newberry, said by police to be a former whisky hauler for the Aiello-Moran-Zuta syndicate, was introduced by the Daily News today as a possible key figure in the Lingle murder case.

Newberry is one of the many gangsters reported to have been seen near the corner of Randolph street and Michigan boulevard at the moment Jake Lingle, Tribune reporter, was shot to death.

He has also been named, the News said today, as the leader of the gunmen who tried to kill Jack Zuta on State street and in the fusillade slew a street car motorman and wounded another bystander.

Brundidge Asked to Testify.

Press reports have frequently mentioned Newberry himself as the possible victim of gang killers. Putting its theories together, the Daily News said its information on Newberry's recent activities substantiated the belief that George Moran gangsters

VOTE ON NAVAL PACT EXPECTED IN SENATE FIRST OF NEXT WEEK

Treaty Advocates Close Case With Exposition by David Reed.

LARGEST ATTENDANCE IS SEEN AT SESSION

Tuesday Tentatively Set for Final Balloting on Accord.

M'KELLAR SUBMITS TWO RESERVATIONS

Robinson, of Indiana, Leads Attack of Opponents to Agreement.

(Associated Press.)

Advocates of the London Naval Treaty closed their case before the Senate yesterday with an exposition of the agreement by Senator Reed (Republican), Pennsylvania, one of the delegates, and last night leaders were looking forward confidently to a final vote on the pact.

Next Tuesday has been tentatively suggested for a date to vote, but there were no understandings last night and the determined band of opponents were cracking away at the treaty with considerable ammunition in store. Senator Robinson (Republican), Indiana, led the attack yesterday in a speech of three hours.

The Reed speech was heard by the largest attendance thus far during the special session. The roll call showed 60 members present. Others arrived during the day, virtually eliminating fears of treaty advocates that the lack of a quorum might break up the session.

Johnson and Reed in Tilt.

Senator Johnson (Republican), California, leader of the opposition, at the conclusion of Senator Reed's address, engaged him in one of the most spirited of their many exchanges. Senator Johnson demanded the text of the first American proposal summitted to London. Senator Reed promptly submitted it.

This proposal, which was made public during the London conference and discussed before the foreign relations committee by Secretary Stimson, embodied the demand of the American delegation for a new warship. Mr. Stimson said this was urged as a trading point."

Once more Senators Johnson and Reed clashed over the papers relating to the London conference which President Hoover has declined to give the Senate. Senator Reed again volunteered to show them in confidence to the Californian and the latter replied that he did not understand "any one who would accept such an offer or the temperamental make-up of any senator who would make such an offer."

McKellar's Two Reservations.

Senator Johnson asked Senator Reed if the Japanese did not reserve the right to abandon the 5-3 ratio after 1935. Senator Reed replied that she did and that the United States, in turn, reserved the right to insist upon that ratio or even a lower one.

Senator McKellar (Democrat), Tennessee, a foe of the treaty, is ready to submit two reservations—one insisting upon freedom of the seas in war as well as in peace. The other would call for removal by Great Britain of her naval bases in the vicinity of the American continent.

While treaty proponents have agreed to accept the modified reservation of Senator Norris (Republican), Nebraska, providing that no secret agreement or understanding shall be ratified in approval of the pact, they have laid down a ban against other reservations and no hope is held for them.

Fleet Almost Hopeless.

Senator Reed told the Senate that when the London parley opened the Man Returns Fortune He Finds in Cafeteria

Clerk Says Wallet Held $600,000; Owners Say 50-Odd Thousand.

Stumbling over a black leather wallet in a cafeteria on Pennsylvania avenue near Eleventh street yesterday, James A. Heaney, file clerk in the Postoffice Department, found it to contain indorsed checks which he reported had an aggregate value in excess of $600,000.

There were approximately 150 checks in the wallet, Heaney said, ranging from small amounts up to one for $50,000 and another for $51,960, all payable to and indorsed by the Consolidated Press.

To avoid being late returning from his lunch hour, Heaney, who is 33 years old and lives at 1022 Ninth street northwest, took his find to E. W. Van Meter, chief of the division of rural delivery in the Postoffice Department, where he works.

Mr. Van Meter called the Riggs National Bank by telephone, a passbook on that institution being found in the wallet, and the bank in turn called Mrs. King, an employe for the Consolidated Press, who went to the Postoffice Department and reclaimed the checks. She offered Heaney $5 from her own funds as reward, he said, but he rejected the money.

As he approached the cashier's desk in the cafeteria, Mr. Heaney said, in describing the circumstances of his find, he tripped over an obstacle on the floor and upon looking down to see what was in his way saw the wallet. It had been there for twenty minutes, it was learned later.

Thomas J. McBreen, traffic manager for the Consolidated Press, declared that the value of the checks was "some 50-odd thousand dollars," stating that one check was for $50,000 and indicating that the others were small.

POLITICIANS DEBATE U. S. FISCAL OUTLAY

Wood, Jones Stanchly Defend $5,000,000,000 Program Scored by Byrns.

TOTAL SETS NEW MARK

By CARLISLE BARGERON.

Pointing to better roads, better rivers and harbors, better public buildings and lots of farm relief which the country will have, Chairman Will Wood, of the Republican congressional committee, yesterday held up to the sun the $5,000,000,000 appropriations of the last Congress with perfect equanamity.

It is a lot of money, he admitted, but intimated very strongly that if the Republicans were permitted to handle it the country would prosper.

On the other hand, Representative Byrns, of Tennessee, whose Democratic business is to counter all of Mr. Wood's roseate statements, said the Republicans have embarked upon an orgy of extravagance; that they have even got too many secretaries at the White House.

The statement of the two men were the anticipated preelection financial barrage of what have come to be affectionately known as the Nation's two major political parties. Senator Jones, chairman of the Senate appropriations committee, also issued a Republican financial statement, but Mr. Wood out-shouted him, the senator largely confining himself to figures while Mr. Wood used plenty of words.

In addition to the approximately $5,000,000,000 appropriated last session, the trio agreed, additional projects costing $900,000,000 were authorized and a total of $199,310,233 was appropriated at the special session.

"It will thus be seen that even the 'myth' of Coolidge economy disap-

WOMEN SHOT DOWN BY BANDIT BULLETS

Machine Gun Gang Escapes With $50,000 After Riddling Town.

MOTHER MAY SUCCUMB

Willmar, Minn., July 15 (A.P.).—Five machine gun bandits, moving swiftly in a well-planned raid, descended on the Bank of Willmar today, shot up the town in a fashion reminiscent of the James gang; wounded two women, one probably fatally, and escaped with $50,000 after exchanging shots with citizens.

Although it was estimated that more than 100 shots were fired by the bandits the only casualties were the two women—mother and daughter—who were shot down in the final burst of firing as the robbers sped out of town. Windshields in several automobiles were shot out in the fusillade and windows shattered in buildings adjacent to the bank.

Despite the close watch kept on the roads, no trace of the bandits had been found tonight. They fled southward and none of the citizenry attempted pursuit, although several sped their departure with shotgun and revolver fire. The driver of the bandit car apparently was wounded in the exchange and was dragged from behind the wheel.

Physicians tonight held little hope for recovery of one of the victims of the bandits' bullets, Mrs. Emil Johnson, who was shot through the arm and in the chest as she walked along the sidewalk with her daughter, Mrs. Donald Gildia. Mrs. Gildia also was shot, but the bullet wound in her leg is not considered serious.

Only eight minutes were occupied by three bandits in gathering up $37,000 in cash and $13,000 in negotiable bonds after intimidating 25 employes and customers in the bank while two others with machine guns

Green Hat Man Guilty, Rum Case Jury Finds

Cassidy, Convicted on Two Counts, Faces Five Years.

George Lawrence Cassidy, the "Man in the Green Hat," who the Government alleges "plied his bootlegging trade in the shadow of the Capitol," was convicted of transporting and possessing liquor yesterday after a Criminal Division No. 1 jury had debated the case less than 10 minutes. No testimony was offered for the defense, which unsuccessfully sought a directed verdict on the grounds of illegal search and seizure.

The verdict returned by the jury of eight men and four women before Justice Jesse C. Adkins exposes Cassidy to a sentence of five years' imprisonment and a fine of $10,000 under the Jones law.

Sergt. George M. Little and Leo Murray, of the police liquor squad, told the court that they had arrested Cassidy in front of the Senate Office Building last October 31, when they saw him remove a pint bottle from his parked car and place it in his pocket. The bottle was introduced in evidence and identified as containing colored alcohol. The witnesses claimed that several other bottles of liquor had been taken from Cassidy's machine, which they had had under observation earlier in the day, when it was parked in the rear of the defendant's home on Seventeenth street near C street southeast.

Sergt. Little said that after leaving Cassidy's home in pursuit of a passing bootlegger, who was subsequently freed, the police car was cruising around in the vicinity of the Capitol when Cassidy's car was spotted parked near the Senate Office Building. Cassidy entered the building, the officer added, and came out in a few minutes to get the pint bottle, which he placed in his pocket as the officers came up and arrested him.

Defense Attorneys Myron G. Ehrlich and E. Russell Kelly made no attempt to defend their client on the charge of possession, but asked the jury to acquit him of the transporting charge on the claim that Government witnesses had not seen him

Non-Stop Buenos Aires Hop Begun by American Plane

Trio on Flight From Roosevelt Field Takes on 425 Gallons of Gas From Supply Ship at Valley Field; Havana Next Refueling Point.

Roosevelt Field, Long Island, July 15 (A.P.).—The monoplane K of New Haven took off at 3:24 Eastern standard time this afternoon on a nonstop refueling flight to Buenos Aires.

Rising easily from the field, the White monoplane headed immediately for Curtiss Airport, Valley Stream, a few miles away, to take on enough gas from a refueling ship to fly it as far as Havana, the next refueling point.

There will be other refuelings in Peru and Chile. The flight is expected to take four days. Randy Enslow, the radio operator, was at the controls when the ship took off here, the other two occupants, Garland Reed and James Garrigan, holding themselves in readiness to conduct the refueling operation.

Valley Stream, N. Y., July 15 (A.P.).—Having taken on 425 gallons of gasolene in long-drawn-out fueling operations, the monoplane K of New Haven headed southward tonight on the first leg of a nonstop, refueling flight to Buenos Aires. The K had hopped off from Roosevelt Field at 3:24 p. m. (E.S.T.) with a light load of gasolene, which was increased over this field by four contacts with a refueling ship.

The last contact was made in the gathering darkness as the planes moved away from the field and were

Girl Shot by Suitor Faces Second Blood Transfusion

Father Gives Blood to Save Victim, 14, Hovering Between Life and Death, After Soldiers, Policemen and Sister Offer Selves.

Clinging to life by a slender thread, Mary Raff, 14 years old, who was shot Monday by her 29-year-old sweetheart, Ross Golden, just before he took his own life, was being prepared for a second blood transfusion at Casualty Hospital early today.

The girl received the blood of her father, Charles Joseph Raff, yesterday morning. Hospital attendants said that she showed little improvement after the transfusion and that another transfusion would be attempted when the girl accumulates sufficient strength to undergo the operation.

Several persons, including soldiers, policemen and a married sister of the dying girl Mrs. Dorothy Harrington, 24 years old, have offered to give blood. Physicians had not decided last night who would be the next to submit to a transfusion.

The girl was shot twice—in the face and in the chest—by Golden, a World War veteran, early Monday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Lula Mills on B street near Eleventh street northeast. Mrs. Mills was slightly wounded when she tried to stop Golden from taking his own life just after he had shot the girl.

Golden loved the girl, he revealed in farewell notes and was insanely jealous because she spoke of another man. Circumstances preceding the tragedy disclosed that the girl repulsed persistent solicitations from Golden, police learned.

American fleet was in an "almost hopeless position of inferiority" in auxiliary ships to Great Britain and Japan. He said the British had a ratio of 4 to 1 against this country in cruisers and Japan had 2 to 1 for America.

"For the first time in history," he concluded, "all categories of ships will be limited. I believe that the ratification of this treaty will work for the peace and happiness of all the peoples in the countries involved."

Senator Reed paid tribute to the American naval officers who have disagreed over the treaty terms. He reviewed the dispute over the relative merits of the 8-inch-gun cruisers and the 6-inch-gun ships. He said the American delegation had considered the relative claims of the naval officers and had decided unanimously in favor of an equal division of the two categories of cruisers as provided by the treaty.

Says Navy Repudiated.

Senator Robinson, of Indiana, in his lengthy attack upon the treaty, asserted "the American Navy has been repudiated and those brave, gallant officers in it are slurred for daring to stand up for the American flag on the seven seas."

He reviewed the unsuccessful Geneva naval conference of 1927 and said that "rather than surrender to Great Britain, jeopardize the American people, and handicap the American Navy, that conference broke up with the American delegation saying 'We will not surrender just for the purpose of getting a treaty.'"

"They were backed by President Coolidge and came home, not with a treaty, but, thank God, amid the plaudits of the American people," he said.

Senator Copeland (Democrat), New York, finished up the six hours of debate for the opposition.

Wakefield Monument Site Will Be Changed

The monument at the birthplace of George Washington at Wakefield, Va., is to be moved to a site nearby by James O. Caton & Sons of Washington so that a replica of the house in which Washington was born may be built on the original location. The local company was given the contract for moving the monument yesterday by the National Park Service.

The monument, of Barre, Vt., granite, is 51 feet tall, and was erected by the United States Government in 1896 to indicate the birth site. Bricks are now being made by hand from clay at Wakefield for restoration of the house. As soon as the monument is removed the work of building a replica of the old house will be undertaken, together with restoration of the grounds, it was announced by the Wakefield National Memorial Association.

Boy Slightly Injured In Automobile Crash

Vincent Perry, 14 years old, of 510 Randolph street northwest, suffered lacerations of the forehead yesterday when an auto in which he was riding was struck by another car, operated by Charles W. Lewis, 69 years old, of 424 Newton street northwest, at Fifth and Randolph streets.

The car in which the boy was a passenger was driven by Miss Patsy Louis, 19 years old, of 801 Rock Creek road. Perry was treated at Garfield Hospital and later sent home.

State Rests Case At Carroll Hearing

Washing of Elephants Gave Police Captain Theater Experience He Says.

New York, July 15 (A.P.).—Acting Capt. James J. Coy, who views plays for the police department to see if they are obscene, testified today that he gained experience in things theatrical by washing elephants in a circus.

Capt. Coy has been the only witness at the hearing in magistrate's court on charges that Earl Carroll, producer; Jimmy Savo, comedian, and eight show girls in the Carroll "Vanities" participated in production of an indecent performance. As soon as he was through the State rested and the defense decided not to offer its side unless the case is sent to a higher court.

Various motions for dismissal were made and Magistrate Maurice Gotlieb ordered briefs submitted Thursday. While attorneys were making motions for dismissal one of the lawyers began arguing that nudity in itself was not obscene, but Magistrate Gotlieb cut him short. "New York has not reached the point," the magistrate said, "where women can appear nude on the stage with the approval of the law."

NEW BAKER SUSPECT SUDDENLY VANISHES

police had was taken several years ago.

Sheriff Buckler communicated with those in charge of the hunt for Barrere and a detective went to Chesapeake Beach yesterday to interview the witnesses. In the hope that the man might be Barrere all police departments and county officers in that vicinity have been asked to be on the alert for the man should he again seek employment.

Restaurant owners have also been furnished with a description of Barrere by Calvert County authorities who think that Barrere will seek employment in one of them. Barrere has worked on several occasions as a cook.

When the man first appeared in that section two weeks ago he came in an old Ford sedan, which he abandoned. One of the peculiar circumstances regarding the man's disappearance as noted by Sheriff Buckler is that he left without completing his painting contract, for which he had received only a fraction of the stipulated wage.

A warrant charging Barrere with the murder of the Navy Department clerk was sworn out last week by the Commonwealth's attorney, William C. Gloth, of Arlington County. While the authorities have no direct evidence linking the World War veteran with the crime, they have ensnared him in a web of circumstantial evidence which he will have to break through if brought to trial.

MISS HELEN BAUSKETT RITES

Services For Assistant Patent Examiner Will Be Held This Morning.

Funeral services will be held at 8:30 o'clock this morning for Miss Helen Virginia Bauskett, an assistant patent examiner in the United States Patent Office, who died Monday at the residence, 1201 Girard street northwest, after an illness of three months.

Services will be held at the residence and mass will follow at 9 o'clock at the Sacred Heart Church, Sixteenth street and Park road northwest. Burial will be at Forest Glen, Md.

Miss Bauskett came to Washington from Columbia, S. C., shortly before entering the employ of the Patent Office. She was 51 years old. The survivors are three sisters, Miss Emily Bauskett, Miss Mary Bauskett and Mrs. Katherine B. Calhoun, all of Washington, and one brother, Charles Bauskett, of Greenville, S. C.

PRESIDENT DEFERS VACATION IN WEST

Expects to Visit National Parks in Late August or September.

REST TO BAR SPEECHES

(Associated Press.)

President Hoover has trimmed his vacation time to something approximating the two weeks of the average citizen and plans to spend the time in the northern Rockies.

George Akerson, secretary to the President, announced yesterday there would be no speech-making and that the President would make the trip late in August or early in September "solely for the purpose of an outdoor holiday and rest."

The trip will include Glacier and Yellowstone National Parks.

Senate's Closing Factor.

The plans are still contingent, however, upon the time the Senate adjourns, and it was said the President would require some time in Washington to complete important matters after adjournment of the special session. He formerly expected to leave the Capital about August 1 and be gone four or five weeks.

Mr. Hoover has received a great number of invitations to make public addresses in various cities along the route since he announced in May his intention of making a Western trip, but the statement yesterday said the "curtailment of the period when he may be away from Washington and the very nature of taking a holiday and rest will preclude acceptance of these invitations and he believes they will not be pressed."

Chicago in Itinerary.

While the itinerary has not been arranged definitely it is tentatively planned that the Chief Executive shall pass through Chicago and Minneapolis, and make his first prolonged stop at Glacier Park in Montana. Horace M. Albright, public parks director, has advised that accomodations are available in the park for the large party which will accompany the President, and Mr. Hoover expects to spend about a week fishing there. He then probably would move southward to Yellowstone and tour that park by automobile, but extensions to the trip will depend upon the length of time he can absent himself from the Capital.

The Western trip is one of three the President has considered making before the December session of Congress. He has accepted an invitation to attend the American Legion convention in Boston in October and he still has not abandoned the idea of rounding out his Latin-American good-will trip by visiting Cuba, Mexico, Porto Rico and the Virgin Islands.

White House Statement.

The statement at the White House said:

"On May 9 press representatives were told that the President hoped to take a month's holiday in the western national parks, beginning August 1.

"At that time it was anticipated that the work of Congress would be completed at much earlier date than has now eventuated.

"The President will require some time in Washington to complete important matters after the adjournment of the present session. He expects, however, to be able to spend at least two weeks in the northern Rockies late in August or early September, solely for purposes of an outdoor holiday and rest.

"The President has received a very great number of cordial invitations to make public appearances and addresses in various cities en route. The curtailment of the period when he may be away from Washington and the very nature of taking a holiday and rest will preclude acceptance of these invitations and he believes they will not be pressed."

Portugal Girl Named Beauty-Contest Entry

Lisbon, Portugal, July 15 (A.P.).—A jury of Portugal's most noted painters, sculptors and fashion experts today picked Fernanda Goncalves, a 21-year-old brunette, as "Miss Portugal" for the forthcoming Galveston, Tex., world beauty contest.

Miss Goncalves is a daughter of modestly situated parents. She probably will sail for America with a party of excursionists by way of Rio de Janeiro on the steamship Nyassa. Fifty candidates competed for the selection. Seven other nations recently sent their delegates from Havre, France.

Worker at Treasury Dies of Heart Attack

Elias Petsulis, 53 years, was stricken by a fatal heart attack last night in a locker room in the Treasury Department Building where he was employed as a guard.

He was removed to his home 1529 I street northwest in a taxicab. Emergency Hospital doctors were summoned. Dr. R. Calandrella pronounced him dead.

DAY IN CONGRESS

SENATE.

Met at 11:00 a. m. and recessed at 5:00 p. m. to 11:00 a. m. today.

When the roll was called, 60 senators answered to their names.

Senator Reed (Republican), Pennsylvania, defended the London naval treaty, outlining the condition of the American fleet at the time the London negotiations were opened last winter.

Senator Johnson (Republican), California, asked Senator Reed for a copy of the first American proposal, which was then put in the Congressional Record.

Senator Robinson (Republican), Indiana, assailed the treaty.

Senator McKellar (Democrat), Tennessee, is drafting two reservations to the treaty. One would provide for freedom of the seas for all neutral vessels in both war and peace time, and the other would call for removal by Great Britain of her naval bases around the American continent.

Senator McNary (Republican), Oregon, introduced a resolution asking for a Tariff Commission investigation of the differences in cost of production here and abroad of lumber and timber of fir, spruce, pine, hemlock, and larch.

Man Held on Liquor Charge.

Stopping an automobile at Fourteenth and U streets northwest, said to have been driven by Marshall Williams, colored, giving his address as Neal place near Fourth street northwest, Policeman H. M. Smith, of the Eighth Precinct, discovered 36 half-gallon fruit jars of corn whisky in the machine, according to a report he turned in at the precinct early last night. Williams was booked at the precinct on a charge of transportation.

MOONEY WITNESS WILL GO WEST

UNION OF EUROPE FAVORED BY BERLIN

German Reply to Briand Is Emphatic in Stressing Position of League.

NOTE PLEASING TO PARIS

Berlin, July 15 (A.P.).—Germany tonight replied favorably to the memorandum of Foreign Minister Briand, of France, proposing the creation of a "United States of Europe," or European Federal Union. Equality of all states and equal security for each are emphasized in the reply.

Like Italy, Germany expressed anxiety that European states that are not members of the League of Nations, specifically Russia and Turkey, should be included in the union, and that European cooperation generally should be made independent of military guarantees of security.

The reply made it clear that Germany welcomes the federal union idea. She desires discussion of the whole plan at the league assembly in September.

Political Side First.

The expected reservations on the present political structure of Europe were made. The note states that European countries are far from being in a settled condition, and are subject to all kinds of tensions and antagonisms. Germany believes that the European problem must be attacked first from the political side and then from the economic.

In conclusion, the note remarks that M. Briand's memorandum repeatedly emphasized the close connection between the work of the proposed union and that of the League of Nations. Germany agreed that the league must not suffer by the activity of any Pan-European scheme and opposed schemes entailing new group formations within the league.

All forms of closer European cooperation, it was emphasized, must be tested by their effects on the league and, if necessary, submitted to the judgment of the whole league.

Outside the league Germany wished to avoid discrimination against any country or continent.

Good Impression Made.

Paris, July 15 (A.P.).—The German reply to the Briand memorandum for a European federation made on the whole a good impression in French official circles where tonight it was to be studied closely.

Most of the German reservations, it was pointed out, had been anticipated in Foreign Minister Briand's original memorandum itself. Official circles expressed the opinion that none of the difficulties stressed by the Reich would prove difficult of solution if all of the European governments would bring their good will to the task.

REDS CALLED PERIL TO NATION'S PUPILS

Congress Committee Is Told New York Children Learn Hatred of U. S.

ARE ACTIVE IN 63 CITIES

New York, July 15 (A.P.).—Evidence tending to show that Communists have been seeking for several years to lay the groundwork for the overthrow of the American Government by propagandizing school children in New York City and elsewhere was laid today before a special House investigating committee.

The hearing, which got under way late today at a branch of the Justice Department, developed that the "Young Pioneers of America," encouraged by Moscow representatives, were operating in 21 States and 63 cities, to spread the doctrine of modern Russia.

All twelve of today's witnesses were officials in New York public schools, and included Dr. William J. O'Shea, superintendent of schools. They testified that an intensive campaign to inculcate into the minds of young pupils the teachings of Communism was instituted in the spring of 1928. It was brought out that activities were centered largely in 3 of the 810 public schools. The three are situated in Russian, Slav and Polish districts.

Edward R. Maguire, principal of Junior High School 61, in the Bronx, declared the "Young Pioneers of America" were receiving strong financial support, taught Communist theories in secret schools, and intrigued boys and girls barely in their teens to join the organization. The group, he said, sought in every way to counteract the influence of the Boy Scouts of America.

Maguire said the Communist movement was "dangerous" because of its potentialities. With intelligent adults secretly directing the propagandizing in teaching based on emotionalism, he said, the possibilities of spreading the doctrines were favorable.

Aaron I. Dotey, in charge of discipline at the De Witt Clinton School, said the "Young Pioneers of America" were directly connected through other organizations, with the Third Internationale at Moscow. He said that in a Nation-wide survey he had found the young Communists operating in 21 States and 63 cities.

The witness charged that wealthy women were contributing to the "cause" and named a Mrs. Glendower Evans, of Massachusetts, and a Mrs. K. C. Gratz, of California, as two of them.

German Sabotage Witness Found After Dozen Years

Theodore Wozniak, at Whose Work Bench Mammoth Fire Started in Ammunition Plant During War, Refuses to Come to Washington.

(Associated Press.)

Theodore Wozniak, star witness in Germany's defense to the United States $40,000,000 sabotage claims for wartime disasters, finally has been located by American investigators, after unsuccessful searches extending over more than a dozen years, but the witness is not coming to Washington to be examined by the Americans just yet.

Affidavits filed yesterday with the German-American mixed claims commission on behalf of the United States declare Wozniak was found at Tupper Lake, N. Y., in company of an attorney for the German representatives, but that the attorney refused to allow questioning of the witness.

Wozniak is the workman at whose bench in the Kingsland, N. J., ammunition plant of the Canadian Car & Foundry Co., a mammoth fire and explosion which destroyed vast stores of munitions on the night of January 11, 1917, is alleged to have started. This disaster, and a similar one at the Black Tom terminal of the Lehigh Valley Railway in July, 1916, both of which the United States contends were originated by agents for Imperial Germany, are the basis for the war claims.

The man was questioned immediately after the disasters but when negotiations were begun on the claims after the war, he was not to be found. A year ago arguments before the commission were ended but suddenly the German agent had the case reopened by submitting new evidence in which Wozniak was said to have appeared at German headquarters, admitted that the fire started at his bench, but denied emphatically that he had caused it, or had ever been engaged in a sabotage program.

The American agents immediately sought to get hold of the witness but could not find him, they related yesterday, and a request to Karl von Lewinski, German agent, that Wozniak be produced met with a disclaimer of knowledge as to the man's whereabouts.

The search continued and on July 4, yesterday's affidavits said, an official of the Canadian Car & Foundry Co. in New York was advised Wozniak was at Tupper Lake. Amos J. Peaslee, an attorney working on the case in Washington, and H. H. Martin, assistant American agent, went to the New York resort with a letter signed by Robert W. Bonynge, American agent, informing Wozniak formally that he was wanted for questioning.

As they arrived at the hotel where Wozniak was reported staying, the affidavits said, the two saw the man they wanted leaving in an automobile with the German agent's attorney, Thomas J. Healy. They overtook the other car and, they said, heard Healy instruct Wozniak to "say nothing." The letter was handed over and Healy and Wozniak drove off. Later Wozniak took a train to New York City. American Agent Bonynge arrived on the scene and received from Von Lewinski a telegraphic protest against the Americans' interference.

BROKER HELD DONOR TO MRS. M'CORMICK

F. W. Allen Gave $20,000 to Fund, Official Says at Hearing.

MANY GRILLED BY NYE

Chicago, July 15 (A.P.).—Testimony that the largest contributor to the senatorial campaign of Ruth Hanna McCormick was Frederick W. Allen, New York broker and classmate of the late Senator Medill McCormick, was given before the senatorial campaign funds investigating committee today.

The witness was Lucius Wilson, president of the Voters' Progress Club, who said that Mr. Allen gave $20,000 to the club in Mrs. McCormick's behalf. He was questioned about the expenditure of $44,500 by his club in the Chicago campaign last spring, when Mrs. McCormick defeated Senator Charles S. Deneen for the Republican senatorial nomination from Illinois.

Mr. Wilson said he personally had organized the club and solicited the funds from friends and relatives of Mrs. McCormick in the hope of interesting the "average citizen in her campaign." He said that the expenditure of $44,500 was a small amount compared to the amount of public funds "used in behalf of Senator Deneen."

Large Contributors Named.

The witness said he knew of at least 1,000 Federal appointees and employes in Cook County who had used their time to carry on Senator Deneen's campaign.

Mr. Wilson, president of the General Organization Co. of Chicago, said his task was harder because he found "big business was almost solidly behind Senator Deneen in Chicago."

The other large contributors to the $44,500 fund which was a part of a $67,200 sum previously identified as contributions to the McCormick campaign aside from her own funds were listed by Mr. Wilson as follows:

G. E. Sullivan, of Cleveland, another classmate of Mrs. McCormick's late husband, $5,000; M. A. Hanna, Cleveland, $5,000; Carl H. Hanna, Cleveland, $5,000; D. R. Hanna, jr., Cleveland, $5,000; and Mrs. Paul Moore, Chicago, $1,000.

Mrs. McCormick at Hearing.

Fred A. Smith, Mrs. McCormick's confidential aid, a former newspaper man, entered a protest with the senatorial committee over numerous newspeper editorials and articles based on the Senate inquiry into Mrs. McCormick's campaign. He said these articles endeavored to associate her name with the Chicago underworld and Al Capone, gang chief, through political affiliations.

L. E. Bemis, auditor for the senatorial committee, itemized contributions made to the Ruth Hanna McCormick volunteers, which showed Col. R. R. McCormick, publisher of the Tribune, gave $2,500; Mr. and Mrs. Charles S. Schweppe, $2,000, and Joseph Medill Patterson, $1,500. All of this previously had been accounted for as part of the $62,200 contributions.

Senator Gerald P. Nye, chairman of the committee, questioned numerout other witnesses who took part in the campaign, but disclosed no new expenditures. Several important political leaders and other witnesses are yet to be heard, and Mrs. McCormick, who spent most of the opening day on the stand, said she herself expected to reappear before the committee. She did not indicate why she intended to reappear. She sat throughout the hearing today, but took no part although Senator Nye had given her the right to cross-examine any witnesses she chose.

Health Director Dead in Panama

Dr. Paul Preble Dies at 48; Surveyed Conditions in Capital in 1928.

Dr. Paul Preble, director of the Public Health Service at Panama City, died there suddenly of a heart attack Sunday, at the age of 48 years.

He had been stationed at Panama City since 1928, when he concluded a two-year survey of public health conditions in Washington, where he had resided periodically for about ten years. In addition Dr. Preble had conducted health campaigns in many other large cities in the East, as well as in Seattle.

Dr. Preble entered the Public Health Service in 1908 as an assistant surgeon. On July 3 of this year he was promoted to the grade of senior surgeon since 1920. He was a native of Auburn, Me. During the World War Dr. Preble was in charge of sanitation of citizen cantonment zones in Portsmouth, N. H., and Kittery, Me., and during the influenza epidemic in 1918 he was State director of public health relief measures in Maine. He also was a former director of the Boston quarantine station.

Surviving Dr. Preble are his widow and two children. His body will be returned to the United States and probably will be buried in Auburn.

CAPPER URGES PLAN TO BUY MORE WHEAT

Purchasing of 100,000,000 Bushels Would Relieve Crisis, He Says.

TALKS WITH HOOVER

(Associated Press.)

President Hoover was told yesterday by Senator Capper (Republican), Kansas, that purchase of 100,000,000 bushels of wheat by the Grain Stabilization Corporation would be a determining factor in relieving the crisis in the West.

Senator Capper said if the low wheat prices continued into the winter, efforts would be made in Congress to revive the equalization fee principle which was vetoed by President Coolidge. Many persons in the West still lean toward either that or the debenture plan, he said.

He added he was interested primarily in emergency measures to relieve the present crisis as a result of the break in wheat prices.

Senator Capper said he did not see how the Government could lose by buying the wheat at the present price.

"I can not conceive of wheat prices not going up in the next few months," the Kansas senator said.

The senator discussed the wheat situation for almost an hour with the Chief Executive. He said he found Mr. Hoover deeply interested in the problem and sympathetic with the plight of the wheat farmer. He expects to confer with Chairman Legge, of the Farm Board, when the latter returns Monday.

Chicago, July 15 (A.P.).—Alexander Legge, chairman of the Federal Farm Board, said today that the position of the Grain Stabilization Corporation is "practically unchanged" from the June 16 level and that it would be maintained there through the present crop-moving period "unless the price advances to or above the original cost of wheat."

Mr. Legge's statement was made in a telegram to Gov. Clyde M. Reed of Kansas, and was made public together with other correspondence between the two in regard to the Farm Board's wheat policy.

The correspondence included a letter from Mr. Legge replying to the governor's assertion that "the uncertainty of Farm Board policy with respect to its large holdings is one of the most depressing factors in the wheat situation."

In his letter Mr. Legge said the Grain Stabilization Corporation received inquiry for wheat in the Northwest on which millers do not have an option; that the wheat is apparently not available from other sources, and that the corporatoin is filling the order and immediately buying an equal amount.

G. W. Kosack Dies at Hospital

Illness of Month Is Fatal to Capitol Power-Plant Employe.

George W. Kosack, a native of Washington and a descendant of an old Washington family, died yesterday at George Washington Hospital after an illness of a month. He was 62 years old.

While a boy, Mr. Kosack lived next door to Ford's Theater, where Abraham Lincoln was assassinated, and was living at that place when the theater collapsed in 1893. His mother Mrs. Sophie Kosack, was rewarded by the Government for the work she did at the time in tending the wounded.

For the past 27 years, Mr. Kosack was employed by the United States Capitol power plant. He is survived by the widow, Mrs. Sophie Kosack, who has the same first name as Mr. Kosack's mother; four children, Albert and Carl Kosack and Mrs. Dorothy Lohman and Mrs. Elizabeth Greedy, all of Washington; two sisters, Mrs. Caroline Morris, of Bethesda, Md., and Mrs. Nettie Roberts, of Marshall, N. C.; and a brother, Gus Kosack, of Washington.

Funeral services will be held at 2:30 o'clock tomorrow afternoon from the residence, 1616 Potomac avenue southeast. Burial will be at Glenwood Cemetery.

Boy, Woman-Hater, Reenacts Killing

Jersey Youth Tells Police of Sudden Desire to Slay Maid.

Morristown, N. J., July 15 (A.P.).—Unmoved at his predicament, and apparently showing no alarm, 14-year-old Harry Woolsey, jr., was held without bail today when arraigned on a charge of stabbing to death Miss Anna Miller, 23, his mother's maid.

Willingly, and almost gleefully, young Woolsey reenacted the killing for police today, describing in minute detail his movements as he plunged his hunting knife into the maid's back as she stood on Lookout Mountain, near Green Pond, Saturday night.

He interrupted his description at one interval to tell the police that he did not like women. "They are all like cats," he said. Woolsey had gone walking with Miss Miller from his parent's summer home, when, he said, he felt a desire to kill her. Suddenly he plunged his knife into her back, then pursued her, when she ran, stabbing her again and again.

Orville V. Meslar, Morris County prosecutor, said the boy would undergo a sanity test by State alienists tomorrow.

14 KILLED, 250 HURT IN EGYPTIAN RIOTING

Historic Alexandria Square in Shambles Following Fight With Police.

GENERAL STRIKE CALLED

Alexandria, Egypt, July 15 (A.P.).—At least fourteen persons were killed and probably 250 injured in riots which accompanied a general strike here today, called in sympathy with victims of recent political disorders at Mansourah and Bilbeis.

The authorities tonight were attempting to clear up the casualty list. One report said eight Europeans had been killed, one of them an Italian.

Mahomet Ali Square, picturesque center of the city, tonight was walled by shops in which scarcely a window remained unbroken, while debris of various kinds indicated the violence of the day's battle. In the ruin was the chassis of an army motor lorry, fired by the angry rioters, who also had attempted to burn a police station.

The disorders, which grew out of a visit to Mansourah a week ago by former Premier Nahas Pasha, whose Wafd followers are campaigning against King Fuad's government, lasted many hours. The Alexandria Wafd committee had called a two-hour strike. Belligerent youths started the violence by resisting police who attempted to arrest them for smashing windows.

Mahomet Square was the storm center of the disturbance. Here the police found themselves embattled and later the rioting spread to adjoining streets. Police fired on the mobs from roofs. It was stated at first that British troops had been used, but this was denied. Police and Egyptian military tonight patrolled the streets and induced a measure of order.

Cairo, Egypt, July 15 (A.P.).—The Exchange Telegraph Co. reported tonight that Mahomet Ali Square, in Alexandria, had been occupied by a detachment of Egyptian army troops and that reinforcements were being rushed from Cairo.

Today's disorders in Alexandria were precipitated in sympathy with the victims of recent political rioting in Mansourah and Bilbeis. A general strike had been called. The previous disorders followed the resignation of Premier Nahas Pasha, when the king refused to sign a bill which Parliament had passed. The king dissolved Parliament, but Nahas Pasha received a vote of confidence.

Ward deputies and senators, numbering about 500, later met as a self-constituted national assembly and passed resolutions against the king. In subsequent meetings of these political factions police interfered and violence resulted.

SUSPECT IN LINGLE CASE LOSES BATTLE

plotted the death of Lingle because of his alleged friendship for Al Capone.

The county grand jury telegraphed an invitation to Harry T. Brundidge, St. Louis Star correspondent, asking him to name the date when he can come to Chicago and present what testimony he may have of crime conditions in Chicago.

Swanson Answers Churches.

State's Attorney John A. Swanson meanwhile appeared before the Chicago Church Federation's committee on crime, and answered a question put by the churchmen with the assertion: "The reason for the small number of convictions is the lack of evidence."

Mr. Swanson expressed himself as satisfied with the selection of Charles F. Rathbun, a member of the Tribune legal staff, as special assistant to direct the Lingle murder inquiry. He recommended organization of a metropolitan police department to supplement the Chicago, county and suburban village forces.

$4,924,929,233 APPROPRIATIONS ARE UPHELD BY G. O. P. LEADERS

peared with this regime," said Mr. Byrns, gleefully.

The actual total appropriated by the session just closed was $4,924,929,233. This was $23,785,151 less than President Hoover's budget recommended, Mr. Wood said casually, and Mr. Byrns pointed to it as showing the President's part in the "orgy." It was an increase of $208,692,465 over the appropriation of the last previous regular session.

Expenditures Are Listed.

Of this increase, it was explained, $38,343,119 represented the increase of indefinite appropriations, leaving an increase of $170,349,345.

Of this amount $169,104,500 was accounted for by such worthy projects, according to Senator Jones, as:

Farm relief, $100,000,000; construction of rural roads, $32,400,000; river and harbor work, $17,000,000; construction of public buildings and purchase of sites, $19,704,500, a total of $169,104,500. These are not the amounts appropriated for these projects, but increases over previous appropriations.

Senator Jones records as also contributing to the increase the following undertakings which "are wise and necessary:"

Veterans' Bureau, $28,700,000; pilgrimage of the Gold Star Mothers, $5,386,367; commencement of work on Boulder Dam, $10,660,000; to meet growing needs of Postoffice Department, $22,167,352, a total of $66,913,719. It will be seen that the 'individual increases run beyond the aggregate boost, which, Mr. Wood explained, were offset by previous appropriations that were discontinued.

"Two factors primarily enter into the aggregate of the appropriations at this session," said he, "namely, farm relief appropriations and public works and development appropriations to assist in furnishing employment."

Appropriations for the Farm Board, he said, totaled $101,900,000 and another $1,000,000 was given the Department of Agriculture to aid the States in training specialists in economics and marketing.

Public works appropriations were made as follows, he said:

Federal road aid, $129,371,000; sites for public buildings, $60,885,000; for rivers and harbors and flood control works, $103,400,000, and other minor building items to make the total approximately $400,000,000.

The ambition of the program launched at the last session is emphasized by the fact that most of the $900,000,000 authorizations which Mr. Wood said "will be felt for some years to come," are for continuation of the projects for which initial appropriations were made.

It is the largest peace-time appropriation in the history of the country but nothing more than right for the "growing needs of a great and developing country," said Senator Jones.

A commentary on the growing of the country's greatness was the appropriation of $1,700,000 for a new Federal penitentiary; $1,000,000 for new Federal jails, and $750,000 for prison camps. The country is now spending $800,000,000 annually for the veterans of its wars. It appropriated $31,500,000 for the World War veterans at this session, $11,500,000 for the Spanish War veterans and $12,000,000 for the Civil War survivors.

Orgy, Says Byrns.

Mr. Wood reviewed the financial career of the Republicans ever since they got back in office in his statement and concluded in his quaint way:

"This record and the traditional capacity of the Republican party to provide efficient and sane management of the affairs of the Government should commend themselves to every thoughtful citizen."

Many of the appropriations were commendable and worthy, said Mr Byrns, but there is no denying that an orgy is on, thus showing the wide gulf that exists between him and Mr. Wood.

And not only has the President more secretaries than any other President, but Mr. Mellon since 1922, said Mr. Byrns, has given back $2,860,405,898 in tax refunds.

BOY AVIATOR FOUND IN WRECK OF PLANE

Goldsborough, in Coma, His Skull Fractured, Carried Down Mountain Side.

SEARCH ENDS AT DAWN

Bennington, Vt., July 15 (A.P.).—The aviation jinx which hurled his father to death in the barren wastes of the north Atlantic hovered tonight over the unconscious form of Frank Goldsborough, 19-year-old aviator, whose plane crashed into the wild mountainside east of here yesterday.

The youthful aviator, holder of the junior transcontinental flying record, was in a critical condition at Putnam Memorial Hospital, suffering from a fractured skull. An all-night search was conducetd for him and his plane, which now lies in shreds at the side of Woodford Mountain.

The ill-fortune which pursued his father, Brice Goldsborough, one of the party in Mrs. Frances Grayson's The Dawn, lost in 1927 on an attempted transatlantic flight, trailed young Frank yesterday from Buffalo, N. Y. The plane, which was en route to Keene, N. H., with Donald Mockler, lecturer, as a passenger, hurled itself to destruction in a fog-bound forest.

Unconscious All Night.

Young Goldsborough lay unconscious amid the wreckage until 6 o'clock this morning, when searching parties, after a fruitless all-night combing of the wilderness, came upon the wrecked plane and its victim. Mockler, who was thrown clear of the wreckage, brought news of the accident to a farmhouse near here. He had struggled in vain to pull his companion from the plane, and then wandered through thick underbrush for hours before he found help.

Leonard Lawrence and a party of five men found Goldsborough lying beside his plane only after they had combed the dense forest for miles. Their discoverey of his unconscious form was the beginning of an arduous trek through underbrush, boulder-strewn paths and knee-deep fields of mud.

Coats Used for Stretcher.

Two coats taken from the backs of his rescuers served as a stretcher on which the injured flyer was carried for 2 miles to an ambulance. Then a slow, cautious trip was made to the hospital. A surgeon found the youth to be suffering from a fractured skull. This with the long period of exposure and lack of treatment made his condition most critical. As the day wore on, there was apparently no improvement.

The only story of how the accident occurred was given by Mockler, who was going to Keene to keep a speaking engagement. After he had recovered from his long journey and his efforts to aid the searching parties, he told the story.

"The last thing I saw," Mockler said, "was Goldsborough turning off the ignition switch. When I came to I saw the tail and part of the wing of the plane hanging to the tree. Part of the wreckage on the ground covered Goldsborough's head, chest and feet.

Could Not Release Him.

I succeeded in partly freeing his head and chest but his feet were caught in the controls, and, try as I might, I could not release him. Meanwhile, he was unconscious. He was breathing regular and his pulse was regular. I finally left him to search for a house."

Mrs. Gertrude Goldsborough, 35, step-mother of the young aviator, came here from New York City when informed of the accident. She sat up all night in a second vigil for her loved ones. Perhaps because she had been through the heart-rending experience once before, she remained calm. Tonight she was keeping still another vigil, waiting and praying that her late husband's boy might escape his father's fate.

held a crowd of more than 100 at bay outside.

While the three gunmen in the bank hurriedly rifled cash drawers and the vault, their companions on the outside kept the crowd cowed by an occasional burst from their weapons. Sam Evans, an oil station employe, tried to snipe one of the machine gunners from behind a penny scale. It was believed to have been his shot which struck the driver as the robbers were preparing to depart.

In making their exit from the bank building the three bandits used George Robbins, vice president, and Miss Mary Walker, a customer, as shields from possible attack by the crowd which had been attracted by sounding of the burglar alarm.

DRY UNIT CENTERED ON CANADIAN LINES

Bootleggers Are Held Prime Objective of Drive on Eastern Border.

TOURIST TRAFFIC HEAVY

Seymour Lowman, Assistant Secretary of the Treasury in charge of customs, yesterday announced that orders have been issued for a concentration of border patrolmen along the northern borders of New York, Maine and Vermont in an attempt to prevent the smuggling of liquor from Canada.

It is estimated by Treasury officials that as many as 30,000,000 persons will cross the borders of these States from Canada during the present summer and fall. This number includes repeated trips by the same persons into Canada and their return, it is claimed. Most of these persons are expected to travel by automobile.

Mr. Lowman did not say whether he was planning to grab the pint toter, but did emphasize that he was after bootleggers primarily.

A similar concentration was made in the Detroit region some time ago, when conditions became unusually bad there. Any withdrawal of customs patrolmen from the Detroit area naturally will facilitate the activities of bootleggers in that region.

However, Mr. Lowman is expecting the new Canadian law to help materially in preventing shipments in considerable quantities by denial of clearance.

The new border patrol authorized by legislation passed at the recent long session of Congress will be under Mr. Lowman as long as he is in charge of customs. This force is now being organized.

Reports reaching the Treasury indicate that bootleggers have become more active along the New York, Maine and Vermont borders, and the concentration now ordered in that region is intended to frustrate their efforts.

The Coast Guard is not included in the new Border Patrol, although its work is likewise under Mr. Lowman's supervision. That service will continue its efforts to prevent smuggling from the sea.

Mother of Four Asks For Limited Divorce

Charging desertion, Mrs. Mary Louise Shearer, of E street near Fifth southwest, yesterday asked the District Supreme Court for a limited divorce and custody of her children. The petition, filed through Attorney Raymond Nuedecker, accuses the husband, Harry C. Shearer, of cruel and abusive treatment, and association with other women.

The plaintif says that her husband refused to support her and their four children, although he is said to receive an expert plasterer's salary of $65 weekly.

Three Deaths Are Laid To Ptomaine Poisoning

Newton, N. J., July 15 (A.P.).—Three children were dead and three other persons seriously ill today from what the family physician believes to be ptomaine poisoning. The dead, the children of Wilbur Stanton, prosperous Lafayette farmer, are Elizabeth, 13; Fanny, 12, and Alice, 4.

A foster son, William Cortwright, 2, is not expected to recover, and Stanton also is believed near death, but hope is held for the recovery of Mrs. Stanton. Investigation of the weekend diet of the family showed they had eaten preserved meat and ice cream at dinner last night.

NONSTOP ARGENTINA TRIP GOAL OF PLANE

lost to sight. The refueling plane then headed back to this field, but was forced to descend in New Jersey for a new supply of gasolene. Until it returned here, field officials were not certain that the K had at last gotten under way. R. W. Mackie, the supply ship's pilot, told them, however, that when he last saw the K it was speeding southward.

Although the K's crew had planned to take on only three loads of gasolene from the refueling ship here, so much time was consumed in the operations they were forced to ask for the fourth contact, which was made at 7:20 p. m. (E.S.T.).

The ship had 125 gallons of fuel in its tanks when it left Roosevelt Field, making a total of 550 gallons taken on for the jump to Havana, second refueling point on the K's schedule.

Garland Peed, Randy Enslow and Jimmy Garrigan, piloting the monoplane, estimated they would reach Havana in 20 hours.

They hoped to reach Buenos Aires in four days, with Panama, Lima, and Mendoza the other refueling points along their 9,000-mile route.

Enslow, pilot and radio operator, was at the controls when the ship took off. Peed is second pilot and Garrigan relief man.

The K hangared at Roosevelt Field since it landed there May 30 in an unsuccessful effort to fly from New Haven, Conn., to Buenos Aires, was thoroughly overhauled for the present flight.

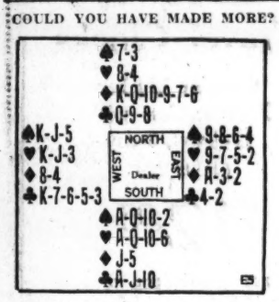
WORK ON BRIDGE

COULD YOU HAVE MADE MORE?



The above hand was played at a number of tables in a game of Duplicate Contract. In some cases the bidding was: South two Spades, West pass, North three Diamonds, East pass, South three No Trumps. In others it was: South one No Trump, West pass, North two or three Diamonds, East pass, South three No Trumps. At all tables South became the ultimate Declarer with a three No Trump contract.

In Auction Bridge South also would have been a No Trump Declarer, playing with a contract of one—or at most two.

In the play West started with his fourth best Club, dummy played the Eight, and at most tables South selected the Jack as the card to play when forced to overtake. The Jack of Diamonds was led to trick 2, and East, of course, permitted it to win. At trick 3 when a second Diamond was led by South, East won because when playing fourth hand he could tell that South had no more Diamonds. East then returned his partner's Club, South played the Ten, West won with the King and established his suit; South perforce winning with the Ace. South then led his Ace and a small Heart; West taking the latter with the Jack and cashing his two Clubs. South discarded two Spades and after that West could make only his King of Hearts; but the adversaries won two Hearts, one Diamond and three Clubs, holding the Declarer to one odd trick.

So slim a result obtained with so powerful hand looked as if Declarer must have let something slip. Did he?

THE CORRECT PLAY.

He certainly did. Dummy was fairly yelling for an entry and the Club Queen could have served in that capacity had South won the first trick with the Ace of Clubs instead of the Jack or Ten. This would have made the adverse King good, but that would have been harmless because Declarer would have secured just as many Club tricks, and the play would have placed a sure entry in the hand which needed it. With the Diamonds established at trick 3 and a Club entry in dummy, nothing the adversaries could do would worry the Declarer; he must take at least one Spade, one Heart, five Diamonds and two Clubs.

Dare Interprets the Mode

Who said trousers for lovely ladies were anything new! (A Dah-ray Idea.)

Paris, July 15.

EVENING coats are such a problem! I have just about come to the conclusion that there is no hope for it * * * you have to have one for each dress!

And as to whether they are to be short or long, large-sleeved or short, furred or not furred * * * I give up! But then I don't have any business giving up on you, have I? So let's think about our evening wraps for the coming fall and winter * * * that's what I'm doing now, because I'm already ordering my clothes for them, because it won't be so many months now before I'll be taking that yearly trip to the U. S. A. * * * (you know, the yearly trip which starts out to be for only a few weeks and so far has always managed to prolong itself into almost a year?)

The first question is, are the short evening wraps going to be worn this fall and winter? Well, where the weather permits they will be worn, because they are too flattering and comfortable and inexpensive to be given up without a murmur. And then, what do lovely ladies care for snow and sleet when their vanity is concerned.

The very light unlined coats and jacquettes that have been worn throughout the summer are going to very often be worn under the heavier wrap throughout the winter, especially in drafty cafes and theaters. Your heavy evening coat will be checked, your little jacquette worn and removed at will.

• • • •

It may be a hot summer day when you read this, and weak as you are you won't care much whether your house is looking its best or not. But then will come fall and winter and you'll take a quick look, maybe a little dismayed and wish to goodness you had sent a self-addressed envelope that hot day for the Dah-ray leaflet on home decorating and new ideas and paint tricks. Well, you can send it now to the Dare Department of The Washington Post and you won't be able to then!

• • • •

The next time some one rants and growls in his beard about modern women wearing trousers, find you a sketch or snapshot of Miladi Elegante of a couple of centuries ago, one even. Or maybe cut out the one I made for you today, and sorta thumbtack it to the wall.

"Ah, there is nothing new under the sun," said he!

• • • •

Don't be a Color-Goopie! Know your colors and yourself and how you and your colors go together, and there's no reason not to know it when a whole leaflet on the subject is waiting for your stamped self-addressed envelope, at the Dare Department of The Washington Post. This week the leaflet is for blondes, "red-heads" and white-haired types * * * does that mean you?

But whatever your shade of hair, you will enjoy the weekly Dare Fashion Letter in The Sunday Washington Post.

CANTERBURY BELLS IN MIDSUMMER.

Now that we are experiencing the hot, dry weather of midsummer, you must give some definite attention to your Canterbury bells if you would have them continue to bedeck your walks and borders with their winsome bells.

Each day you must give them a real soaking with clear water, and you should mulch them also. There is a choice of several materials for mulching. You can use peat moss, well-rotted cow manure, leafmold or lawn clippings. Any of these materials will prove a great aid in retaining the moisture which is so necessary to the welfare of all the members of the bell-flower family.

At all times keep the dead flowers and yellow leaves removed. This will not only aid in the attractiveness of your border, but will encourage the development of other flowers.

Never leave the work of staking and tying until the plants become top-heavy and begin to droop or have become broken by high winds or dashing rains. Damage done by storms to neglect plants often cripples them for the rest of the season.

Always avoid tying Canterbury bells in shapeless bundles. It is much more natural to have them laced up neatly, or a stake given to each strong stem and placed in the ground at angles which will keep the plant open and thus permit light and air to penetrate.

For the last few years the Canterbury bells have been irresistible. The Campanula family can not have too much said in its favor and these plants are so easy to raise. For the rock garden, which is never complete without a few bell flowers, it is better to plant dwarf varieties. But for general planting in the border Canterbury bells is the variety that you will want. These are so varied in color that you will hardly know which you like best, the white, pink or blue. My advice is to have always, when possible, a few of each since they never clash with their neighbors or with each other.

Most of the varieties, especially the taller ones, require winter protection, for if not protected the winter snows will flatten the crown of leaves to the ground, causing it to decay. Forest leaves should be packed between the plants with one hand, while the leaves of the Campanula are held together with the other.

Most of the campanulas are biennials. For this reason seed must be sown each year in order to have blooming plants the following year. You should sow the seed between May and August.

All readers' questions on growing and care of indoor and outdoor flowers and floral decorations for social functions will be answered by Miss Kift, directly in this column if addressed in care of The Washington Post, or directly to readers if a self-addressed, stamped envelope is supplied.

What Today Means to You

By MARY BLAKE

WHAT TODAY MEANS TO YOU.
"CANCER."

IF July 16 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 9:30 a. m. to 10:30 a. m., 3:30 p. m. to 4:30 p. m., and 10 p. m. to 11 p. m. The danger periods are from 11 a. m. to noon, and 6 p. m. to 7:30 p. m.

Powerful influences wil be in force on this date, which will lead to all manner of excesses, and scandal will be rife. Many journeys taken, and the signs are auspicious for such. Extravagant tendencies. Financial world good.

The child born on this July 16 will have a domestic temperament and cling to parental ties. It will be loyal, faithful and conscientious, but too shy to become popular or to enjoy sociability. It will be passionately fond of animals.

You are a delightful being, but not an ambitious one, and you will drift with the stream. You seek ease, leisure, comfort and security, and you only "buckle into things" to enable you to have these. Work in itself holds forth no attraction to you. You frankly like "cushy" jobs, and you shake off all unnecessary obligations and responsibilities. You are too kind-hearted and warmly sympathetic to be cruel to any one, and you yield to right influences, tactfully administered.

You will never become a typically self-made man or woman, but you may climb to a considerable height, if dynamic forces are behind you, and magnetic ones pulling you. The right man or woman may so disturb your lethargy that you will wake up and show the world what you really can do. The wrong man or women, however, will kill the last spark of ambition, and you will slide down the ladder. Choose your exact opposite.

Your have a good will power when you care to use it, but it is usually only displayed in a negative way, when you do not want to do something and stubbornly resist. It is not the driving force it should be. You have a very stable nervous system, and are not addicted to worry. You will never be very unhappy, no matter what happens. You are easily amused, and laugh with, and not at, the world.

Uncle Sam's Home Hints

STARCH PASTE.

(Division of Textiles and Clothing.)

Two to six tablespoons corn starch.
One-third cup cold water.
Half teaspoon lard, paraffin, or any white wax.
One quart boiling water.

Mix the starch and part of the cold water, and stir into the boiling water in a double boiler. Use the remaining water to rinse out the adhering starch. Add the lard, or white wax, and cook for 15 to 20 minutes. Strain if lumps have formed. However, if care is taken there should be no lumps.

Starch garments wrong side out, and leave them so until they are sprinkled. For white clothes use the starch as hot as the hands can stand. Hot starch penetrates better and more evenly, and does not leave glazed spots when ironed. Keep the bulk of the starch hot and use only a part of it at a time, replacing it frequently when it becomes cold and thin. More satisfactory results are obtained by having two pans or starch, besides the reserve supply. Dilute one with enough water to make a good paste for the thinner materials, and keep the other sufficiently thick for the heavier.

Starch first those garments which are to be stiffest. Garments wrung very dry before starching will be stiffer than wetter ones.

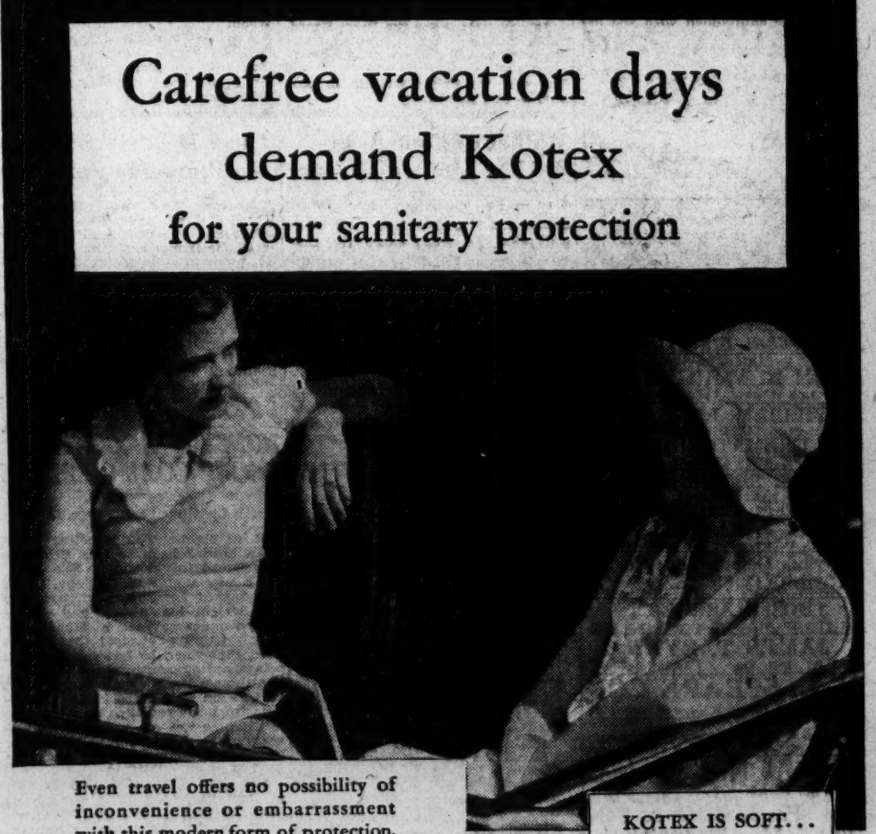
Carefree vacation days demand Kotex for your sanitary protection



Even travel offers no possibility of inconvenience or embarrassment with this modern form of protection.

ENJOY every day of your vacation, free from any thought of discomfort or inconvenience. Kotex removes all the old worries that used to interfere with carefree days.

Kotex can be disposed of instantly and completely. And you can buy it anywhere you may go. It is the favored sanitary protection of smart and dainty women all over the civilized world.

Freedom for sports

Kotex assures perfect freedom for sports, because it is so light and cool, and so carefully shaped. The corners are rounded for perfect fit. This makes Kotex inconspicuous under the lightest frock.

Kotex is made of Cellucotton (not cotton) absorbent wadding, the identical material used by 85% of America's leading hospitals. It absorbs five times more than cotton, which means your Kotex pad can be five times as light as any cotton pad.

Stays soft for hours

And Kotex stays light and fluffy for hours. This is because of its unusual construction. It is made of filmy layers of Cellucotton, which permit free circulation of air.

Kotex deodorizes, so doubly important in warm weather. The deodorant used is safe, gentle and soothing.

Try Kotex. Buy it at any drug or department store — just ask for "a package of Kotex." Kotex Company, Chicago, Illinois.

KOTEX IS SOFT...

1—Not a deceptive softness, that soon packs into chafing hardness. But a delicate, lasting softness.

2—Kotex filler is far lighter and cooler than cotton, yet absorbs 5 times as much.

3—Deodorizes... safely, thoroughly, by a special process.

4—Disposable, instantly, completely.

Regular Kotex—45c for 12
Kotex Super-Size—65c for 12

COMMUNITY CHEST DESIRES NEW HOME

Trustees Lay Plans to Get Offices for That Body and Various Units.

STREET IS REELECTED

Plans for central officing of the Community Chest and organizations connected with it which maintain offices instead of institutions will be worked out by H. L. Rust, jr., and a committee of his own selection, according to resolutions adopted at a meeting of the board of trustees of the Community Chest at the United States Chamber of Commerce Building yesterday. The resolutions specified that Clarence A. Aspinwall, chairman of the committee on office management, should be a member of Mr. Rust's committee.

The committee will consider two plans. The first would embrace enough offices in some building already established which would take care of the Chest and affiliated organizations' needs. The second would be the building of a social service building, such as is now found in several of the larger cities. Either plan, it is pointed out, would entail economies of operation for all parties concerned, making common telephone switchboards, meeting rooms and other conveniences available to all at decreased cost. The report will report back at a later meeting.

Elwood Street, director of the Chest, was unanimously reelected for another year. Following the election, President John Poole called attention to Mr. Street's excellent record as a Chest executive and expressed himself as highly pleased that Washington had been able to obtain the services of a man of such experience.

Enlargement of the budget committee to a minimum of 25 persons also was voted by the trustees. It was specified that the president shall appoint one more member to give a majority of one to the social service organizations represented on the committee.

The new committee is composed as follows:

Corcoran Thom, chairman; Miss Margaret Fox, Harry Kling, Mrs. H. H. Flather, Arthur May, A. C. Moses, Allen Pope, Mrs. Charles A. Goldsmith, Rudolph Jose, Mrs. Joshua Evans, jr., E. J. Murphy, Mrs. Joseph N. Sanders, Henry W. Sohon, Mrs. Joseph M. Stoddard, and S. W. Rutherford, representing the constituent organizations.

Representing the contributors are Mrs. Whitman Cross, Dr. Charles P. Neill, D. N. Burnham, Hugh A. Thrift, Wayne Kendrick, William Montgomery, Simon Lvon, James A. Councilor, Robert V. Fleming, Mrs. John Jay O'Connor, Dwight Clark, and E. C. Graham.

Short speeches were made by Ernest S. Johnston, chairman of the Chest publicity committee, and Joseph D. Kaufman, chairman of the speakers' bureau unit. Treasurer Robert V. Fleming was authorized to appoint assistant treasurers to handle the signing of checks during his absence.

Viscountess Is Jailed; Faked Birth of Heir

Madrid, July 15 (A.P.).—Because she simulated the birth of a very much wanted heir, the Viscountess San Antonio was sentenced today to four years in prison and a fine of 10,000 pesetas. The fraud was perpetrated after her husband died and was motivated, according to the authorities, to obtain control of his wealth.

The midwife and the child's real mother were sentenced to four and two years in prison, respectively, as accessories.

Lightning Kills Baby in Arms.

EMPLOYES TO SHARE IN COMPANY PROFITS

Packard Auto Distribution to All Workers of Year or Longer.

WILL REVIEW BUSINESS

Profit-sharing checks will be distributed to 118 employes of the Packard Washington Co. at their thirteenth semiannual meeting tonight, it was announced last night by Oscar Coolican, president of the company. The checks will be given to each employe who has been with the company for one year or more.

About 140 employes in all branches of the company will attend the meeting, which has been held twice each year since 1923. Heads of the various departments are to survey conditions under their direct supervision as related to activities in other departments, and Mr. Coolican will outline the business situation in the automotive industry in Washington as compared with the general business picture of the country.

When the meetings first were started seven years ago, Mr. Coolican pointed out, there were only 35 employes of the company, while the present roster contains four times that many names. Mr. Coolican added that it has been possible for the company to distribute profit-sharing dividends to the employes at each of the twelve meetings previously held.

In addition to the two-week vacation given to salaried employes, the company also is giving one-week vacations with full pay to all mechanics paid on an hourly basis who have been with the company six months or more, Mr. Coolican said.

Broker Indicted In Court Slaying

Judge Tells Coroner's Jury He Saw Shots Fired at Financier.

Los Angeles, July 15 (A.P.).—The county grand jury today indicted Frank D. Keaton, real estate broker, for the murder of Motley H. Flint, financier, in a superior courtroom here yesterday. The grand jury's action followed a verdict by a coroner's jury, which held Flint "came to his death as the result of gunshot wounds inflicted with homicidal intent" by Keaton.

Keaton did not testify, the grand jury acting without calling him while the coroner's jury summoned him to testify, but he refused, explaining, "I just haven't anything to say."

Among the witnesses before the coroner's jury was Judge Collier, who said he saw Keaton fire three bullets as Flint completed his testimony in civil action. Two detectives said Keaton told them he shot Flint because he believed him responsible for his stock market losses.

30 Are Hurt in Wreck Of Two English Trains

Grimsby, England, July 15 (A.P.).—More than 30 persons were sent to hospitals following collision of two passenger trains in the station here today.

A train from New Holland, Lincolnshire, crashed into the rear of a train from Sheffield. The injured, including many women and children, were those in the rear coach of the Sheffield train and the first coach of the New Holland train. A misunderstanding of train orders was thought to have been the cause of the accident.

FORESIGHT—an essential of statesmanship and of good cigarette-making too.

KNOWING WHAT SMOKERS WANT—and giving it to them in fullest measure—that's the sound basis on which Chesterfield's popularity has been built.

GOOD TOBACCOS, accurately blended — cigarettes of uniformly good quality and satisfying taste; no wonder that every day sees more and more smokers changing to this skilful blend of quality tobaccos . . . for mildness and for better taste.

We state it as our honest belief that the tobaccos used in Chesterfield cigarettes are of finer quality and hence of better taste than in any other cigarette at the price.

KEEN and ALERT at "FOUR"!

the day's grind demands men of unusual Vitality

"Oh! fine"

you want to feel the same way

BUSINESS today requires that the successful man be physically fit and mentally alert.

Men, especially, forget themselves physically. Their work demands practically all their time. They do not exercise enough. They get little or no sunshine. They are robbed of a good appetite . . . and when their red-blood-cells fall below normal their flesh becomes flabby, their nerves unsteady. Their strength must be reinforced.

Soundness of body and peace of mind depend upon the proper number of red-cells in the blood—5,000,000 to the cubic millimeter. They give blood its color and are carriers of nourishment to every part of the body. It is dangerous to let the red-cell count remain below normal.

With an increase in the red-blood-cells, you will be on the right road to Health. This is Nature's way to body power and to clear skin. Naturally, with your strength restored, it is easier to fight disease and infection; to enjoy your food and to sleep soundly. When firm flesh takes the place of that which was once flabby, you will feel strong—your nerves will become steady—more happiness and friends will follow.

S.S.S. has been a blessing to millions who have taken advantage of its wonderful medicinal properties. It helps Nature build rich, red-blood-cells. It promotes healthy body building.

You will be pleased to know that S.S.S. is made from strictly fresh vegetable drugs. It is easily assimilated. Pleasant to take.

S.S.S.

Is taken by many people at least once a year to keep their blood in good condition. Seek energy, vitality and the blessings of good health through this time-tested remedy which has been on the market over 100 years. Take at mealtimes. S.S.S. is on sale at all good drug stores in two sizes. Ask for the larger size. It is more economical. © S.S.S. Co.

ABSENTEE SENATORS.

Without regard to the merits or demerits of the London Naval Treaty, the public is disgusted with the manner in which senators are shirking their duty in regard to the pact. For several days only 49 senators were present at the daily sessions. Now there are about 60 on hand. Thirty-six senators are absent. Making allowance for those who are unable to attend, by reason of illness, it is evident that many senators are deliberately neglecting their official duty.

The public has a right to expect better service from its official representatives. They are well paid, and they accept service voluntarily. Not one of them is a senator against his will. If the duties of the office are such as to interfere with summer pleasures, all that the absentees need to do is to resign. The governors will gladly fill their places with deserving young men, who will cheerfully undergo the torture of attending to the public business.

It will be interesting to observe how many of the absentees refuse to draw mileage for the extra session which they are not attending.

Only nineteen States are fully represented in the Senate at this time, when the national security and naval limitation are under consideration. Twenty-one States have but one representative each. Eight States are entirely without representation.

This showing is a reproach to the Senate. It may explain, in part, why the Senate has lost prestige with the people.

Enactment of the tariff bill was inexcusably delayed in the Senate, greatly to the distress and damage of the business interests of the country. Many senators, sufficient at one time to constitute a majority, were so eager to play politics with the Nation's business that they worked havoc with industrial plans that would have gone far to overcome unemployment. Great hardship was imposed upon families whose breadwinners were anxious to work and who were denied it, because industry did not dare to execute its plans while the tariff was in doubt.

The naval treaty, as compared with the tariff, does not so nearly touch the question of national recovery from industrial depression, but it ought to be even more exempt from political exploitation and senatorial neglect of duty. The country is sick and tired of Senate wrangling and procrastination. Some of the speeches for and against the treaty have been tedious repetitions of meaningless figures, twisted about to suit the purposes of the speakers, but utterly unconvincing. The public does not read this stuff. These speeches are a waste of time and public money.

The wrangle over the Norris reservation is a senseless performance. This reservation would declare that the Senate ratifies the treaty on the distinct understanding that there are no secret agreements, and that the treaty is what it purports to be. Inasmuch as the President of the United States has repeatedly assured the Senate and the country that there are no secret agreements or secret interpretations of the treaty, the Norris reservation is mere silliness, and debate upon it is still more silly. It should be thrown in the wastebasket without debate.

UNREGULATED TAXICABS.

The rapid multiplication of taxicabs on the streets of Washington during recent months is cause for public concern. Introduction of the 35-cent fare for service within the city has brought such a radical change in the taxicab business that some sort of regulation is imperative.

Now comes a new fleet of 5-cent cabs on the streets. A taxicab war is in the offing. Government clerks and low-salaried men in many lines of business are operating their private cars for hire during spare hours. The lack of regulation is bringing the business to a sorry disintegration.

The chief concern of the public is safety and adequate service. With 1 person out of every 126 operating a cab of some kind there seems to be no possibility of inadequate service, but this very factor means greater danger for the public. The excessive number of irresponsible hack drivers in the business may tend to drive the more responsible companies out of the field, because irresponsibility makes it possible to operate at a lower cost. In the interests of public safety financial responsibility for accidents and injuries should be required of all public carriers of this class.

A bill that would have given the Public Utilities Commission control over the situation failed in the House at the close of the last session because of a single objection. The Senate passed the bill and the House would doubtless have done so had it come to a vote. When Congress meets in December the bill should be reintroduced and placed on the calendar with other urgent measures. In the meantime the public must look out for its own protection by demanding financial responsibility of the drivers it patronizes.

MR. HOOVER'S TRIP.

It is gratifying to find that President Hoover has not given up his trip to the West. Ever since early spring the President and Mrs. Hoover have been looking forward to a trip to the national parks. Even though it has been necessary to alter the original plans, the jaunt will give the President and his party a real vacation.

Mr. Hoover has disregarded the counsel of some political advisers who thought it unwise for him to go West in view of the agricultural situation. The idea that the President might not be accorded a cordial welcome in the West is preposterous. His visit to that section would unquestionably work to the national benefit by his mere comingling with the people.

Congress adjourned its session later than was expected, and the special treaty session is dragging along at a pace that makes it impossible for the President to spend much of the summer away from Washington. Last year he remained at the White House all summer, getting away only on week-end excursions to his camp on the Rapidan. He needs a vacation, and it is to be regretted that he can not find time to spend a month in the beautiful mountain scenery of the West.

Chambers of commerce and other agencies that have asked the President to speak during his jaunt would do well to press their requests no further. A speaking tour is not a vacation, and it is rest and recreation that the President seeks. Now that it is definitely clear that he will not occupy the speaker's platform, the trip can be planned with the true vacation spirit.

CURTAILED ACREAGE AND THE TARIFF.

Senator Capper surely did not expect President Hoover to grant his request that the Farm Board be ordered to purchase an additional 1,000,000 bushels of wheat to "relieve the present serious emergency." While the situation today, with wheat selling at beneath the 1914 price, calls for drastic action if action of any sort is possible, the folly of purchasing and withdrawing from the market supplies of any commodity in the interest of improving price has been frequently exposed—the mere fact that the Farm Board's purchases of six months ago did not result in a pegged price shows the futility of attempting to deflect natural economic law. It demonstrates, too, that the agricultural problem is chronic and that it is not susceptible to amelioration through the adoption of temporary expedients.

Acreage curtailment until agricultural production is adjusted to internal demand holds the only promise of farm relief. The farmers, however, as Chairman Legge has discovered during his barnstorming tour of the wheat belt, bitterly oppose the program of acreage curtailment as sponsored by the Farm Board. The board counsels a general curtailment of 10 per cent. The case against this proposal is ably stated by J. V. Stevenson, an Illinois farmer, in Capper's Farmer for August. He says:

> The weakest part of the program of the Farm Board is its insistence on a flat reduction in crop acreage. Our national crop acreage could well be reduced at this time, but it should be done according to a well-ordered program and not just left to the inclination of individual farmers. Much land is being cropped that should be taken out of cultivation. It is marginal land that never can be cultivated at a profit. Some plan should be worked out by the Government to take over this land and reforest or seed it.

Mr. Stevenson asks what the farmer might substitute for wheat in the event he determines to go along with the Farm Board? The alternative crops—corn, oats, barley and soy beans—are all burdened with a surplus, or dangerously near that point, and if the acreage is turned over to pasturage to support more live stock, the burden of the dairying and the meat packing industries will be increased. "To let productive land lie idle," he says, "is out of the question. Nothing is surer than that every year interest and taxes must be paid on all acres. Will the Federal Land Bank," he asks, "overlook the interest payment on my idle acres if I follow the advice of the Farm Board?" Mr. Stevenson wants the Government to create "a wheat reserve to tide us over the lean years that are bound to come."

But lean years seldom materialize. Agriculture today is a world industry; a lean year in a localized area calls merely for the transportation of foodstuffs from plentiful areas. It is far better for agriculture that a community depend upon drawing from areas of plenty during lean years than to pile up a commodity reserve that will keep prices down.

Possibly blanket reductions of acreage are not wise, but the farm price level will never be raised until the production of foodstuffs is adjusted, as is the production of automobiles or any other commodity, to the ability of the people to consume. When there is no surplus, the tariff on foreign foodstuff operates to the farmer's benefit. Senator Capper, himself, is authority for the statement that the farm income of the United States is around $12,000,000,000 to $13,000,000,000 a year, and that the United States buys in some years as much as $2,000,000,000 worth of farm products from foreign countries. Every dollar's worth of home-grown products sold in the United States in place of foreign grown products is that much gain for American agriculture. Under the Smoot-Hawley act, says Senator Capper, American farmers should be able to sell between $350,000,000 and $400,000,000 more of their products in the domestic market than they now do. If this result obtains, American agriculture will benefit to the extent of $250,000,000 a year.

THE PRICE OF BREAD.

Chairman Legge is not the only member of the Farm Board who is "in bad." Sam R. McKelvie is another. Mr. McKelvie has noticed, as has every one else who has occasion to buy a loaf of bread, that the reduction in price of wheat has not affected the price of the bread so far as the purchaser has noticed up to date. He might have gone further and discovered that there has been a rise, instead of a fall, in the price of breakfast rolls, in some communities—in Washington, for instance—during the continuance of the "falling market."

Mr. McKelvie, in a recent statement, asserted that "it makes no difference in the price of bread whether the farmer received a dollar or a dollar and a half per bushel for his wheat." This statement has aroused the Northwestern Miller's ire. That organ of the flour manufacturers asserts that the difference of 50 per cent in the price of wheat would affect the price of a loaf to the extent of only 1 cent, anyway, and it intimates that some time must elapse before even this adjustment can be arranged. Mr. McKelvie points out that there has been even a wider spread than that between one dollar and a dollar and a half per bushel in the price of wheat, and he asks the consumer: "What are you paying for bread today compared with the price a year ago?"

"The price of wheat is low," says Mr. McKelvie. "Therefore, if we can secure a correspondingly low price for bread and thereby enhance consumption of wheat, not only will we have benefited the consumer but also some ultimate benefit may accrue to the producer."

The Park Board is considering the possibility of standardizing streets. Well, starting with a filling station at each end and with midget golf courses down each side, it oughtn't to be difficult.

A STUDENT OF CRIME

From the London Times.

Dr. James Devon, of Glasgow, a medical officer in Scottish prisons since 1895, yesterday gave evidence before the select committee of the House of Commons which is considering the capital punishment bill.

Dr. Devon, who for sixteen years served as one of the prison commissioners for Scotland, said: "There is a tendency today to treat the criminal too much from the standpoint of the criminal and too little from the standpoint of the community. There is more attention paid to the comfort of the rogue than to the comfort of the decent man. There is a dangerous section of criminals only deterred by the fear of death. If you abolish capital punishment you would have more decent people killed and more wretches kept alive. There are people with no moral or social sense quite prepared to do anything if their necks are safe."

Dr. Devon added that there was too much glorification of the criminal, and his cowardly character was left out of consideration. He did not think the law should distinguish between murderers on the ground of their sex. "It is possible to hang the wrong man," he said, "but that is not sufficient reason for deciding that on no account will we ever hang the right one." There was nothing in his work he detested more than executions, "but I have never been one to think that not liking your job is any good reason for not doing it."

A man was not daft because he did daft things, and he was not wise because he did a wise thing. If they went through the individual cases of murder they found they were dealing with a small number of fools who had to be pulled up. He cited cases of murder where drink had played a prominent part, and the chairman (the Rev. James Barr) asked if drink was responsible in a great many cases of murder.

Dr. Devon—The curious thing is that in the old days there was serious drinking, but the younger generation today is showing a greater recklessness and premeditation for evil than the old one. The prisons are not filled with drunkards today, but with teetotalers—not all, of course—and they are filled with a rotten bad lot.

The Rev. James Barr—You are not suggesting that teetotalers are more inclined——

Dr. Devon—I am not suggesting that it was teetotalism in any other sense than it was drunkenness. You see drunkenness in the old days did one good thing—it gave a man a sore head afterwards and made him think. Nowadays young people get drunk on the pictures and God knows what else, and their attitude toward life is appalling.

Dr. Devon said that he had been too long in prison life to have any great belief in the reforming influence of imprisonment. People must reform themselves. Whenever people tried to reform others they made a mess of it. He agreed that executions were horrible things, but you had to do horrible things in this world in order to preserve the health of the world.

Dr. Ethel Bentham asked Dr. Devon what kind of people were those who he said were only deterred by the fear of death.

Dr. Devon—They are people who have taken a wrong mental attitude toward life. Take the young criminals. If they are accused of taking money they say they are only doing what millionaires are doing in another form. Then again they are braggarts and say, "I did not ask to be brought into the world." In short, they think they are talking philosophically when they are only talking nonsense. It is the result of an evil egoism, and instead of pampering them you want to give them a "dot on the lug"—they understand that answer. (Laughter.)

Dr. Ethel Bentham—Did you find many abnormal people among the prisoners?

Dr. Devon—No. I found as many abnormal people among the officials as I found among the criminals. (Laughter.)

WHY ARE COLLARS?

Collars are a nuisance, says the Edmonton Journal. Much has been written about the illogic of man's dress, about trousers that are ugly, coats that are hot, socks that are always slipping down; but of the twenty-odd items of apparel (counting collar buttons), that a man wears at business, collars take the palm for inadequacy.

There have been several reasons advanced for the continued use of the collar. Some say that it is a relic of that age when men wore brazen bands about their necks as evidence of their slavery, and that the survival is due to the insistence of the modern woman that her husband put his collar on when company comes, to show that bondage still. There is evidence for this argument in the fact that the man usually puts his collar on. Others say that the collar really began with the male use of ruffs in the Tudor age when men were too busy to wash their necks.

But such arguments stand on more or less flimsy ground. The real source of the collar seems to have been in Adam's attempt to conceal the fact that he could not swallow everything his wife handed him. There was a bit of fruit, you remember, that lodged in his neck.

THOUGHTS ON A HOT DAY.

In summer time when skies are blue,
Where winds are cool and sweet,
'Tis nice to loaf the long day through,
But men on weary feet
Go marching down the road all day
And may not put their cares away.

They may not put their burdens down,
Or quit their tollsome tasks,
'Tis theirs to trudge the sweltering town
And do what duty asks.
To haunts were cooling breezes blow
The sweltering thousands may not go.

Sometimes when in the shade I lie,
Contented and serene,
I see the toilers trudging by—
An endless shifting scene—
And wish that I could set them free
To come and rest and dream with me.

'Tis theirs to brave the sweltering heat
Where never breeze goes by,
I hear them trudging through the street,
I hear tired mothers sigh
And wonder what God thinks about
The way His joys are parceled out.

When Cameras Are Given Away, There Is Work for Those Who Make Films.

By ROBERT QUILLEN

HERE is a little lesson in economics that every boy in America should learn, and learn quickly, for his whole future will be affected by it.

It begins with the invention of machines.

Machines reduced manufacturing costs and thus enabled employers to pay higher wages.

When the workers received high wages, they bought comforts and luxuries in abundance and kept the machines busy.

But now the limit has been reached.

Machines have multiplied and increased their speed until they now produce more than the highly-paid worker can consume.

The manufacturers must find a new outlet for their surplus or the wheels will stop and workers will be idle.

"The solution of the problem is simple," says the average man; "develop foreign markets."

The solution isn't that simple, however, for two reasons: first, because manufacturers in other lands are competing for those same foreign markets; and, second, because the worker in foreign lands receives small wages and therefore isn't able to consume much more than his own country produces.

In short, the foreign market isn't much of a market.

The best market in the world is here in America, where wages are high.

The obvious solution, then, is to increase the market here in America—to increase the number of consumers in this land of easy money.

There are just two ways to do it—by birth and by immigration—and the birth rate is steadily decreasing.

That means the only hope is in immigration—the right kind of immigration.

Consumers must be brought to market.

The alien who can't buy at home because his wages are low must be brought to a land where he can earn high wages and consume much.

"But," objects the average man, "this alien will demand a job and jobs are scarce now."

Yes, they are scarce—because this alien isn't consuming as much as he should.

He will take only one job in America, but he will bring a family of consumers to help keep the wheels turning.

The right kind of immigrants made America.

More of the right kind, given high wages, will provide the consumers on whom every man's job depends.

THE ONCE OVER

By H. I. PHILLIPS

A REAL SUMMER RELIEF FUND.

This is to announce the inauguration of the Fresh Air Fund for the Country's Neediest Cases. Nearly everybody is running a fresh air fund these torrid days, but most of the beneficiaries are picked by the catch-as-catch-can plan. No attempt is made to reach the outstanding cases of persons in dire need of rest. This column in conducting the fund will submit the neediest cases in batches of three or four. Those offered today are:

1. Herbert Hoover.
2. Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd.
3. Bobby Jones.

These three persons need a rest as few people in the land need one. Your contributions will help send them away to a quiet spot, far from the madding throng, the glare of the spotlight and the roar of the linotype machines. Their plight is urgent. Send in your mite now.

CASE NO. 1.

The case of Herbert Hoover is a most pathetic one. Once a happy and contented man, reverses set in about two years ago and before he could disentangle himself he was President of the United States. To make matters worse, Mr. Hoover found himself a President of the United States during a business recession. Clad only in a hair shirt and suffering miserably, Mr. Hoover could only hope that kind friends might save him, but they have taken the attitude that when a man gets caught in a job like the Presidency it is his own fault.

Five thousand dollars will be sufficient to whisk him away to the hills, where he can't be reached to lay a corner stone, fight for a naval treaty, or shake hands with strangers.

Won't you help?

Nobody in America today is in such urgent need of relief as Rear Admiral Byrd. Unless rescued immediately from reception committees his complete collapse is certain. About $8,000 will be needed to get Admiral Byrd away from it all. It will cost more to get him away than Mr. Hoover, because it will require about $3,500 to dig the admiral out from under the medals, scrolls, honorary degrees, cups, &c., heaped upon him by American communities.

Admiral Byrd wants to be taken at once to some spot where there are no toastmasters. Help save Admiral Byrd while he is still worth saving.

CASE NO. 3.

Robert Tyre Jones appears to be doing very well, but he is really in a bad way. There are times when Mr. Jones would give anything if he had never taken up golf. It has robbed him of all privacy, all quiet, all peace. He wants to be sent away where there are just birds and bees and flowers—some place where he can see a mooly cow. About $4,000 will take care of Mr. Jones.

The fund now stands:

A Friend	$1.00
Mustapha Kemel	.10
Two Little Girls	.05
William Chenery	1.15
Anonymous	.03
Total	$2.33

(Other cases later. Don't miss this worthy charity.)

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Progress in Avoiding Wasteful Methods of Oil and Gasoline Production — Better Automobile Engines Needed.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: This country is profligate in the matter of oil along three fronts: Only a portion of the oil in a field is ever brought to the surface; only a percentage of the gasoline and lubricant in a barrel of crude oil is recovered, and only a small part of the work that should be obtained from a gallon of gasoline is obtained from the modern engine. If the country is to receive full value from its oil resources, methods of recovery, refining and utilization will have to be improved.

At present, the opening of an oil field marks the inauguration of a race to see who can get his wells in first and who can pump out the most oil in the shortest space of time, whether the market is capable of absorbing the increased production or not. Unit operation, however, as now proposed by the Government, presupposes operation only when there is a demand for the product. The field is exploited as a unit, its various owners sharing in the profit upon a proportionate basis. If unit operation proves successful in California it probably will be copied elsewhere.

Hydrogenation of crude oil, a process developed by the Standard Oil Co. of New Jersey in cooperation with the German I. G. Farbenindustrie, promises to result in greater economy in the recovery of gasoline. The process, it is said, makes possible the recovery of two barrels of gasoline where only one is recovered under present methods, and gives promise of making possible the recovery of 100 barrels of gasoline from every 100 barrels of crude, instead of only 45, as heretofore recovered with stills and cracking coils. The hydregenation process has been taken over by the newly organized Hydro Patents Co., which is owned by eighteen oil companies representing 80 per cent of the refining capacity of the United States. Further development of hydrogenation promises to mark the end of wasteful practices in the refining of crude.

Until a genuine step is taken toward the development of a truly economical gasoline engine, however, the country will continue to waste its oil resources. Although motor car manufacturers stress the operating efficiency of their engines, the fact remains that very little progress toward true fuel economy has been made. The best minds of the manufacturing industry ought to get busy on improved types of gas motors.

Last Survivor of the War of Independence Said to Be D. F. Bakeman, Not John Gray.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The article in Sunday's Post about John Gray, "the last survivor of the War of Independence," was interesting, but I wish to point out that there is positive evidence that John Gray, of Cumberland, Ohio, who died March 29, 1868, was not the last survivor of the Revolution. That honor belongs to D. F. Bakeman, who died at Freedom, N. Y., in 1869.

The following statement is from "Nuggets of Knowledge," by George W. Stimpson:

"According to the U. S. Bureau of Pensions, Daniel Frederick Bakeman, who died at Freedom, N. Y., in 1869, was the last survivor of the Revolutionary War. He was 109 years 8 months and 8 days old at the time of his death. Bakeman served during the last four years of the Revolution with the New York troops under Capt. Van Arnum and Col. Marinus Willett. On Washington's birthday, 1867, two years before the veteran's death, Congress passed 'an act for the relief of Daniel Frederick Bakeman, a Revolutionary soldier.' This law provided 'that the Secretary of the Interior be, and he is hereby, directed to place the name of Daniel Frederick Bakeman, of Sandusky, New York, upon the pension rolls, and that there be paid to said Daniel Frederick Bakeman, out of any money in the Treasury not otherwise appropriated, the sum of $500 per annum during his natural life, payable semiannually, commencing on the first day of July, 1866.'"

John Gray may have been the last survivor of those who served immediately under Washington, but he was not the last survivor of the Revolution.

"Fanatics" Described as Those Who Inculcate Disrespect for Law.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: I have been reading The Post for many years and appreciate the high order of the paper and its editorials. On the whole, I like your editorial on "New Prohibition Policy" in the issue of July 10.

But will you please permit me to make a friendly comment on this statement? "If the drys will let Mr. Woodcock carry through a campaign of 'steady pressure,' there is a possibility that he will make a better record than have his predecessors, who were themselves subjected to 'steady pressure' from fanatics who demanded that prohibition be enforced with fire and sword."

It is certainly true that too many "fanatics" among the drys have made the mistake of demanding a "fire and sword" policy of enforcement, but these have been the exceptions and not the rule. In my opinion, there are three other classes of "fanatics" who have done more to harass prohibition enforcement than the dry kind:

First—A certain type of rich element who set a bad example by flaunting the law by ostentatious drinking practices.

Second—Almost treasonable utterances of prominent individuals who decry the law and some of whom have declared that a man is not bound to obey a law in which he does not believe.

Third—A type of always wet newspaper in the large, always wet cities, which have misrepresented prohibition and incited, often foreign and uninformed elements of the population, to rebellion against the law. In my opinion, the present situation in Chicago is a case in point—sowing the wind and reaping the whirlwind.

Mrs. Stimson Is Hostess to Mrs. Hoover

First Lady Honor Guest of Luncheon at Woodley.

By JEAN ELIOT.

MRS. HOOVER was the guest yesterday of Mrs. Henry L. Stimson, wife of the Secretary of State, who entertained at luncheon in her honor at Woodley, her suburban home. For a long period it has been the custom of the mistress of the White House to have luncheon once each season with each of the ladies of the Cabinet group. Usually the company of guests is limited to the other "Cabinet wives," but at the pleasant party yesterday there were several other ladies present.

Besides Mrs. Hoover the guests were Mrs. Patrick J. Hurley, Mrs. Walter F. Brown, Mrs. James J. Davis, Mrs. Reed Smoot, Mrs. Frederick Gillett, Mrs. Wilbur J. Carr and Mrs. Stark McMullin, Mrs. Smoot, with Senator Smoot, and Mrs. McMullin are guests of the President and Mrs. Hoover at the White House. Decorations for the luncheon were of summer flowers from the gardens of Woodley.

The absentee ladies of the Cabinet group are all out of town—Mrs. William DeWitt Mitchell, in Minnesota; Mrs. Charles Francis Adams, at her home in Concord, Mass.; Mrs. Ray Lyman Wilbur, in California, and Mrs. Robert P. Lamont, at Lake Forest, Ill. Mrs. Arthur M. Hyde is making a short stay in Baltimore prior to going to her home in Trenton, Mo.

Mrs. Davis has been at Ventnor, N. J., for several weeks but returned to town yesterday morning to combine the business of superintending some alterations to her house with the pleasure of attending Mrs. Stimson's luncheon yesterday and the garden party for disabled veterans at the White House today. She will return tonight to Ventnor, where she has a cottage for the summer and where the little Davises are awaiting her return.

Mrs. Lester J. Hinsdale and her daughter, Miss Betty Ann Hinsdale, of Sacramento, Calif., arrived at the White House this morning to be guests of the President and Mrs. Hoover for a brief visit.

Mr. Mellon Returns From Pittsburgh Stay.

Mr. Andrew W. Mellon, Secretary of the Treasury, has returned to Washington from Pittsburgh, where he has been for the last week or ten days. His son, Mr. Paul Mellon, will remain in Pittsburgh for the summer.

Bishop and Mrs. Philip Mercer Rhinelander and their sons, Mr. Philip H. Rhinelander and Mr. Laurens H. Rhinelander, who have been passing the summer at Eastern Point, are in New York for the wedding of Miss Constance Templeton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter B. Templeton, of Hinsdale, Ill., and Mr. Frederic W. Rhinelander 2d, which took place yesterday in the Cathedral of St. John the Divine.

Misses Randolph to Go To Cape Cod This Month.

Miss Anne Randolph and Miss Mary Randolph will go to Cape Cod on July 26 to be guests of Brig. Gen. and Mrs. Charles G. Treat at Hyannisport, Mass. Afterward they will make a series of visits to friends in New England, going late in the summer to Newport, where it is their custom to spend part of every year.

Mrs. Henry Suydam sailed yesterday for home after having spent several weeks in Europe and will rejoin Mr. Suydam in Washington. Later in the summer they will go to Wakefield, the Virginia estate of Mrs. Suydam's mother, Mrs. George Barnett, for a visit.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Leiter, who have been abroad, have returned to this country and are at their summer home, Edgewater, at Beverly Farms, Mass.

Mrs. Harold Smoot was hostess at a small luncheon yesterday, her guests remaining for bridge. Mr. and Mrs. Smoot will have as guests later this week their daughter, Mrs. Frederick Chambers, and her baby daughter, Alice, who will stay with them while Mr. Chambers is at the R. O. T. C. training camp at Fort Humphreys, Va. Alice Chambers, the infant great-granddaughter of Senator Reed Smoot, bears a name which is very popular in the Smoot family. Not only is it the name of her mother and her grandmother, Mrs. Harold Smoot, but Senator Smoot's new wife is also Alice and there are one or two other feminine relatives who have the same name. It really must be rather confusing.

Hollins—Elkins Betrothal Announced to Society.

The engagement of Miss Elizabeth Wolcott Elkins, to Mr Harry B. Hollins, 3d, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry B. Hollins, jr., of New York and East Islip, Long Island, has been announced by Miss Elkins' parents, Mr. and Mrs. William M. Elkins, of Elkins Park, Pa., The wedding will take place next June.

Miss Elkins made her debut in the season of 1928-29. She is the granddaughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. George W. Elkins and a niece of Mrs. Wharton Sinkler, Mrs. George F. Tyler and Mrs. George W. Elkins, jr., of Philadelphia. Her mother is the former Miss Elizabeth Tuckerman, of Boston, and her father is a prominent Philadelphia banker. Miss Elkins is an enthusiastic horsewoman, being frequently seen at horseshows and on the paths of Aiken, S. C., where she passes the winters with her parents.

Mr. Hollins, a senior at Harvard, is a grandson of the late Mrs. Henry Livingston, of New York. His mother was Miss Lilias Livingston, of New York.

The Misses Critcher are leaving for Virginia Beach and will later go to Lexington, Va., for the summer.

Mrs. Charles H. Harris, who will leave Washington the latter part of the month for her new home in Nashville, Tenn., and Mrs. Harvey Edwin Ingley, a recent bride, shared honors at a tea given by a small group of their friends yesterday afternoon on the Willard roof. Mrs. Ingley was, before her marriage last month, Miss Ruth Richardson Kincheloe, daughter of Mrs. Joseph Gilchrist Kincheloe, of Virginia. Mr. Ingley is a member of President Hoover's secretary service staff.

Mrs. William Fitch Kelley is spending the summer at her country place "Knole" on the Rockville Pike, and will have with her her small granddaughter, Joyce Kelley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. McLure Kelley, who are sailing for a two months' stay in Europe.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Howard, of Atlanta, Ga., are spending several days at the Dodge Hotel.

Sailing for France

Harris & Ewing.

MME. PAUL DUBAN, with her husband, Commander Duban, Assistant Naval Attache of the French Embassy, will spend three months in France, returning to Washington in the fall.

Former U. S. Envoy To Wed Mlle. Divonne.

Viscount and Viscountess Ludovic de la Forest Divonne, of Geneva, Switzerland, have announced the engagement of their daughter, Mlle. Florence Marguerite Louise Marie Josef de la Forest Divonne, to Mr. Charles Marburg, son of Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Marburg, of Baltimore. Mr. Theodore Marburg formerly was American Minister to Belgium.

Mlle. Divonne is related to both the French and Italian royal houses. Mr. Marburg has been studying abroad for two or three years at the Postgraduate Institute of International Studies, but will sail for the United States on Saturday to pass the summer with his parents at their home in the Adirondacks.

Capt. and Mrs. Phinney At Newport for Season.

Capt. L. F. Phinney, U. S. N., and Mrs. Phinney are at the New Cliffs, Newport, for the season.

Mr. Lewis Smoot, of the La Salle, is sailing today for Europe, where he will make a two-month tour.

Mrs. Dwight W. Morrow will leave Englewood, N. J., within the next three weeks to join Mr. Morrow, United States Ambassador to Mexico, in Mexico City.

Miss Alice Whiteside To Be Wed in Autumn.

Dr. and Mrs. Joseph Grier Whiteside, of Byrd Park Court, Richmond, Va., recently have announced the engagement of their daughter, Miss Alice Gaither Whiteside, to Mr. Samuel Henry Jorg, of Richmond, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Jorg, of 5913 Sixteenth street.

The wedding will take place in the early fall.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Grosner are in Atlantic City at the Ambassador for several days.

The men of the Arts Club will give a stag dinner to which they may invite their men friends at 6:30 o'clock this evening. The dinner will be informal and will be served in the garden. Mr. William Lincoln Brown, recently appointed chief of the Copyrights of the Library of Congress, will lead the discussion on the new copyright law of the United States.

Mrs. Walter G. Distler and children, who have been at Haddon Hall, Atlantic City, since July 1, will remain until August 15, when they will go to White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., for the late summer and early fall.

The Counselor of the Spanish Embassy, Count de Montefuerte, entertained at the dinner dance at the Plage Deauville at the Wardman Park Hotel on Monday evening.

Pre-Nuptial Dinner Given Bridal Pair

Mrs. Arthur MacArthur Entertains Son and Miss Littlefield.

Mrs. Arthur MacArthur entertained at dinner last night for her son, Mr. Bowman MacArthur, and Miss Beatrice Littlefield, daughter of Capt. and Mrs. William Lord Littlefield, who are to be married on Saturday. Tonight Capt. and Mrs. Littlefield will give a dinner at the Chevy Chase Club for Miss Littlefield and Mr. MacArthur. Another party for them will be the dinner to be given Friday night, with Miss Katherine Lowman as hostess.

Miss Littlefield and Mr. MacArthur will have a simple wedding on Saturday at 4 o'clock at the home of Capt. and Mrs. Littlefield, only relatives and a few close friends of the bride and bridegroom witnessing the ceremony. Miss Jean Peeples will be Miss Littlefield's maid of honor and Miss Lorraine Littlefield, small sister of the bride, will be the flower girl. Mr. MacArthur will have his brother, Mr. Douglas MacArthur 2d, as best man.

After a visit with Dr. and Mrs. William C. Gwynn and their daughter, Miss Louise Harrison Gwynn, in Georgetown, Miss Louise Brooks, daughter of Mrs. Lionel Atwill, has gone to Ruxton, Md., to stay with her father, Mr. Walter Brooks. Later in the summer she will be with her grandmother, Mrs. Edward T. Stotesbury, in Bar Harbor. Miss Gwynn, a debutante of next season, and her brother, Mr. Henry Beall Gwynn, will visit her there. Miss Brooks, who had been tentatively listed among the debutantes of next season, has decided to spend the winter abroad instead of having a formal presentation in the Washington or Philadelphia home of Mr. and Mrs. Stotesbury.

Mrs. Gwynn and her children have gone to Atlantic City and after several weeks there will have a motor trip through New England.

F. W. Rhinelander 2d Marries in New York.

The wedding of Miss Constance Templeton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter B. Templeton, of Hinsdale, Ill., to Frederic William Rhinelander 2d, son of the Right Rev. and Mrs. Philip Mercer Rhinelander, of New York and Washington, took place at noon yesterday in the Cathedral of St. John the Divine. Bishop Rhinelander performed the ceremony, which was followed by a wedding breakfast at the Colony Club.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, had as her matron of honor and only attendant her sister, Mrs. Kenneth Robinson Parker, of Glen Ellyn, Ill. Mr. Philip H. Rhinelander served his brother as best man.

Mr. and Mrs. Rhinelander are sailing soon for a honeymoon trip, prior to continuing their studies at Oxford University. The bride attended the National Cathedral School for Girls in Washington at the same time that her husband was enrolled at the National Cathedral School for Boys in that city. She later studied at Radcliffe College when Mr. Rhinelander was at Harvard, and later they both went to Oxford.

Play Written By Diplomat Stirs Interest

Prince Bibesco's Friends in Capital Hope for Successful Run.

"Ladies All," a comedy from the facile pen of Prince Antoine Bibesco, once Roumanian Minister to the United States, will be presented next week at Brigton Beach, N. Y., and word of its fate is awaited with interest in Washington, where Prince Bibesco and his charming wife, the former Elizabeth Asquith, are happily remembered.

Only one previous work by Prince Bibesco has been presented in this country, "All Washington" was present at the premiere of his "Married Life," but the author's sophisticated viewpoint, so beloved of the Parisian boulevardier, fared ill at the hands of a local stock company and the play lasted but a week. However, a half dozen of the Prince's plays in French, have the cachet of success in Paris, and, as the new play is to have Walter Woolf and the blonde and beautiful Violet Heming as its stars, there is every prospect of a successful run.

Princess Bibesco, daughter of the late Earl of Oxford and Asquith and of the irrespressible Margot Asquith, has gathered literary laurels of her own, with several volumes of sparkling short stories to her credit. And, if you please, their small daughter, Princess Priscilla, who is 10 years old, already has a book to her credit "The Queen and Her Daughters," which has been favorably reviewed by critics. Little Priscilla signs her literary output by the name "Tubby," her nick-name for herself.

Since leaving Washington, Prince Bibesco has been serving as Roumanian Minister to Spain, but he and his wife spend much of their time in Paris, where they have a house.

Lieut. Comdr. and Mrs. Walter A. Riedel have moved to the Wardman Park Hotel. Lieut. Comdr. Riedel is on duty in the Bureau of Engineering at the Navy Department.

Jardines Plan Trip to Egypt Next Month

Envoy and Family to Sail for Post at Cairo With Guest.

When Mr. and Mrs. William M. Jardine start for Egypt, probably some time in August, they will be accompanied by their daughters, Miss Marian Jardine and Miss Ruth Jardine, and by Miss Katherine Lowman, whose engagement to Mr. William N. Jardine was announced recently. Miss Lowman will visit the Jardines in Cairo when Mr. Jardine assumes his duties as United States Minister to Egypt—these plans, of course, being subject to the Senate's confirmation of his appointment, about which, however, there seems to be no doubt.

The marriage of Miss Lowman and Mr. William N. Jardine will take place in the autumn, presumably in Washington. She is the daughter of Assistant Secretary of the Treasury and Mrs. Seymour Lowman. During his fiancee's absence, "Bill" Jardine will remain in town, busy with his duties as manager of the Radio Service Bureau, of which his father, some time the Secretary of Agriculture, is president.

Mr. and Mrs. Bowden Are Capital Visitors.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert A. Bowden and their daughters, Miss Elizabeth Bowden and Miss Margaret Bowden, of Sacramento, Calif., are at the Wardmen Park Hotel.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilton J. Lambert are among the arrivals at the St. Regis Hotel in New York.

Mr. James R. Ellerson, jr., is staying at the Lexington, in New York, for some time.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Bruce Howe, of Washington, have returned to Berry Hill, Newport, after a stay in New York.

Leader Reelected By Walther League

Group to Aid Lutherans in Broadcast Over Radio Next Winter.

Cleveland, Ohio, July 15 (A.P.).—E. J. Gallmeyer, of Fort Wayne, Ind., a businessman, was reelected president of the International Walther League for the third time today.

Besides electing officers, delegates at the convention here voted to take part in the Nation-wide Lutheran radio broadcast over the Columbia chain, which is being arranged for next winter and to provide funds for at least ten monthly programs. The broadcast will be in cooperation with the Lutheran Laymen's League.

By unanimous vote, the convention reaffirmed its "fidelity to the doctrines of the Augsberg confession." The convention celebrated the 400th anniversary of the confession Sunday.

Other officers elected included Herbert Kuene, Baltimore, recording secretary; Miss Ruth Petering, Muskogee, Okla., assistant recording secretary; E. A. Schack, Fort Wayne, treasurer; Prof. E. H. Engelbrecht, River Forest, Ill., field secretary, and the Rev. A. R. Kretzmann, Chicago, member of the executive board from the clergy.

Long Mountain Vigil Ends.

Mill Valley, Calif., July 15 (A.P.).—Since 1902 Hugo Legler has lived in a little hut atop Mount Tamalpais until he was ordered down recently. During that time he reported hundreds of small fires starting on the tree-covered mountain slopes.

Baby Beef 4-H Clubs Grow.

Ames, Iowa, July 15 (A.P.).—Enrollment in baby beef 4-H clubs in Iowa this year totaled 1,965, as compared with 1,706 in 1929. The enrollment embraces 86 counties and 3,039 head of beef calves on feed.

Steel Heads Said To Plan Division

"Some Talk" of Bethlehem Keeping Out of West, Witness Asserts.

Youngstown, Ohio, July 15 (A.P.).—Division of the territory of the steel industry, whereby the Bethlehem Steel Corporation would stay out of the West, was talked of at one time during discussion of the Bethlehem merger with the Youngstown Sheet & Tube Co., Frank Purnell, Sheet & Tube president, revealed today.

The revelation came during Purnell's testimony in court hearing the suit brought by the interests of Cyrus S. Eaton, of Cleveland, to join the merger. Purnell said there was "some talk" about an understanding between Eugene G. Grace, president of Bethlehem, and Eaton over the division.

The talk, he said, was at a meeting in Cleveland March 11. Eaton testified in Federal court on April 7 that Grace had told him Bethlehem would not be tempted to invade the Middle West.

Cruiser of Firestone Driven Ashore by Wind

Norwalk, Conn., July 15 (A.P.).—The 80-foot cabin cruiser Osana, said to be owned by Harvey Firestone, and in charge of his nephew, H. L. Effinger, early today was driven upon the shore at the mouth of the Saugatuck River in Long Island Sound. High winds ripped the boat from its antossed upon the sands. Mr. Effinger, who has been visiting friends in Westport, and the crew were on the boat at the time.

The craft was undamaged and was expected to be refloated at high tide this afternoon.

MIAMI CAPONE WAR BELIEVED NEAR END

Two Perjury Charges to Be Dropped; Gang Chief Plans $375,000 Estate.

WILL COVER 50 ACRES

Miami, Fla., July 15 (A.P.).—The official campaign of Miami and Dade County to drive Scarface Al Capone, Chicago gangster, from his $250,000 island mansion at Miami Beach appeared at an end today with announcement that two remaining perjury charges against him would be dropped and reports that Capone would build a $375,000 estate in Broward County.

In advising that he will enter an order to nolle prosse the remaining charges, County Solicitor George E. McCaskill said he did not believe they could be prosecuted successfully. Capone was acquitted Saturday of the first three perjury charges by directed verdict of Criminal Court Judge E. C. Collins.

Mr. McCaskill added that the court's ruling that Capone was within his rights when he altered his testimony on which the perjury charges were based at a reopened hearing on the original false arrest case against S. D. McCreary, Miami public safety director, would likewise operate to quash the remaining perjury counts before they could reach the jury.

Meanwhile, public officials who have been active in attempts to oust Capone ever since his arrival, April 20, for an announced two weeks vacation, awaited confirmation of reports that the gangster will take up his Florida residence in the county to the north of Miami.

W. G. Stovall, Lake Worth contractor, announced today that his firm has been awarded contract for work on part of the $375,000 estate, which he says Capone will occupy on a site of 50 acres purchased there recently by one of Capone's Miami attorneys, as trustee.

Efforts to obtain either confirmation or denial of Capone's plans for a new Florida residence were unsuccessful today.

MOSLEM MOBS KILL HINDUS; FIRE HOMES

Rioting Spreads Over Areas of 150 Miles in Bengal; Situation Is Grave.

QUAKES ADD TO TERROR

London, July 15 (AP.).—Calcutta dispatches to the Daily Mail reported today that rioting between Moslems and Hindus in eastern Bengal had assumed a very serious aspect over an area of more than 150 square miles. Troops and police are being rushed to Mymensingh and to Kishorganj.

Four persons were killed and two wounded during rioting yesterday at Mymensingh and frantic appeals for help have been received from Kishorganj, 40 miles from the former city. Every available soldier in the district is being sent there. The total force at Kishorganj is said to be a mere handful.

According to the Mail's Calcutta correspondent, the outbreak of rioting was premeditated and well organized. It started last Friday at Kishorganj. A huge mob of Moslems surrounded the house of a Hindu money lender, demanding the release of a peasant's bond, worth about $100, and offering about $35 in payment.

The money lender refused and the mob looted and burned his house, severely beating its occupants. Two other Hindu money lenders were treated in a similar fashion.

Other parties of Moslems hastened to adjoining villages, stirring up their coreligionists, and riot and arson became general in the district.

Mobs went pillaging from house to house committing outrages on the Hindu owners, men, women and children alike.

Krishna Chandra Roy, a wealthy Hindu land owner and money lender, and all the males of his family were murdered. His women folk were kidnaped and his house looted and set afire.

A British administrative officer was badly injured while trying to check the Moslem mobs with his small force of a dozen men.

Although suffering seriously at the hands of the mob, the police gallantly rescued many isolated Hindu families.

In the midst of the rioting severe earth shocks were felt, adding to the terror of the people.

Mymensingh and Kishorganj are about 80 miles north of the city of Dacca, where serious rioting between Hindus and Moslems has been intermittent for months.

move his car more than a few feet, while he was parking.

Assistant United States Attorney Neil Burkinshaw demanded a conviction on both counts, claiming that the defendant was guilty of transporting if he had moved his car as much as 1 inch.

In overruling the motion for a directed verdict Justice Adkins held that the illegal search and seizure claim had already been decided by Justice Peyton Gordon in favor of the prosecution.

Cassidy probably will be sentenced Saturday, unless the case is first taken to the Court of Appeals.

COMMISSION TO GET CRAMTON PARK PLAN

Grant's Group to Consider Potomac Area Extension Friday and Saturday.

STREET CHANGE ALSO UP

Plans for effecting operation of the Cramton bill providing for extension of Washington's park area along the Potomac River will be studied by the National Capital Park and Planning Commission Friday and Saturday.

Lieut. Col. U. S. Grant 3d, executive officer of the commission, said yesterday that the body probably will analyze the situation and plan for most advantageous expenditure of the money authorized for the work by Congress under the Cramton bill.

A proposal for standard width for various types of streets in the Capital also will be considered by the commission. Col. Grant pointed out that under the present system street widths have no relation to modern traffic volumes.

Another matter to be studied is the question of the future use of the old reservoir site in Georgetown and of the Brightwood Reservoir. What to do with the latter site has been discussed frequently by the residents in the vicinity of Kennedy and Sixteenth streets northwest recently, and considerable opposition has been voiced to a proposal to use the old reservoir as a swimming pool.

Col. Grant also foresaw the possibility that the commission may be asked at the same time to pass upon plans for the proposed Masonic Temple on the Deane tract at Connecticut and Florida avenues.

$1,000,000 Suit Filed Over Name of Coffee

Cincinnati, July 15 (A.P.).—The Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea Co., of New York, filed suit here today in United States District Court for $1,000,000 damages against the J. Henry Koenig Co., Cincinnati, wholesale coffee and spice dealers, alleging the latter violated a coffee trade mark sold by the tea company as "8 o'clock" coffee.

The plaintiff asked for an accounting of the Koenig Co. profits and an injunction to restrain the defendant from further infringement on the trade mark.

THE GIRL IN THE AIR - -

BY JULIE ANNE MOORE

CHAPTER THIRTY-TWO.

It was one of these amazing dreams in which everything and everybody stood out so vividly that you argue that surely this is no dream, but cold reality.

Janet was typing. She didn't know where. For Tolbert, no doubt. At the administration building, or in the air; but it didn't matter.

And as she gazed at the keyboard the unsolved code line was plainly before her:

"Vb ri Qb 39 Dikkiq ojf dein vbj."

And then the symbols on the keys seem to flow together into one mass, and immediately after were back in place, every key distinct, revealing to Janet, mysteriously, the explanation of the code. It had been made up with a typewriter keyboard as a basis and instead of taking the letter given, the letter to the right of it was intended.

"Bn to Wn March 9 Follow pkg from bnk."

There it was and no mistaking its meaning. No doubt the dream discovery was the result of a gradual subconscious process of reasoning, but to Janet it was a revelation from heaven. And, still dreaming, she had sped from her typewriter to tell some one what she had found. She thought at first she was going to Dick; then it seemed to be Tolbert, but when at last she came to a very large and very heavy door and pulled it open, there stood Hugh, smiling, his arms held out to her . . . just as if he had been standing there always, waiting for her . . . She forgot the code, its solution, everything else in the world but Hugh . . . She rushed into his arms, buried her face in the silky softness of his scarf and clung to him desperately, crying a little, stuttering painfully when she tried to speak to him, but happier than she had ever been before in her life. Yes, happier, happier by far than——

Janet woke with a start, pulled her feet from under the covers, and slid to the floor . . . Surely that had been no dream . . . He had seemed so real . . . right here . . . touching . . . holding her to him . . . whispering . . .

She rubbed her eyes roughly, felt along the wall until she found the light button, blinked at herself in the mirror.

Of course, it had been a dream. But what a strange dream for her to have . . . She remembered distinctly the key to that last entry in the code; the letter to the right of that given on a typewriter keyboard.

She found "Practical Flight Training" on the floor where it had fallen when she had gone to sleep. Hastily she turned to the code, ran her finger along the last line, returned the book to the shelf, and sat back on the bed to try to fathom the mystery. She had seen that line as plainly as she saw it there in the book; and she had read its interpretation immediately after. Was there a psychological explanation for that; or had she been visited by some kindly spirit?

But what had been the meaning of it? . . . "Bn to Wn March 9 Follow pkg from bnk" . . . It was, of course, the last of the three scheduled flights, the one which Tolbert and Dick were to make. . . . "Boston to Washington March 9. Follow package from bank." . . . Why had Belter added that last? Apparently he had forseen the precaution that would result from the first two attacks and wanted to make sure that the bandits assigned to the job were not tricked. . . . Did it mean anything now? Had the two murders ended the activities of the gang, or had they in Boston this very moment some stealthy cutthroat who was waiting to follow the shipment from the bank to the flying field, see it loaded into the amphibian, and then advise the air pirates who were waiting to turn machine guns upon it?

Janet was still too sleepy to grow excited over the possibility. "They won't leave until tomorrow night—— Heaven above! it's after 4 o'clock," she exclaimed suddenly, eyeing the clock on her dresser. "Anyway," she consoled herself, "there's plenty of time. I'll call Hugh tomorrow and he can wire Richard at Boston."

She put the light out and groped her way back to the head of the bed. But she did not get under the covers again. The darkness, like the darkness in the theater, was conducive to the illusion and once more the dream flashed upon the screen of her consciousness. . . . Once more she was running from her machine to take the news of her discovery to . . . yes, it was Hugh. Of all people Hugh Temple. . . . It was into Hugh's arms that she had gone, and even now the sense of her nearness to him revived the indescribable dream sensation of complete contentment. . . .

And, as the light of understanding gradually dissipated the long night in which she had lived these last several weeks, she knew in her heart that it had always been Hugh. From the very first day when he had called her at the Peerless Employment Bureau. . . . When she had been so sure of her love for Dick, it had been Hugh of whom she thought most . . . Hugh, a captive; Hugh, a possible thief. . . . Wherever she looked now over that amazing period she saw the strong, quiet figure of Hugh Temple in the background. Always—always—Hugh, Hugh, Hugh!

So, life was like that. When it was too late the truth was revealed to her. Why couldn't she have understood long, long ago? Before Dick . . .? Before Tolbert . . .? Tomorrow night Tolbert would come to her and she would tell him what she had already let him suspect. And tomorrow night Hugh, no doubt, would be saying to Miss Sears the things he might have been saying to the girl he had hired as flying stenographer aeons and aeons ago if——

* * * *

It was not until the light of day filled her room next morning that she asked herself why she had called Hugh at such an hour. But at the time she had thought of nothing save the longing in her heart to hear his voice. And she had left her bed for the second time that night and felt her way to the telephone in the living room.

Since his return Hugh had been living at Tolbert's and she gave the operator Tolbert's number. Presently someone said: "Yes—?"

"I want to speak to Mr. Temple, please. . . ."

"Janet! What's happened?"

"Nothing, Hugh. . . . I just wanted to talk to you. . . ."

Hugh made no attempt to hide his amazement. "But something's wrong; tell me what it is!"

"Life's wrong, Hugh. . . . That's all. . . . Were you asleep?"

"No!" sharply, as if she shouldn't have asked. "But I don't understand. Do you know what time it is, Janet?"

"Hmm! . . . Are you scolding? . . . Of course I know what time it is. Does it matter?"

"Janet . . . please! Tell me what it is. You aren't calling me at 4 in the morning for nothing."

"I wanted to hear your voice. You wouldn't begrudge me that. . . . Why weren't you asleep?"

"I'm not sleepy. . . . Why aren't you asleep, if I may ask?"

"History's repeating itself," Janet said sweetly. "Remember the day you called me at the employment bureau and I found you on the line when you were supposed to have hung up . . . And I said, 'Why didn't you hang up?' . . . And you said 'Why didn't you?' . . . Remember, Hugh? We're going over the same old tricks. . . . If you must know, I've been asleep."

"And nothing's happened"

"Nothing, Hugh . . . and everything. . . . But I shouldn't have said that because I can't explain it. . . . You won't be angry with me for calling you, will you?"

"Janet, are you ill?"

"No, Hugh."

"Do you want me to come to your house?"

"That would be the most unfortunate thing you could do, Hugh. . . . No, go on to bed and get some sleep. You can't work without sleep, you know."

"But I can't sleep now. I can't do anything but wonder what under heaven has come over you, Janet. Let me come down for two minutes, Janet; just to see that you're all right——"

"I'm sorry, Hugh. I'm quite all right as I told you before . . . You might come to supper again tomorrow night—or tonight—whenever it is. I'm not used to figuring time at 4 o'clock in the morning. Do you want to come to supper again, Hugh? I'll need a little moral support until—until Mr. Tolbert arrives."

"I'd like to, Janet; but I can't. I've an engagement. But why not——"

"You've another engagement, Hugh? I hope you aren't calling on Miss Sears at 10 o'clock again . . . She knew she shouldn't have asked, but she had to know.

"No," Hugh told her patiently; "not at 10 o'clock. She is expecting me at 8 sharp . . . I'll see you first thing this morning . . ."

"Oh——" And then, with the receiver held just above the hook: "Good night, Hugh . . ."

She had gone back to her room then; but she hadn't slept. She hadn't even tried to sleep. For a long, long time she had sat quietly in the darkness, crying softly.

When the rumble of wagons and the snorting of motors announced the approach of day, she snapped on the light and began to dress.

The day of days. Before she came to bed again she would have committed her life to a man she didn't love. . . . Yes, this was life.

It was barely 8 o'clock when Margaret came in from the living room and dragged Janet from the breakfast table. "You can't guess who it is, Jan," Margaret whispered excitedly.

Janet went with her into the living room and gazed around curiously. The room was empty. "Who . . . where, Margaret? I don't see any one."

Margaret pointed dramatically to the telephone. "It's Henry Frenda, Marge. Really! He told me it was, and, besides, I knew his voice. He wants you."

Janet went to the telephone. "Henry . . .?"

"It's me, all right, Janet. How's the girl?"

"When did you—where are you, Henry?" she amended quickly.

"Home, kid, and how! . . . I've got to see you right away, Janet. Can't you come out?"

"Can't you come here, Henry? I haven't finished breakfast."

"No, you don't understand. I've got big news for you; bigger than you could possibly guess, Janet. I just found it a few minutes ago. Mother wants you to come out. She says you ought to know about it first. . . . I'd come in for you, but I'm afraid to leave right now."

Janet hesitated a moment, wondering how she would go. She couldn't call Hugh. . . . Then she knew that she would call him. Whatever Henry's great secret, it must have some connection with the murders and Hugh should know. "Do you mind," she asked, "if I bring some one with me?"

"Who?" Suspiciously.

"Mr. Temple. * * *"

"So much the better, but nobody else. And hurry, will you, Janet?"

Janet turned from the telephone just as Margaret opened the front door to let Hugh in.

"Boy! This is what I call action," she exclaimed, girving her hand to Hugh. "I'd just made up my mind to call you. We've got an emergency call on our hands. . . . Have you your car?"

"I've Tolbert's coupe, which is better," Hugh smiled. "What's the excitement?"

Janet ran for her things, a finger on her lips to indicate secrecy. "Can't tell you a thing now. . . . Tell Mud I'll be back for lunch, if not before," she called to Margaret . . . "Come on, Hugh. We've got to make this fast. I don't know what it is, but I've an idea it's big news."

She gave him Henry's message piecemeal as they sped along, but she balked his every effort to get back to the 4-o'clock telephone call, and, in consequence, did most of the talking herself until they at least turned from the Mount Tobe highway and drove up to the Frenda house.

Henry, watching for 'em, came down the steps on the run, holding out a hand to each. "Gee! It's great to see you again, Janet," he cried, immediately after acknowledging Hugh's more than ordinarily cordial greeting with a grin. "Come on in. I've got a sight for sore eyes, Mr. Temple. Hadn't been home an hour when I found it. Lord, what a scare it gave me!"

Janet said nervously: "It isn't another corpse, is it, Henry?"

"Gosh, no! Anything but." As he talked, Henry led them down the ouside cellar steps, offering Janet a steadying hand, not entirely necessary seeing that Hugh was already performing that service rather well.

At the far end of the cellar Henry produced a flashlight and turned its rays on a pile of boards. "Those," he explained, "were over it." Then he shifted the light, exposing what appeared to be an old well, partially filled in. All three dropped on their knees and peered at the rather ordinary looking package resting not 2 feet below the level of the cellar floor. The wrapping had been broken on top and at sight of the contents, Hugh gave a low, prolonged whistle.

"By heaven!" he cried. "It's the stolen cash shipment!"

And then, from somewhere behind them a heavy voice said quietly: "That's right; it's the money that started all the hell, and I've got a good notion to plug the three of you and shove you in that hole with it."

Hugh was on his feet in a flash. Then he stopped and raised his hands out of respect to the automatic that was pointing at a spot somewhere in the neighborhood of his heart. "The first one that moves without instructions from me gets a load of lead. Understand?"

Hugh glanced down at Janet, still resting on her knees. "All right," he said; "have it your own way, Three-Fingers."

Lineman Electrocuted; Revival Efforts Fail

Special to The Washington Post.

Cumberland, Md., July 15.—James Cecil Shaw, 26 years old, of Oldtown, this county, was electrocuted today while changing over wires of the Potomac Edison Co. near the city limits.

First-aid teams worked in relays for four hours in vain effort to revive him. It is thought he touched his side or elbow against a telephone wire, forming a circuit. Shaw has had considerable experience as electrician and lineman.

Greyhound Bus Hits Auto; Four Are Hurt

Cleveland, July 15 (A.P.).—Four persons were hurt and 30 passengers of a Greyhound bus were shaken up late today when the bus crashed into the rear of a passenger car here.

Mrs. Zeta Foose, 37, of Wheeling, W. Va., suffered a possible fractured skull. She was in the automobile, which was tipped over and wrecked. The other injured were treated at hospitals and released.

WASHINGTON: WEDNESDAY, JULY 16, 1930. 11

NATS KEEP PACE WITH MACKS, BEATING TIGERS, 3-0

Pegler

TOURNAMENT golf is more an ordeal than a sport to Bobby Jones under the conditions which his own fame imposes on him, and one is given to understand that the young man thinks of withdrawing from the championships to shoot the game only for pleasure, in privacy with his friends.

The strain of the tournaments makes him ill between rounds, the crowd harass him, though they try to show consideration and efface themselves; and, anyway, the game assumes such a grim purpose in the big open tournaments where the professionals are playing for fortunes that there is no fun in it. Add to these objections the fact that often when Bobby wins an open championship there are some professionals who would belittle his victory by muttering over interpretations of the rules, and championship golf loses the character of sport in the ideal sense in which the word is understood by the Carnegie Foundation and the lexicographers.

Gallery Is Guage of Greatness.

Granting all of which, I nevertheless doubt that Bobby Jones will quit championship golf until his game begins to fail, and argue that the game gives him as much as he gives the game. He is a man of imagination and if the tournaments are hard on his nerves, with people charging all over the grounds in shapeless, gallumphing herds, he must know that the size of his gallery is an accurate gauge of his greatness in the one line of endeavor in which he is great.

I understood that Bobby has reproached himself because he has become distinguished only as an athlete, but it must occur to a youth of his educated intelligence that golf is a very hard game, and that when he wins the championship of the world he has done something big. Gene Tunney probably was troubled by the same reflections, and he had less to console himself with, for it was solely as a champion athlete and in a suspected game that he was known apart from his fellowmen. And, finally, when he resigned the title he was still beholden to the fight racket for his living. Despising it so, he withdrew to live on the money he had made as a prize fighter when he would have been quit of the whole thing.

Golf No Less Worthy Than Law.

Of course, there is no intention to suggest that Jones has lived by his golf, although I know writers no worse than he who can not earn more than one-third of his income from his essays on the game, competing in the same market. But who would Bobby Jones be but one among perhaps 500 respectable young attorneys in Atlanta except for the game of golf? And, furthermore, is the law any more worthy of a good man's ambition and efforts than this exacting game which he plays so well?

The demure celebrities such as Col. Lindbergh, Jones and Tunney have indicated that fame is a burden to them, but they seem pretty well compensated for the trials of their position.

If they had not courted this attention deliberately they would not have been afflicted with it now. Ten years ago Tunney was so eager for the notice of the public from whose view he has lately been trying to withdraw that he was willing to pose for the public in almost any absurd masquerade.

Annoyed Only After Becoming Great.

And, no doubt, if press and public had shrugged away Col. Lindbergh's flight with a calm "What of it?" that young man would have had some feeling of hurt and neglect, too. It is only after men become great for one reason or another that the tasks and necessities of their public position oppress them. If Bobby Jones had the championships in mind when he first came up to the tournaments, he must also have delighted himself in his private thoughts with the idea that a lot of acclaim and cap-throwing went with the championships. The actual play in the tournaments can't be fun to him any more, because he is so great that conditions forbid enjoyment. But, if by some miracle, the galleries were to quit him cold in the amateur tournament,

'Fake' Heard As Battalino Wins Bout

Fernandez Is Floored 6 Times by "Invisible" Punches.

Filipino Knocked Out in Fifth Round of Fiasco.

By EDWARD J. NEIL.

EAST HARTFORD, Conn., July 15 (A.P.).—Bat Battalino, a hometown boy, who made good right here, successfully defended his featherweight championship before the home folk tonight and knocked out Ignacio Fernandez in five rounds of ludicrous action that stirred a multitude of emotions in the breasts of the scant observers.

The little brown man from the Philippines, never counted out before in a career that has taken in bitter battles with the roughest and toughest punchers in the featherweight and lightweight divisions, put up an exhibition that had even Battalino's rooters laughing in derision, while most of the crowd hooted "fake" and playfully demanded that the local pride signal them before the finishing punch. It was Battalino's first title defense since winning the 126-pound crown from Andre Routis in this same arena last September.

Ending Is Obvious in First Round.

As early as the first round it became obvious to those down front that Fernandez, one of the stiffest punchers in his division and hitherto impregnable to the stiffest of punching, was not long for the challenging role. He punched with extreme care and was unable to hit Battalino anywhere but the elbows and shoulders. The champion boxed carefully through the opening session and most of the work was slow and at close quarters.

The struggle went into its climax with an amazing suddenness in the second round when Fernandez, slugged on the elbow with ruinous effect by the opening punch, went to the canvas six times before the closing bell rang. He was down for counts of five, six, three, three, one and four and before the gong called a temporary halt.

The Filipino gave an amazing exhibition each time he tumbled to the floor, rolling and struggling around the ring, flexing his body and bridging on his toes and hands, but always rising dizzily to carry on. The punches that put him down, after the first sock to his "glass" elbow, were all but indistinguishable from the front row.

Crowd in State of Laughter.

The crowd that numbered about 9,000 and paid $20,000 to see the local pride defend his crown turned on Battalino after the second round and raised great gusts of raucous laughter each time the light-hitting champion battered Fernandez into a state of apparent dizziness in the second and third rounds. Fernandez did little or no punching in these sessions and appeared to be rocked by almost every blow Battalino tossed his way.

With the crowd roaring its disapproval, Bat went out to finish his man in the fifth round. He started him going with another punch to the vulnerable wing. Finally cornered, the moon-faced brown man on the ropes, Battalino floored him with a left hook to the head and right to the chin. Ignacio dropped on his face, rolled over on his back, and was counted out without a struggle.

Gallant Fox, Stubborn, May Not Go in Stake

Chicago, July 15 (A.P.).—Gallant Fox engaged in such a discouraging workout today that he may be withdrawn from the $25,000 Arlington Gold Cup race Saturday.

The super horse of American turf acted stubborn and refused to take his workout seriously, his trainer said, and it was feared he was drawn too fine and might make a miserable showing Saturday.

Another workout will be held tomorrow, and if the fleet 3-year-old champion doesn't show a change of heart, he will be withdrawn from the big stake race, his trainer said after a conference with it's owner.

SPEED STILL RETAINED BY MANDELL

Benny Leonard Says Lightweight King Has Not Slipped.

By BENNY LEONARD
(Retired Lightweight Champion of the World).

ORANGEBURG, N. Y., July 15 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—Sammy Mandell has not gone back. I have been listening to and reading stories to the effect that the champion is slipping, that he has slowed up and that he will have great difficulty in making the weight, which is 135 pounds, at 2 o'clock Thursday afternoon for his fight with Al Singer in the Yankee Stadium that night. No, Mandell is just as good as he ever was.

Mandell made a wonderful showing against Jimmy McLarnin a year ago. Everybody remembers that Sammy looked great and then not so long ago Mandell met McLarnin and then it was McLarnin who looked great. Here's the reason:

When McLarnin first fought Mandell it was at the lightweight limit. Mandell had no trouble making the weight but it worked quite a hardship on McLarnin. He was just a fraction of a second too slow for Mandell. This fraction of a second looked like a mile when Sammy made McLarnin miss punches. That's why Mandell looked great.

McLarnin Faster in Next Meeting.

Then came their next meeting and this time it was at catch weights. McLarnin was stronger and he was faster, for he had improved over his first fight with Sammy. Instead of being a fraction of a second too slow, McLarnin had gained just that much speed so he was about as fast as Mandell. Yet Mandell, knocked about and reeling in the fight, knew what he was doing and managed to stay the limit and make a good showing. Indeed, he was pretty good at the finish. It is on these two fights that some of the experts figure Mandell has slowed up and has gone back. In short, that he has slipped.

Alexander Suspended; Dallas Asking Waivers

Dallas, Tex., July 15 (A.P.).—Grover Cleveland Alexander, former big league pitcher, now on the pay roll of the Dallas Club of the Texas League, again has been suspended for breaking training.

Waivers were asked for him and any club in the league has the privilege of claiming him within 24 hours upon the payment of $1,500 to the Dallas Club. Alexander was absent from the park yesterday and failed to show up again today, when he was assigned to pitch.

CLARK HOLDS PIRATES TO ONE HIT

Traynor's Single in Second Only Safety Off Robin Hurler.

EBBETS FIELD, Brooklyn, N. Y., July 15 (A.P.).—Lefty Clark pitched a one-hit game against the Pirates here today and the Dodgers won by a score of 5 to 0. Pie Traynor's single in the second inning was the only hit made off Clark. Traynor was retired on an attempted steal of second. Only 28 Pirates batted against Clark.

In the third inning Engle drew a pass to start the inning and was the only visitor on the bases. After Engle walked Clark retired the Pirates in order for the rest of the contest.

Clark's effort was the nearest approach to a no-hit game in the National League this season.

Ervin Brame opposed Clark and the Dodgers bunched four hits in the second inning for their first three runs. In the fourth, Wright doubled and scored on Clark's single and in the eighth Wright hit a home run, his third safety of the game. The attendance was about 5,500.

No-Hit Game Spoiled, But A's Win

Kress' Single With 1 Out in 9th Browns' First Hit.

Final Score Is 11-6; Rommel, Walberg Force Two In.

Special to The Washington Post.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., July 15.—There was a no-hit game at Sportsman's Park today until one was out in the ninth inning. Then Ralph Kress shattered the performance with a ground single to left field. Three more hits followed, but the rally was fruitless, Philadelphia winning 11 to 6 for its fifth straight victory. It was also the Browns' fifth consecutive defeat.

Unique about the eight hitless innings was the fact that Philadelphia used two pitchers. Rube Walberg started his second game of the series, but was so wild that he was relieved after issuing four successive bases on balls in the third inning. He was succeeded by Ed Rommel, who, after issuing another pass in the third, retired seventeen consecutive batters before Kress singled in the ninth.

Despite those eight hitless rounds, the Browns scored three runs, all donated in the third when two were forced across on passes and another filtered over as the result of an infield out. There were fifteen bases on balls given during the game, Walberg issuing six, Rommel two, Blaeholder three and Stiles four.

Blaeholder Pounded Out in Fourth.

Blaeholder was blasted from the mound in the fourth inning and Stiles finished the game. The two were hammered for fifteen hits, three of which were for extra bases, including Mickey Cochrane's fourth home run of the season. The first run off Blaeholder in the first inning resulted from Cochrane's single, a base on balls to Simmons and Foxx's single.

After both teams died in order in the second, Philadelphia counted four runs in the third on a pass to Bishop, Cochrane's homer off the pavilion roof, singles by Simmons and Foxx, a passed ball and a single by Miller.

Walberg had closed the Browns' second inning by retiring Melillo and Gullic on strikes, but he blew up in the third. He walked Manion, Blaeholder, McNeely and O'Rourke with none out, forcing Manion over the plate. Rommel, replacing Walberg, also lacked control and Hale strolled, forcing in Blaeholder. Kress then forced Hale at second, McNeely scoring, and the inning ended when Schulte bounced into a double play.

Rommel Hammered In Ninth.

In the fourth, fifth, sixth, seventh and eighth the Browns did not reach first base. Nine men died on ground balls, two on strikes, two on foul flies to Foxx, one on a liner to Bishop and one on a fly to Haas in center field. This was the second ball hit out of the infield by the Browns in the first eight innings, as Hale had flied to Miller in the first.

Opening the ninth, Rommel disposed of Hale on a pop fly to Bishop. Then Kress hit the next ball pitched for a single between Boley and Dykes. Schulte, hitting the next ball, doubled to right center, Kress scoring. Melillo singled Schulte home and reached third when Simmons let the ball get away. Gullic walked. He

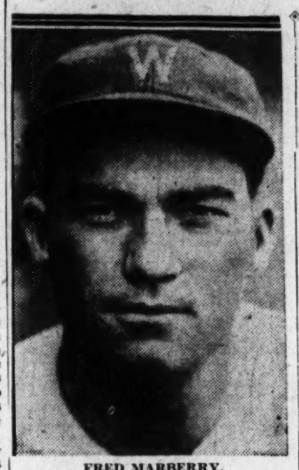
MARBERRY BRILLIANT, LIMITING DETROIT TO FIVE HITS IN VICTORY



FRED MARBERRY.

Hayworth at third. The next two then went down in rapid order.

In the sixth the Nationals became 3 up. Hoyt walked Myer, first up, and Rice's out and Cronin's single scored him. Cronin scored on Harris' triple down the right field line. Judge rolled to Alexander and after West walked, Bluege killed the rally by rolling to McManus.

With two out in the seventh Myer got a real hit and Rice a scratch one, but these were wasted, while there was much excitement among the fans, who were clamoring for a "lucky frame" rally, when Cronin's error gave Stone a life with one dead in the home half. Koenig, however, rolled sharply to Myer, who, with the aid of Cronin and Judge, negotiated a double play.

Judge had a couble wasted in the eighth, but he and Bluege, who later walked, were the only members of either team to enjoy base life in the last two rounds.

IN THE WAKE OF THE GAME

Special to The Washington Post.

NAVIN FIELD, Detroit, Mich., July 15.—Two of the three outfield catches made by the Tigers in the first round were exceptional ones. As a starter, Stone came in fast and over toward the foul line for Myer's low liner, while Johnson traveled fast toward the line in right to grab Cronin's liner with his gloved hand.

After Johnson had singled and pilfered second, opening the Tigers' first, Funk did the unusual of being called a strike-out victim when he tried to bunt on a third strike. His effort was a good one, with both Marberry and Ruel bending over the ball in case it rolled into foul territory. It did, but only an inch or so, when the catcher grabbed it.

Dave Harris poled one well over the left-field fence, opening round 2, but the wind carried it foul by a small margin. A little less loft and it would have been a homer, for it was fair as it cleared the fence. According to league rules the umpire calls the ball where he last sees it, and it had drifted foul before falling out of sight.

West was credited with the Nats' first hit, singling to left with two dead in the second.

Koenig made a nice one-handed grab of Myer's bad hopper to rob Buddie of a hit ending the third session.

Harris went back almost to the score board to make a fine catch of Johnson's hard-hit liner in the third.

Coaches Johnson and Schacht tried to change the Nats' luck starting the fourth, the manager going into the box behind third with Al doing the yelling from back of first. This may not have had anything to do with what followed, but Rice led off with a hit and later scored with the first run of the game.

Johnson made a brilliant leaping catch of Cronin's drive in the fourth while backed up almost against the stands in right center.

Cronin chased all the way to short left to make a nice catch of Koenig's near Texas leaguer, ending the Jungle Cats' fourth.

Catcher Hayworth's drive to left, opening the Tigers' fifth, hit a pillar of the fence and ran up the wall all the way to the top.

Judge turned in a masterpiece in the home fifth on Hoyt's intended sacrifice after Hayworth had doubled. The Nat first-sacker came in fast for the ball and picked it up and pegged to third, all in one motion. It helped Marberry out of a tight hole.

With the hit and run on in the sixth, after Myer had led off by coax-

Johnson's Confidence In Pitchers Unshaken

Navin Field, Detroit, Mich., July 15.—While Manager Walter Johnson and his Nationals are still confident that Washington has the best all-around team in the American League and are cock sure that they will prove it before the present race is run, nevertheless, the slight crack developed in the pitching staff in the series here has caused considerable worry.

Previous to arriving here last week to start the second Western invasion of the year, the Johnson moundmen had set a record for the season, the starter finishing his game in all but four of their last 20 contests. "General" Alvin Crowder went the route in the first game here, but Fred Marberry, "Sad Sam" Jones and Irving Hadley were pounded off the hill in the next three games, although in a second trial this afternoon Marberry was able to avenge the previous beating given him.

All Pitchers Have Poor Days.

Neither Manager Johnson nor any one else expects all of the pitchers to remain in top form all the time. Some days, a flinger simply does not have his "stuff," while on other occasions he has his "stuff," but is pounded anyway, because the opposing batters are enjoying one of those field days. An occasional injury or sore arm is expected to show up, but any or all of these things are not figured to hit the whole staff at once.

Manager Johnson brought his team West on the last trip after it had been going great guns and suddenly the whole mound staff cracked wide open and the trip was everything else but a success. The three defeats out of five starts at the hands of the Tigers on this second trip in which the pitching was mighty ragged, undoubtedly is causing considerable worry among the Washington players, and many references have been made to the similar start of the previous jaunt through this sector.

Johnson Sees Little Cause for Worry.

Johnson, however, declares that there is no reason for worry and he is probably right as all indications point to this baby slump as merely a happen so. Every member of the mound staff is in good shape, the spirits of each individual are high and the flingers, as the Nat leader explains it, "simply got out of step."

"There's no reason for anyone to get excited about these losses," he said tonight. "We've been traveling at a faster pace than could be expected of any team over a long stretch, and our alight let down, both in the box and in other respects, was bound to come. It's just a slight reaction and I think we're about over it now.

"LIGHTNING" JONES ON 4 LATONIA WINNERS IN ROW

Rider Sweeps Last Half of Card

Gets Mounts Home in Front in 4th, 5th, 6th, 7th Races.

Pilots Sydney in Feature, Beating Playfellow's Dream.

LATONIA, Ky., July 15 (A.P.).—The spotlight of American turf, usually focused on an outstanding thoroughbred, today shifted to a jockey by the name of "Lightning" Jones, who rode four consecutive winners here.

Starting with the fourth race, the little jockey swept the remainder of the card, scoring first on Johnson N. Camden's Mindora and then followed on Sydney from the same stable, R. C. Thatcher's Account, and closing with C. E. Hamilton's Royal Son.

Always known as a hard worker, "Lightning" came into riding prominence several times last season, when he put over three winners in one day, but never did he equal his brilliant performance of today. His 1929 record shows 104 winners out of 761 mounts accepted.

Victory Is Sydney's Second in Week.

The triumph on Sydney in the Spring Grove Avenue Purse marked the second victory within a week for the 3-year-old gelding from the Camden Barns. J. C. Ellis' Playfellow's Dream showed a return to her winter form, when she ran second, with Ben Machree, from the C. C. & G. Y. Hieatt establishment third. Sydney covered the mile and one-sixteenth in 1:47 2-5.

Sydney was the odds-on favorite, paying $3.06, while the remainder of Jones' winners paid better than even money. Mindoro returned $8.92, Account $5.16, and Royal Son $9.72 for each $2 invested.

RUTLEY-HOWENSTEIN ADVANCE TO DOUBLES FINALS

Shore-Latona Beaten by Veterans

Victors Play Mangan-Considine for Middle Atlantic Crown.

Final Set of Delayed Match Finally Won by Rally, 11-9.

JOSEPH RUTLEY and Owen Howenstein, a veteran doubles team in local and Middle Atlantic competition, won the right to meet Bob Considine and Tom Mangan for the 1930 Middle Atlantic championship yesterday by defeating the youthful Frank Shore, District junior champion, and Anthony Latona, former Western High star, in the fifth set of a match which was begun on Monday.

The titular match will be held today on the Congressional Country Club courts, commencing at 5 p. m.

It took Rutley and Howenstein more than an hour to subdue their junior antagonists in the decisive set. The score was 11 to 9. On Monday the youngsters had evidenced the strength to test the veterans fully by winning the second and third sets, 6—2 and 6—4. Rutley and Howenstein won the first, 6—4, and the fourth, 7—5.

In the fifth chapter Rutley and Howenstein went into a 4—2 leac with a rally that netted four games in succession after a shaky start, but just as things looked dark for the younger duo they quickly mustered power to draw level at 4—4.

From the eighth to the nineteenth games the lead see-sawed, with first one and then the other team holding the advantage. Rutley and Howenstein captured the nineteenth game and followed suit in the twentieth to win the set and match.

On past performances, Considine and Mangan are the favorites today. They will be out to gain their fifth championship in as many tournaments entered since the spring of 1929. Last season they won the doubles titles in the City of Washington and District of Columbia tournaments and this year have duplicated those victories.

Following is the point score of the fifth set yesterday:

Rutley-Howenstein—
1 1 4 4 5 0 3 4 4 1 1 4 4 4 3 4 4—63—11
Shore-Latona—
4 4 1 2 2 3 4 5 1 6 2 4 4 2 6 1 2 5 1 2—61— 9

MACKS BEAT BROWNS FOR FIFTH STRAIGHT

was forced by Blue, batting for Manion, Melillo scoring. Badgro, batting for Stiles, doubled, but McNeely fouled to Dykes for the third out.

The Mackmen, however, already had eleven runs. They scored in the fifth on singles by Bishop and Cochrane off Blaeholder and on Simmons' sacrifice fly against Stiles. They counted another in the seventh on Foxx's double and an error by O'Rourke. Their four runs in the ninth were molded by Miller's double, singles by Boley and Rommel, a pass to Bishop and a triple by Haas with the bases loaded.

The Athletics open a four-game series in Chicago tomorrow.

"Spot the Ball" Fans Given Another Chance Tomorrow

PICTURE the world series, with its fanfare and play-trappings, assembled thousands hanging on every pitch, tense figures on the diamond, the best in the American League meeting the best in the National.

You can be there next October.

Just spot the ball.

The little white pellet in The Post's current "Spot the Ball" contest has not yet been located by the army of fans who have been playing the game through the columns of The Post. There is still a chance to win the trip to the world series.

Hundreds of selections sent in to The Post's "Spot the Ball" editor are thus far unrewarded. The trip to the world series, offered the winner by the Washington Baseball Club, with tickets to the first block of games played nearest or in Washington, transportation and hotel expenses also paid by the Washington team, is as yet unclaimed.

The contest is scheduled to end next Saturday night, but the winner will be announced immediately by The Post if the ball is located sooner. If the ball is not spotted, the selection most nearly correct wins. Each contributor is limited to one selection.

The Post will print the "Spot the Ball" picture again tomorrow morning. Just mark an X where you believe the ball to be, clip the photograph and mail it to the "Spot the Ball" editor of The Post with your name and address written plainly, and await results. Priority of receipt will govern the award if there is a tie or ties.

Watch for the picture again tomorrow morning.

IN THE WAKE OF THE GAME

ing a pass, Alexander robbed Rice of a hit by making a great leaping catch of his hump-backed bounder.

Umpire Campbell had Hoyt, the singing undertaker, crying when he called a fourth ball on West in the sixth. The Tiger pitcher rushed all the way to the plate to protest loudly. The count was 3 and 2 at the time.

Cronin was charged with the first error of the game with one dead in the seventh, when Stone's hard-hit grounder skidded through the "San Francisco Keeds" legs. No harm came of this, however, as Koenig then hit into the Nats' second twin murder of the game.

Judge was credited with his second double of the game in the eighth when Hoyt held him as he rounded first. Despite this interference, he would have made two bases anyway.

In the home eighth, Ruel ran a pop fly all the way to the pitchers' box before grabbing it.

Yanks Make 18 Hits, Fan 9 Times, But Win

Chicago, July 15 (A.P.).—The New York Yankees won the series final from the White Sox today by unleashing their heaviest hitting attack of the current trip at the expense of Pat Caraway and Ed Walsh. The Yanks made eighteen hits to win by a 9-to-5 score.

Herb Pennock was touched for a dozen blows but sent his floaters past the Sox bats in times of danger. He fanned six while nine Yankees struck out at the offerings of the two Chicago pitchers.

later in the season, Bobby, I am sure, would be unhappy and ask himself, "What are they sore at me for?"

I have seen enough of celebrities of many kinds to convince me that though public attention frets their nerves, disturbs their sleep and invades their privacy, they love it. Bobby goes through considerable pulling and hauling on his big days, and gabby inebriates offer him highballs of bum Scotch in the dressing rooms. Of itself, that is no fun. Yet this is part of the hoorah that kids aspire to when they challenge the world. There are 100,000 golfers who envy Jones today and still he wants to play Hamlet.

The Nationals hustled away immediately after this afternoon's game, taking a train scheduled to get them to Cleveland in time for a good night's sleep in preparation for the six games listed there in four days, starting with a double-header tomorrow and ending with one on Saturday.

Manager Johnson has made some changes in his pitching plans. Today he had in mind using Bobby Burke and calling on Fred Marberry and Gen. Alvin Crowder against the Indians in tomorrow's bargain day bill. About game time, however, he suddenly decided to use Marberry this afternoon and to shoot Irving Hadley back in action tomorrow, in view of the fact that Hadley worked but two frames yesterday when he was relieved after a bad start.

Pitcher Carl Fischer, christened Charles but not working at it, took a workout before today's game. The newest Nat raied as a $25,000 purchase from the Newark Bears, declares that he is a greatly improved pitcher since Manager Johnson saw him in 1928.

"Several clubs were bidding for my services last year," said the southpaw, who is only 24 years old, "and I was mighty glad that none of them took me, for I wanted to get more experience so that I would have a chance of sticking. While I know that I am not a finished pitcher, I believe that I have a chance to hang on with the Washington Club. I see that Manager Johnson says I need a curve or change of pace to get by. Well, I think I have a fair curve and a fair change of pace and that Johnson will be pleasantly surprised when he sees it. Understand, I don't think I'm particularly good and know that there is a big difference between pitching in the majors and in the minors, but now that I'm up there I'm certainly going to put up a fight to stay."

Outfielder Heinie Manush saw today's game in uniform. He is in good enough condition to pinch hit, but is afraid to do any strenuous running on his injured leg and likely will be out of the starting line-up for several more days. Improvement in the leg is steady, however, but slow.

Sorry, Golfer Rescues Balls, Clubs and Caddy

White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., July 15 (A.P.).—William Chapin hit three straight balls into the water hazard at the eighteenth hole of the Greenbrier golf course today and it made him plenty mad.

Picking up the remaining balls, he threw them in. Next he pitched in his clubs. His golf bag followed.

Chapin's caddy snickered, so Chapin tossed him in.

Chapin then jumped in himself and rescued balls, clubs, bag and caddy.

Cards Score 4 in 7th To Defeat Phils, 7 to 6

Philadelphia, July 15 (A.P.).—Hits by Hafey and Bottomley in the seventh inning which scored four runs gave St. Louis a 7-to-6 triumph over the Phillies today.

Grimes went the distance for the Red Birds and wasn't in any difficulties. In the ninth the Phils loaded the bases with one out, but Gelbert scooped up Sherlock's whistler over second and turned it into a double play for the final out.

City League to Hear Protest Tomorrow

The board of directors of the Capital City Baseball League yesterday announced that the protest involving the Woodmen of the World and St. Joseph's Teams would be heard tomorrow night, instead of last night, in the Sports Department of The Washington Post at 8 o'clock.

Stanton Playground Captures Dual Meet

Winning the majority of the events in four divisions, the Stanton Playground team yesterday won a dual meet from the Congress Heights Playground youngsters, 84 to 63, on the Stanton Field. A dash, broad jump, and high jump constituted the program for each division—the 70, 85, 100 pound and unlimited.

Ballard and W. Cattell, of Congress Heights, and Dattore of Stanton, walked off with individual honors for the day, each of the trio winning the dash and broad jump of their respective classes. Cattell also placed second in the high jump. In the relay, Congress Heights was victorious, G. Cattell and Shugrue winning the event for their team.

Former C. U. Star Given Newman Prep Position

Cumberland, Md., July 15.—John J. Long, former Catholic University basket ball and football star, will not return to La Salle Institute here as football coach this fall, having signed a contract to coach football, basket ball and baseball at Newman Prep in Lakewood, N. J., one of the largest Catholic preparatory institutions in the United States. He will have an assistant in each sport at Lakewood.

Long first came into athletic notice by his work with Allegany High School here. He played with the local Knights of Columbus Basket Ball Team last winter.

Cincinnati Outslugs Giants to Win by 14-8

New York, July 15 (A.P.).—The Cincinnati Reds outslugged the Giants today to gain a 14-to-8 victory and even the series at one game each. The Reds made 15 hits for a total of 25 bases, while the Giants got 20 bases on their 12 hits.

Ray Kolp, who started for the Reds, held New York in check for five innings, but allowed Roettger and Hogan to hit home runs, each with two on base, in the sixth and seventh. Benton then relieved him. The Giants used four pitchers in rapid succession. Curt Walker and Tony Cuccinello were the batting stars. Walker hit a homer and two doubles while Cuccinello batted in six runs with a homer, a double, a single and a sacrifice.

Roanoke Golf Betters Bilked By Vanishing English Firm

ROANOKE, Va., July 15 (A.P.).—The British open golf championship tournament is now but a memory for some, but it is a warm subject for others, according to reports received by Roanokers who wagered divers sums on American favorites.

A cablegram received here today by an enthusiastic golfer who sent some money to the South Wales Parimutuel Co. at Cardiff, Wales, brought consternation and indignation in the ranks of those who formed a little pool. The message said that the company had departed leaving no address.

The Roanokers made their wagers after receiving an attractively written circular from England a few weeks ago. The company wanted to bet 150 to 1 that R. Alson would not win the championship. Numerous American stars were quoted, the lowest, Bobby Jones, being 10 to 1, and others 16 to 1 and up.

STOCKS' FORWARD COURSE SLACKENS

American Telephone Rises 8 Points While Other Leaders Decline.

COMMODITY PRICES UP

New York, July 15 (A.P.).—Wall street's baby bull market lost a little weight today.

Perhaps the professionals who have been nursing it along were not impressed by the size of their following and decided to take profits while the profit taking was good. Perhaps, too, there was a renewal of short selling.

Doubtless both factors were influential in the irregularity of the day's price movements, which resulted in a scrambled assortment of minor gains and losses.

With the exception of last Friday, the market had been advancing for a week. The virility displayed last Saturday and yesterday had caused some concern in conservative quarters as to the advisability of overextending a demonstration of bullishness at this time.

It was evident at the opening this morning that some of the smaller traders, at least, were taking the side of caution and accepting profits, apparently on the theory that a technical reaction might be expected.

List Strengthens at Noon.

Publication of favorable earnings statements by General Electric and [illegible] with American Telephone's report still fresh in mind, served to strengthen the confidence of traders working for higher prices and by noon the list had lost its early irregularity, although the advance was not as vigorous as yesterday's.

Trading during the afternoon was more nervous in character and profits were accepted rather freely.

Short selling was somewhat stimulated by the weekly estimates of steel operations, published shortly before the close. The average for the industry was set at 57 per cent, which represents a gain from the Fourth of July week, but a decrease from a fortnight ago. United States Steel's ratio was put at 63 per cent, compared with 55 per cent in the holiday period and 69 per cent two weeks ago.

Nevertheless, the bulls refused to be depressed, selecting American Telephone as the leader, they carried the stock across 220 to the highest price in more than a month for a net gain of 8¾ points. Some of the smaller steels and a fair representation of miscellaneous stocks finished the day 1 to 5 points higher.

These included Electric Auto-Lite, Vanadium, Houston Oil, Hudson Motors, Otis Steel, National Steel, Michigan Steel, Du Pont and A. M. Byers. Missouri-Kansas-Texas was bought in anticipation of the dividend declaration and rallied a couple of points.

Union Pacific Off 5 Points.

With most of the seasoned investment shares, however, operators for the advance had only indifferent success. American Can, U. S. Steel, General Electric and General Motors were dull and their net changes inconsequential. Allied Chemical and Union Pacific lost 4 points. Other soft spots embraced J. I. Case, Bethlehem Steel, Delaware & Hudson and Worthington Pump, off 1 to 3 points. The closing price index for 90 leading stocks revealed a decline of 3-10th of a point.

Commodity prices advanced. Wheat rallied more than a cent, reflecting bullish weather forecasts and crop damage in Canada. Corn was up 1 to 2 cents and cotton closed 3 to 10 points higher.

Call money was in rather liberal supply and the rate was again cut to 2 per cent after renewing at 2½. The firmer tendencies recently noted in time funds were continued and rates were increased a quarter of 1 per cent on all maturities as demand quickened. Stiffer interest charges would be seasonal at this time in preparation for crop movements.

Foreign exchanges were irregular. The French franc virtually reached the gold point, pointing to the possibility of exports of the metal to Paris.

BOND PRICES MOVE IRREGULARLY LOWER

AMERICAN PHONE RISES

New York, July 15 (A.P.).—Profit-taking, particularly during the closing hour of today's session, gave an irregular appearance to listed bonds on the New York Stock Exchange. Many railroads and utility bonds were sold at slight concessions, and prices moved irregularly lower. Although losses were nominal in most instances, activity was somewhat improved.

In the lethargic course of the domestic section, the 5-point advance of the American Telephone 4½ on the broadest activity it has experienced in several weeks stood out. The rise was coincident with the sharp gain in the equity issue on the big board. A good demand developed for some of the foreign government bonds and the greatest strength shown during the day was in this group, with several issues unusually buoyant.

The offering of $25,000,000 Austrian 7 per cent bonds, maturing in 27 years, the American portion of an international issue of $55,000,000, was slightly oversubscribed when the books were closed by the offering syndicate this afternoon, it was reported.

Baltimore & Ohio Loses.

Among the railroad issues, price movement was irregularly lower. Pennsylvania 4½s were very active, and after selling at a new year's high, sold off ½ of a point. Baltimore & Ohio refunding 5s lost nearly 2 points on a few sales. St. Paul general 3½s gained about the same amount. Erie 4s and Seaboard 6s gained 1 point each.

Rock Island 4s, Atchison 4s, Missouri Pacific 5s, New York Central 4s and Union Pacific 4s were firm. Big Four 4½s, Delaware & Hudson 4s, Erie 5s, Wabash 4½s, St. Paul 5s, San Francisco 4½s were under pressure, and closed about ½ point lower. Convertible rails moved lower with the exception of Rock Island 4½s and St. Paul Adjustment 5s, which were firm.

Utilities maintained a firm trend most of the day, but some recessions took place before the close. North American Edison 5s, Public Service 4½s, American Telephone debenture 5s, Consolidated Gas 5½s, Columbia Gas & Electric 5s closed lower. San Antonio Public Service 6s, an inactive issue, and Cincinnati Gas & Electric 4s, were firm. Brooklyn Union Gas 5s and Detroit Edison 5s closed at the year's peak prices.

Pathe 7s Gain 1 Point.

Warrant issues attracted considerable attention. Pathe 7s gained more than a point. Transcontinental 6½s were active and steady. Southern Pacific 4½s dropped ½ point. Among industrials Certainteed 5½s gained 3½ points, Colon Oil 6s nearly 2. Fisk Rubber 8s dropped 3.

The widest changes and broadest trading occurred in foreign issues, with South American Governments especially active. Chilean 6s, February, 1961, rose 2½ points; 6s of January, 1961, advanced more than a point. Argentine issues were irregularly higher in a large turnover. Uruguay 8s dropped 2 points. Strong spots among European issues were Belgium 6s, at a new high, the 7s up 1 point and several German government and municipal issues. Greek 7s gained more than 2 points and Swedish 5½s 1½ to establish new 1930 highs. Japan Governments were firm.

United States Governments were little changed. Most activity was entered in Liberty 1st 4¼s, which gained a small fraction.

FEDERAL STORAGE ELECTS H.E. ELY, JR.

Union Fire Insurance Co., of Washington, D. C., Also Selects Directors.

FREIGHT LOADINGS DROP

By THOMAS M. CAHILL.

Election of Hanson E. Ely, jr., to the board of directors of the Federal Storage Co. at the latest meeting of that body, was announced yesterday. Mr. Ely is district manager and special Government representative of the talking picture division of the Western Electric Co. He is also a vice president and director of the Eastern States Gas & Power Co. of New York, and a director in the Anderson Gas & Utilities Co., the Greenwood Gas & Fuel Co. and the Sumter Gas & Power Co., all of South Carolina.

Mr. Ely is a graduate of the United States Naval Academy in the class of 1917 and is a member of the Army and Navy Club. He is a son of Maj. Gen. Hanson E. Ely, U. S. A. Other directors of the Federal Storage Co. are E. K. Morris, Robert B. Hall, James M. Johnston, Harold N. Marsh, Charles P. Stone, H. Randolph Barbee, D. P. Gaillard, Henry P. Erwin, C. Griffith Warfield, Daniel L. Borden and Carroll Morgan.

G. L. Ohrstrom Aid Named.

G. L. Ohrstrom & Co. announce the appointment of John Roche Howland as resident manager of their Washington office in the Shoreham Building. Mr. Howland comes here from the Philadelphia office of the company. He is a graduate of United States Naval Academy, and, before joining the Ohrstrom organization, was associated with the Illinois Merchants Trust Co., of Chicago.

The policy of distributing conservative bonds and investment stocks and the development of estates from an analysis of investment needs has placed G. L. Ohrstrom & Co. among the largest national distributers in the country.

At the annual election of the stockholders of the National Union Fire Insurance Co. of Washington, D. C., the following directors were chosen to serve for the ensuing year: Charles R. Brown, Floyd E. Davis, Albert F. Fox, C. E. Galliher, Holcombe G. Johnson, J. Leo Kolb, John B. Larner, Walter S. Pratt, jr., B. F. Saul and Fritz L. Sandoz.

The board subsequently organized by the selection of the following officers: Albert F. Fox, president; B. F. Saul, vice president; John B. Larner, vice president; William H. Somerville, secretary, and William H. Marbury, assistant secretary.

Organized in 1865.

The charter of the company bears the signatures of Abraham Lincoln and William H. Seward, having been organized in 1865. Mr. Fox was re-elected president for his twenty-ninth consecutive year.

Loading of revenue freight for the week ended July 5 totaled 792,141 cars, the car service division of the American Railway Association announced yesterday. Due to the observance of Fourth of July and the fact that the day following was also observed as a holiday, the total for the week of July 5 was a decrease of 144,707 cars below the preceding week and a reduction of 119,002 cars under the same week in 1929. It also was 58,806 cars below the same week in 1928.

	1930.	1929.
Four weeks in January.	3,349,424	3,571,455
Four weeks in February	3,505,962	3,766,136

Four weeks in June.....	3,719,477	4,291,881
Week of July 5.....	792,141	911,143
Total	23,999,447	26,528,096

Dr. Mark F. Finley, a director of the Merchants Bank & Trust Co., and past president of the American Dental Association, leaves tomorrow as a delegate to the association's annual convention at Denver.

Curb Review

New York, July 15 (A.P.).—Curb stocks again made substantial progress in today's trading, although a little irregularity cropped out among some of the more popular trading stocks in the afternoon. The market was fairly active during the morning, but turned dull as the session wore on. Total sales aggregated 618,300 shares.

Some of the industrials were buoyant. Driver Harris, an unusually wide mover for its price, sold up 12 points to 85, and closed at 83. Aluminum Co. gained more than 6, and Columbia Pictures recorded a similar advance. Johnson Motor, Deere Cuneo Press and others advanced a point or two.

Aviation stocks were in better demand, reflecting reports of better transport business and sales. Output this year, however, is expected to fall somewhat short of last, and earnings continue low. Aviation Corporation of the Americas gained 4, and National Aviation sold up fractionally. Detroit Aircraft also sold up a fraction, as the issue again turned active, reflecting report of six months sales of more than $1,600,000 and unfilled orders July 1 of over $1,100,000.

Utilities turned irregular. Consolidated Gas of Baltimore gained 3, and Standard Power & Light 2 points. Electric Bond & Share sold up about 1½ points, then lost its gain. American Light & Traction, American Superpower and Middle West Utilities sagged a fraction.

Several of the investment trusts were in fair demand. Securities Corporation general gained 5 points, Shenandoah common a point, Trans-America ¾, and Prince & Whitely ⅜. United Founders closed off ¼. Oils were inclined to sag, although Cities Service closed up ¼, and was again active. Gulf lost 2.

REICHSTAG VOTES TAX UNDER THREAT

Chancellor, Ready to Use Dictatorial Powers, Gets One Article Through.

CRISIS RESUMED TODAY

Berlin, July 15 (A.P.).—It took all of Chancellor Heinrich Bruening's eloquence, backed by the threat of sending the Reichstag home and governing the country with the dictatorial measures granted in article 48 of the constitution, to make the German Parliament today swallow the tax proposals of Dr. Hermann Dietrich, minister of finance.

After hearing this threat of dissolution, the Reichstag members adjourned for an hour to think things over. President von Hindenburg's letter to Premier Braun, of Prussia, containing his refusal to enter the Prussian Rhineland so long as the "steel helmet" organization was banned, had brought the debate to fever heat when they reassembled.

..ew Offensive Seen.

Some deputies believed the president had taken the offensive against the Prussian government and might even renounce the Prussian coalition of Centrists and Social Democrats in exchange for Nationalist support in the Reichstag.

In this electrically charged atmosphere the coalition parties, without the Social Democrats, brought to a vote and passed article 1 of the financial reform program, providing an additional tax of 2½ per cent on the income tax of civil service officials and all other taxpayers until March, 1931.

The Nationalists, the Communists and the Fascists voted against the measure. The Social Democrats abstained. They thus carried out their announced intention of helping the government to put through article 1 without committing themselves to the rest of the coalition's program. The Reichstag then adjourned till tomorrow.

The Social Democrats expect to open negotiations for the inclusion of their own proposals in the coalition's financial program, with which they are not satisfied.

Breaks Down Opposition.

Chancellor Bruening broke down the opposition to Dr. Dietrich's measure by a forcible appeal to the Reichstag, in which he threatened that if the deputies "failed to live up to this great hour," the cabinet would put through the measures "with the help of the constitution," meaning article 48.

Dr. Dietrich's program for putting the Reich's finances on a safe and sane basis calls for a drastic reduction of Federal expenditures, imposition of a special tax on government employes, and the levy of an extraordinary tax on incomes above $2,000 per year.

The finance minister also tried to include a tax on bachelors and spinsters, but it encountered violent opposition in the tax committee of the Reichstag, and he declared it was useless to go on.

Florida Numbers 1,486,635 in Census

More Than 51 Per Cent Gain Reported; Jacksonsonville Leads Cities.

Jacksonville, Fla., July 15 (A.P.).—With an increase of 51.6 per cent in the last decade, Florida's population is 1,486,635, according to unofficial tabulation of enumerators completed today from each of the 67 counties. The State gained 500,165 over the 1920 figure of 968,470.

During the past ten years three cities advanced into the 100,000 class. They are Jacksonville, with 129,682; Miami, 110,025, and Tampa, 100,910. Of the 67 counties 44 increased their population substantially, while 10 showed slight increases. The other thirteen were created since the 1920 census. Counties along the East Coast, where many of the resorts are located, enjoyed the largest increases.

In addition to Jacksonville, Miami and Tampa, the ten other largest cities of the State, in order, are: St. Petersburg, 39,501; Pensacola, 31,455; Orlando, 27,263; West Palm Beach, 21,328; Lakeland, 18,549; Daytona Beach, 16,761; Key West, 13,279; St. Augustine, 11,930; Tallahassee, 10,744, and Sanford, 10,003.

M'DONALD CABINET FACES HARD FIGHT

Liberals Decide They Will Not Hesitate to Vote Against Him.

INDIAN STORM BREWING

London, July 15 (A.P.).—A political battle on three important fronts today loomed before the government of Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald.

Defeated today in the House of Lords on an amendment to its much amended coal bill, the second Labor cabinet tonight was confronted suddenly with a menace from the Liberal party opposition.

At a meeting this evening the Liberal parliamentry group, which hitherto has supported the government on votes affecting questions of policy important enough to entail its possible resignation, decided that in future divisions the Liberal members would not hesitate to vote against it, or even deliberately attempt to defeat it.

The meeting was primarily held to discuss Labor's escape from defeat last week on its financial bill. Through the votes of four Liberals and the abstentions of others, Prime Minister MacDonald carried an important clause of the bill by two votes.

The Liberals agreed that the party could hope to achieve nothing of importance in the house unless its members worked together as a team.

The questions of India, and of the round table conference on Indian affairs next October, may also brew a storm for the Labor ship before the end of the present session of Parliament, scheduled for early next month.

During the past few days many members of the House have expressed uneasiness about the government's views on the Simon commission report. The Conservatives yesterday voted a resolution stressing the value of the Simon report for discussion at the conference and urging that the British delegation represent all political parties.

As Sir John Simon, under whose guidance the commission worked and whose name was given to the report, is one of the leaders of the Liberal party, the Liberals may be as ready as the Conservatives to give battle to Labor if any departure from the report is made to satisfy the Indian Nationalist element.

Boston Celebrates 300 Years of Life

British Ambassador Gives England's Greeting to Massachusetts.

Boston, July 15 (A.P.).—Three-hundred-year-old streets echoed today to the tramp of marching thousands and the cheers of onlooking hundreds of thousands, celebrating 300 years of Massachusetts history.

Upon three-centuries-old Boston Common the massed thousands, including high State and city dignitaries, heard Sir Ronald Lindsay, British Ambassador to the United States, bring the greetings of the ancient mother State.

Frank G. Allen, latest governor in a line reaching back into Massachusetts' beginnings, spoke, as did James M. Curley, Mayor of Boston, and Herbert A. L. Fisher, warden of New College, Oxford, one-time member of the privy council of the crown.

Nebraska Official Holds Fate of Norris Opponent

Lincoln, Neb., July 15 (A.P.).—The fate of the candidacy of George W. Norris, of Broken Bow, Neb., in his contest to remain on the Republican primary ballot for the U. S. Senate as an opponent of the senior Nebraska senator, George W. Norris, of McCook, tonight rested in the hands of Secretary of State Frank Marsh.

Completing a day of argument in which the filing of the Broken Bow man was opposed as illegal in that it was received by mail two days after the legal time limit had expired, Secretary Marsh announced he would make his decision in time to permit either side to seek redress in the courts if they so desired.

Man Shoots His Mother, Opposed to Love Match

Jersey City, N. J., July 15 (A.P.).—Royal C. MacDonald, 24 years old, fired a bullet through the head of his mother, Mrs. Gladys MacDonald, today in an argument over his sweetheart.

Mrs. MacDonald, who is 40, was taken to a hospital in a critical condition. Her son was held. The argument over the girl, Marjorie Hundrey, of Bayonne, N. J., started last Saturday when the boy's mother tried to break up the match. The shooting today followed a futile conference between the girl, MacDonald and their mothers.

Baron Howard, Former Envoy, Selects Title

London, July 15 (A.P.).—Sir Esme Howard, former British Ambassador to the United States, who was granted a barony in the recent king's birthday honors, has taken the title of Baron Howard of Penrith.

Official announcement of his selection was made in today's London Gazette.

Fifth Avenue Fashion

A charming printed cotton voile that answers many daytime requirements for the woman who stays in town.

The capelet collar falling softly over the shoulders is very flattering.

A fitted hip yoke in pointed treatment at the front secures the important slenderness to the silhouette. The attached circular skirt is shaped with fluttering fullness at the hem.

Style No. 368 may be had in sizes 16, 18, 20 years; 36, 38, 40 and 42 inches bust.

It is quite as effective and very summery, made sleeveless of shell-pink flat washable silk crepe.

Printed dimity, sheer linen print, shantung and printed batiste are smartly appropriate.

Price of pattern, 15 cents. Address Fashion Department, Washington Post, 259 Fifth avenue, New York City.

Inclosed is 15 cents. Please send to

EMPLOYES OVER 70 ASK CONTINUANCE IN SERVICE VAINLY

Commission, So Far, Grants No Extensions Under Retirement Law.

DALE-LEHLBACH ACT APPLIES TO EXPERTS

Interpreting Langauge of Clause, However, Is No Easy Task.

A number of Federal employes beyond the age of 70, who had hoped to be continued in the service after August 20 under the extension clause of the Dale-Lehlbach retirement act, are going to be disappointed, it appeared yesterday.

The Civil Service Commission, it was learned, already has disapproved a number of requests for continuances, and very probably will disapprove more. Thus far no recommendations for continuances have been approved, although it is certain that some will be.

The act of July 3, 1926, provides that after August 30 of this year no employe shall be continued in the service beyond the age of retirement for more than four years. In other words, an employe in the 70-year retirement class would have to leave when he reached the age of 74.

Exception for Experts.

In enacting the Dale-Lehlbach retirement bill at the last session, however, Congress amended the act of 1926. It provided that, where an employe was possessed of "expert knowledge and special qualifications" and his continuance in office would be "advantageous to the public service," then that employe might continue beyond the age of 74—that is, provided his department head recommended the continuance and the Civil Service Commission approved.

Judging from what has happened, there is a fairly wide difference of opinion between the department heads and the commission as to what constitutes expert knowledge, special qualifications, and advantage to the public service.

John T. Doyle, veteran secretary of the Civil Service Commission, explained yesterday that the commission necessarily has to construe the language of the Dale-Lehlbach act strictly. Consequently, he said, it can not let sentiment sway it.

Must be Outstanding.

"An employe may be a good fellow, he may be in good physical shape, and he may be highly efficient," Mr. Doyle said, "but these are not sufficient reasons to continue him in the service after he has passed the age limit. The way the commission interprets the law, the employe who is to be excepted must be an outstanding expert; for example, one who is in the midst of an important piece of research work, and whose loss would be a loss to the public service."

Regardless of what the commission does, there are six aged employes in Washington who, as a result of legislation enacted at the last session, are assured of lifetime jobs.

They are Dr. William Tindall, chief of the Information Bureau of the District government, and five employes at the Capitol—Charles E. Fairman, chief clerk and art curator; Henry W. Taylor, engineer, who has been in the service for 48 years; Charles A. Howard, a carpenter; Mrs. Laura Bradley, an attendant, and William A. (Andy) Smith, Congressional Record clerk, who has been with the Government Printing Office since 1873.

Dr. Tindall's continuance in the service was assured by a provision in the District appropriation bill, and the others were taken care of by a provision in the legislative appropriation bill.

Police Vacancies To Be Filled Soon

City Heads Will Be Asked Next Week to Confirm Appointments.

Filling of the 62 vacancies in the ranks of the Police Department will be begun next week, when police officials will ask the Commissioners to confirm the appointment of the first group of applicants certified to the department by the Civil Service Commission as having passed the physical and mental examinations and being eligible for appointment.

The commission sent a list of six men as eligible. These are the first who have been certified from among those who took the last examination in April. These men are being investigated by Lieut. Joseph C. Morgan, liaison officer between the Police Department and the Civil Service Commission, and those found to meet with the department's requirements will be certified to the District Commissioners for appointment.

The number of vacancies now existing is due to the lack of an eligible list from which new men could be chosen. Filling the vacancies is expected to use up the entire list of eligibles from the last examination and make necessary another examination immediately by the Civil Service Commission if the police force is to be kept at full strength.

Purchase of City Center Lots Given Approval

Purchase of three lots for the Municipal center was approved yesterday by the District Commissioners on recommendation of Maj. H. L. Robb, assistant engineer, who has taken over the duties formerly performed by Maj. L. E. Atkins, now on duty in Alaska.

Lot 57, in reservation 10, was bought from Catherine L. Thecker and Charles E. Gough for $17,000; lot 810 in square 533 was bought for $29,103 from Amy Gauvreau, and lot 44 in reservation 10 was bought from the National Florence Crittenton Mission for $26,910.

Carillon Tower Urged To Honor Presidents

Nashville, Tenn., July 15 (A.P.).—A tower with a carillon that can be heard for 20 miles may perpetuate the memory of Tennessee's three citizens who rose to the highest office in the land.

Dr. W. D. Haggard, of Nashville, a member of the President's plaza commission named to plan a million-dollar memorial to Presidents James K. Polk, Andrew Jackson and Andrew Johnson, has suggested a reproduction of one of the world's outstanding towers with the carillon.

CITY'S 1932 NEEDS BEING PARED DOWN

$7,000,000 May Be Cut by Commissioners From Official Requests.

SEEK $54,000,000 FUND

Eliminating from the District departmental estimates for 1932 a list of items which have been considered on the border line, the District Commissioners expect today to complete their job of preparing the estimates and to bring the total down to the estimated revenues of the District in the next fiscal year.

Confronted with requsts from department heads totaling $54,000,000 and the responsibility of cutting these estimates down nearly $7,000,000 or compelling an increase in municipal taxes next year, the Commissioners have spent several weeks in almost daily sessions studying the figures of each department and weighing the city's needs.

Individual Items Considered.

They followed the practice of passing on each item on its merits as they went through the estimates the first time, familiarizing themselves with the various services and necessities for increasing their work, and for several weeks none of the Commissioners would venture the prediction that the total which would be submitted to the Budget Bureau could be brought down to the amount of the estimated revenues next year.

Preliminary casting up of the cuts which have been made in the course of their further study of the estimates, however, showed that almost enough had been cut from the departmental estimates when the Commissioners adjourned their meeting shortly after 6 o'clock last night.

The task will be resumed this morning and is expected to be completed today, with consideration being given to a list of items which had been laid aside earlier in the conference for future consideration and possible elimination if the necessity arose.

Statement by Reichelderfer.

The preliminary casting up, it was said by Dr. Luther H. Reichelderfer, president of the board, at the conclusion of the session yesterday shows that "we can bring the estimates submitted by the department heads down to the total of our estimated revenues for 1932."

This means that the estimates submitted by the Commissioners to the Budget Bureau will not necessitate an increase in the existing tax rate.

The exact total of the estimates which will be submitted will not be made public because of Budget Bureau practice. The estimates have been considered a secret matter and the first full and complete information which the District taxpayers will get on the subject will be when the Budget Bureau sends the estimates to Congress as not being in "conflict with the President's financial program."

Running Into Street, Child Is Hit by Auto

Running from behind a parked automobile, Evaglos Karadimos, 2 years old, was knocked down and badly bruised yesterday morning by an automobile said by police to have been driven by Russell L. Dodson, of 1625 Fourth street northwest.

The child was treated at Emergency Hospital and later taken to his home at 612 Second street northwest. The accident occurred in front of the child's home.

Capital Man Passes Bar.

Colin E. McRae, jr., of 1626 Webster avenue northwest, who was graduated recently from the National Law School, has passed the bar examination in Arkansas and will be licensed to practice law before the supreme court and State courts of Arkansas.

MAN, GIRL SOUGHT IN DIAMOND ROBBERY

Pair Believed to Have Taken $5,000 in Jewelry From Capital Firm.

CONCEALED GEM TRAY

A debonair young man and a chic woman companion, suspected of stealing a tray of 81 white gold wedding rings set with diamonds from the R. Harris & Co. jewelry store at Eleventh and F streets northwest, were being sought by Washington detectives and police and authorities in nearby States last night.

The diamonds, valued at more than $5,000, were reported missing to police Monday night, but the jewelry company asked that the report be withheld until it was learned whether or not the jewelry had been misplaced. Yesterday morning, a check-up revealed that the diamonds were missing and an investigation was started by the detective bureau.

Close questioning of employes at the store revealed that at the luncheon hour Monday the man and woman came into the store while the clerk in charge of the wedding ring counter was out. The couple asked to be shown a piece of jewelry in the window. It is believed that the pseudo customers concealed the tray of diamonds when a saleswoman was complying with their request.

Descriptions of the couple have been broadcast to authorities in nearby States and all places where rings may be sold are being watched.

Man Injured by Thug Is in Serious Condition

Held up and struck on the head by an unidentified Negro, Charlie Lee Git, a Chinaman, was in a serious condition at Emergency Hospital last night.

Git told police that he was accosted by the colored man on Pennsylvania avenue near Washington Circle at an early hour yesterday morning. After knocking the Chinaman unconscious, the marauder took a small amount of change, police reported. Git is suffering from severe lacerations of the scalp. He lives at 17 Laurel avenue, Takoma Park. The case is being investigated by Third Precinct police.

Denied Passports, Two Fight Police

Couple Taken to Gallinger After Battle in Front of Polish Embassy.

Angered, according to police, because the Polish Embassy would not furnish them necessary papers so they could obtain passports to return to Poland, John Ochendleszka, 42 years old, and his wife, Maggie, 55 years old, of Cleveland, Ohio, were arrested yesterday morning after an altercation with police in front of the Polish Embassy on Sixteenth street near Euclid street northwest.

The couple had been "picketing" the embassy for several days and spent most of the time on the front steps of the Polish headquarters, police said. Attaches of the embassy complained to police, resulting in a fight yesterday morning with Detectives C. P. Cox, D. G. Fletcher, of headquarters; a policewoman and Eighth Precinct police.

The man surrendered after a brief bout, but the woman tore into the police with her hands and scratched a number of faces and bit the policewoman on the arm, it was reported. After being subdued, the couple was taken to Gallinger Hospital for mental observation.

5-CENT TAXICABS MAKE THEIR DEBUT ON CITY'S STREETS

Jitney Auto Company Will Get Nickel for Each Third of Mile.

NEW MACHINES CARRY METERS FOR ACCURACY

25 Cars Constitute Fleet; Competitor Considers Fixing Flat Rate.

A fleet of jitney taxicabs operating at 5 cents for each third of a mile, made its appearance in Washington yesterday when the Nickel Cab Co. started brilliant purple cabs on the streets of the District.

The new cabs were inspected yesterday by Sergt. Joseph B. Harrington, of the Traffic Bureau, and John W. Storer, inspector for the office of the Director of Traffic, who approved them mechanically.

Statement by Manager.

Joseph Kassner, manager of the company which has its offices at 1140 Twentieth street northwest, said yesterday:

"The era of cheaper taxicabs has arrived and I believe that at the new cheaper price we will create a taxicab-riding public such as we do not now have. Our taxicabs will carry from one to five persons for 5 cents for each one-third mile. We will have the cabs equipped with meters so that persons may see just what they have to pay and will not be bothered with riding past zone lines and will not have to rely on the driver for the amount of fare.

Families Seen as Customers.

"With this cheap rate I feel that families now can afford to take rides through the parks in the evening. The new rates are in most cases cheaper than the lowest flat rate. There will be no charge for stops. We will have modern taxicabs, all in perfect mechanical condition, and the drivers will work on a commission basis. We will not rent cabs to drivers as is done with the flat-rate cabs."

Meanwhile the persistent rumors of an impending fleet of flat-rate cabs to operate in the District at 25 cents per trip were revived yesterday when an attorney telephoned to the District Building to seek information on behalf of a client, who, he said, is planning to operate cabs paralleling certain street car lines at the 25-cent rate.

Man Sues to Enjoin Collection of Rent

Charges Taxes in Arrears and One Defendant Has Defaulted on Note.

A suit to enjoin Joseph McReynolds, Thomas J. Fisher & Co. and Randall H. Hagner & Co. from collecting rentals on several apartments pending sale under foreclosure proceedings was filed in the District Supreme Court yesterday by A. Joseph Howar, 1412 I street.

The plaintiff alleges that he holds a second trust note for $250,000 on apartments known as the Flagler, the Guthridge, the Windemere and the Harrowgate, and that McReynolds has allowed taxes to become in arrears, in addition to defaulting on the note.

The defendant has been notified of foreclosure proceedings, the petition asserts, and the court is asked to issue an injunction assuring the plaintiff of rentals collected between publication of the foreclosure notice and the subsequent sale on July 25. The plaintiff is represented by Attorney Alvin L. Newmyer.

Utilities Commission Fills Four New Jobs

Four of the seven new jobs provided the Public Utilities Commission in the appropriation act for the current year were filled yesterday by the Commission. Two engineers and a stenographer remain to be appointed to complete the contemplated expansion of the work of the Commission. Those appointed yesterday are:

Herbert B. Steele, accounting and auditing assistant, promoted to accountant and auditor at $3,200 a year; James L. Martin, who has been research clerk for the people's counsel, made an assistant accountant and auditor at $2,800; J. W. Falk, secretary to Col. William B. Ladue, who is retiring as engineer commissioner, made senior accounting and auditing assistant at $2,000. Elwin A. Potter, not before in the District service, was appointed chemist and assistant to the gas engineer in the gas inspection bureau at $2,000.

OFFICERS LAUNCH INVESTIGATION INTO DEATH OF PRIVATE

Board Is Appointed to Learn Whether or Not Soldier Died by Own Hand.

MISSING FROM POST SINCE LAST JANUARY

Serial Numbers Bare Pistol as Gaiter's, Carried on Duty Tour.

The mysterious death of a soldier, whose bullet-punctured skeleton was found yesterday near Fort George G. Meade, Md., will be the subject of an inquiry today by an Army board of inquiry. Officials of the fort have tentatively identified the body as that of Pvt. H. Gaiter, attached to the fort, who disappeared from his sentry post last January.

Close to the body an automatic service pistol was found by two soldiers who stumbled upon the body in a dense thicket in a ravine south of the W. B. & A. Railroad tracks near the fort. One discharged shell was also found.

Pistol Is Traced.

Through the serial numbers on the pistol, Lieut. L. A. Day traced it as having been issued to Pvt. Gaiter. The skeleton was lying on a soldier's overcoat. A bullet had passed through the soldier's head, entering at the right temple and emerging behind the left ear.

In the ashes of what military authorities said was a bonfire, it was hoped that some clue to the motive for the death would be found. Close scrutiny of the remains failed to reveal anything in the nature of positive identification.

Maj. D. T. Green, executive officer at the fort late yesterday appointed Maj. C. D. Holmes, Capt. S. J. Raymond, Capt. W. O. Shrum and Lieut. J. Heylman to investigate the case and determine whether the death was caused by murder or suicide.

Gaiter Model Soldier.

Lieut. Day, Gaiter's superior officer, said he was a model soldier and was listed for promotion. One cold night in January he disappeared from his post and had been listed as a deserter. Upon his disappearance, friends of the soldier beat the brush for miles in the vicinity of the post without result.

On the night of his disappearance he was assigned to sentry duty along a lonely stretch of land near the ordnance warehouses and coal tipple. Lieut. Day could give no reason for any suicidal act on Gaiter's part. So far as the officer knew, the man had not been despondent, nor had he been in difficulties.

Size 36 Burglar Sought In Theft From Store

Police last night were searching for a burglar who takes a size 36 following the theft of five suits of this size and $150 in money from the Friedlander Brothers store at 428 Ninth street northwest.

The burglar entered the store by breaking a skylight with a pressing iron, wrapped in a handkerchief to deaden the sound. He also took a quantity of accessory clothing, but overlooked $40 in cash and $100 in checks. Police believe he was familiar with the store, as he made his exit through a door from the basement to the rear alley, using a key concealed in a place known only to employes of the store.

Skidding Machine Injures Brothers

Two Pedestrians Knocked Down When Woman Tries to Avoid Crash.

Skidding into a tree in swerving to avoid a collision with another car, an automobile driven by Mrs. Esther Renner, 45 years old, of 1908 Sixteenth street northwest, knocked down and injured two pedestrians who were on the sidewalk shortly after 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon.

The injured, George E. Allen, 33 years old, colored, and his brother, Philip Allen, 25 years old, both of Fairfax, Va., were taken to Emergency Hospital. The older brother received abrasions on the back and head while the younger sustained a slight nose injury.

Mrs. Renner received a laceration of the right cheek. After receiving treatment, she returned to her home, where she was reported to be suffering from shock. After investigating the accident, Third Precinct police decided not to place any charge against Mrs. Renner.

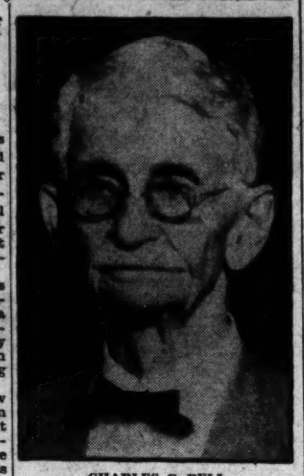
Crop Rotation Held Greatest Farm Need

Less Government Relief and Better Fertilizer Wanted, Bell Says.



CHARLES C. BELL.

An old Union soldier, deep in life's eventide, who, after 66 years found the grave of his Confederate brother in Lynchburg, Va., stopped in Washington yesterday to tell the Federal Farm Board that what the farmer needs is not Federal farm relief, but better fertilizer and a more intelligent rotation of crops.

Charles C. Bell, now a prosperous farmer in Boonville, Mo., is the soldier. Behind his rustic reserve is a vast and benevolent worldly knowledge accumulated in 82 years of study in the university of experience. When he speaks he usually says something interesting.

Mr. Bell, after a brief interview with President Hoover, told Farm Board members that storing wheat does not aid the farmer. Proper rotation of crops, he said, will solve the farmer's problem. Mr. Bell asserts that he could sell carloads of wheat at the present time, but the law of supply and demand would govern the price.

Mr. Bell was one of the committee of 22 appointed in 1926 to study the farm problem. Farmers now, he said, can sell their crops and do not need any assistance from the Government.

The old soldier came East to find the grave of his Confederate brother, Philip, who was his enemy in arms in the Civil War. Three other brothers were in the Union Army. In looking backard he has formulated the opinion that if those who declare war were compelled to visit the national cemetery and walk past the thousands of graves they would be more hesitant in beginning hostilities.

In his service he was engaged in the pursuit of the James brothers, notorious bandits. When war ceased there were 252 in his G. A. R. post back home. Now the blue line has dwindled to six.

In order to produce better results from crops, he told the Farm Board, pulverized lime is needed to enrich the impoverished soil. On his farm in Missouri, which is on the South bluffs of the Missouri River, the stone is rich in lime which he would give the Government providing the product is distributed to the farmers.

Mr. Bell is a descendant of a militant family, his father having been expatriated from Germany because he bore arms against the kaiser in 1840. One of the most interesting incidents in his life, he recalls, was a friendship he cultivated with Jefferson Davis, president of the Confederacy.

POISON HELD CAUSE OF WOMAN'S DEATH

Inquest Over Victim Is Set for Today, Following Doctor's Autopsy.

NOTE ASKED CREMATION

An autopsy performed yesterday by Dr. Joseph D. Rogers on the body of Mrs. Pearl L. Weed, who was found dying in her apartment at the LaSalle Apartments last Saturday, indicated that the woman had taken poison, according to a report received by Coroner J. Ramsay Nevitt.

A verdict on the cause of Mrs. Weed's death will be left to a coroner's jury at an inquest at 11:30 o'clock this morning. Beyond stating that certain internal conditions indicated that an overdose of some sleeping potion or some stronger form of poison appeared to have been taken, Dr. Rogers and Dr. Nevitt would not commit themselves last night.

Mrs. Weed was found in an unconscious condition in her apartment on Saturday by Miss Lottie Jackson, assistant manager of the LaSalle. She failed to regain consciousness and died at Emergency Hospital on Monday.

Typewritten notes were left by Mrs. Weed, addressed to managers of the apartment house, giving directions for the disposition of her estate. She also left a note, expressing a desire to be cremated when she died, Dr. Nevitt revealed yesterday.

Mrs. Weed was 49 years old. She was divorced several years ago.

Infant Falls and Nearly Bites Tongue in Two

Although his teeth are still new, Hubert W. Stanley, 18-month-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Brooks Stanley, of 4542 Conduit road northwest, learned they are extremely sharp last night when he fell from a couch at home and bit his tongue almost in two.

Georgetown Hospital physicians were required to take three stitches in the child's tongue. The operation, they said, was very difficult to perform.

Court Continues Robbery Hearing

Defense in Filling Station Holdup Given Time to Get Witnesses.

Charges of robbery preferred against Victor Cercio, 27, of 110 E street southeast, were continued until Wednesday when the defendant was arraigned before Judge Isaac R. Hitt in Police Court yesterday. Although police declare that the taxicab which Cercio is said to have stolen was used in the $2,200 robbery of the Lord Baltimore Filling Station last Sunday, he was charged only with the theft of the vehicle.

Fred Hopkins, colored, identified the defendant as one of two men who hired his cab at Seventh and T streets Sunday and forced him to drive to a spot near the Pennsylvania Avenue Bridge, where he says he was gagged and tied to a tree while the men escaped in the cab.

He managed to cut his bonds and make his way to the Eleventh Precinct station, where the robbery was first reported. Judge Hitt continued the case to allow defense counsel to subpena witnesses. Bond was fixed at $5,000.

ATTACKERS SUFFER IN MIMIC WARFARE

Red Army Repulsed by Blue Reservists, Defending National Capital.

CURTIS REVIEWS TYROS

Shortly before dawn today, the Ninety-ninth Division, Corps Reserve, counter-attacked the Red unit in the mimic warfare which is in progress at Fort George G. Meade, Md., is an effort to restore the original Blue defensive system by flattening the salient near Millersville and the W. B. & A. Railroad.

As Washington appeared about to be captured, and the imaginary Third Army was straining every effort to stave off the Red enemy, the Red general offensive was checked last night by the Blue defenders, and the Red line now extends generally from the vicinity of Buena Vista through Bright Seat and Seat Pleasant, following the Blue line resistance to the head of the Severn River and thence to Marley Station.

The maneuvers in the Third Corps Area constitute the first unified training of all troops in the area since the World War. Today the enemy theoretically is but 4 miles from the Capital, conducting a concentrated drive on the central point by which to reach Pittsburgh and bottle up theoretical war supplies there.

The salient driven into the Blue line in the vicinity of Millersville was somewhat enlarged yesterday, but little advantage has been gained by the Red cavalry against the Blue north flank, beyond which lies Baltimore.

Vice President Curtis reviewed the 850 Pennsylvanians at the C. M. T. C. Camp at Fort Washington yesterday, and addressed them briefly upon the advantages of the training given at the camp. No regular troops participated in the review.

It was announced at Fort Monroe, Va., yesterday that a three-week trip to Camp Perry, Ohio, is being offered to the most proficient riflemen in the C. M. T. C. battalion at Fort Monroe, Va.

The selected candidates will comprise part of the Third Corps Area C. M. T. C. rifle team if successful in the corps elimination contest, and will compete against C. M. T. C. teams from the nine corps areas of the country at Camp Perry. One team captain, ten principals and two alternates will make up the team.

Garfinckel Asks Permit For Two-Story Building

Julius Garfinckel applied at the office of District Building Inspector Oehmann yesterday for a permit to construct a two-story brick, concrete, stone and steel store building on the Fourteenth street side of his nine-story store structure at the northwest corner of Fourteenth and F streets. The cost has not yet been estimated.

The building will front Nos. 616-622 Fourteenth street and it will be approximately 113 feet wide. Its depth will range from 61 to 100 feet and its height will be 38 feet. Charles H. Tompkins Co., of this city, are the builders and Starrett & Van Vleck, of New York, the architects. Several weeks ago Mr. Garfinckel filed application to construct two two-story store buildings at 1423-25 F street, adjoining the large store building on its F street side.

Fumes in Restaurant Checked.

Donning gas masks, members of the fire rescue squad mended a broken ammonia pipe in a restaurant on Ninth near E street northwest before anyone was overcome or any damage done early yesterday afternoon.

WHOLESALE THEFT OF CHICKENS LAID TO TRAPPED MEN

Capital Police Who Made Arrests Turn Prisoners Over to County.

STOLEN AUTOS USED, IS ADDITIONAL CHARGE

Apprehension of Band Will Clear Up Various Crimes, It Is Believed.

With the arrest of four Negroes, Prince Georges County police believe they have solved a long list of chicken thefts in Prince Georges County, Montgomery County, Virginia, and Washington. The four men admit, according to Sheriff Charles S. Early, chief of Prince Georges County police, that they robbed five places in Prince Georges County. They are being held in the county jail at Upper Marlboro.

The men were arrested by Lieut. K. M. Roper and Motorcycle Policeman T. F. Heide, of the Twelfth Precinct, Washington, for the Maryland police and were turned over early yesterday morning to Sheriff Early. About 50 of the allegedly stolen chickens have been recovered.

The men gave their names as William Edge, John Sampson, both 19 years old, and both of Fifth street near O street northwest; John Tillman, 19, Eleventh street near O street northwest, and John Evans, 27, who said he had no address. Evans is being held by Washington police, charged with vagrancy.

Among the loot which police charge was stolen from nearby Maryland poultry yards was a group of prize chickens which had been hatched from eggs that cost as much singly as ordinary eggs cost for a dozen. These chickens weighed about 2½ pounds each and were included in a lot of 50 chickens sold for $12 to a dealer at the O street market.

The prisoners also admit the theft of six automobiles, police say, and police believe that they can fasten a number of other thefts on the men. The cars were taken for the use of the men in the robberies and then abandoned, police believe. The automobile cases will be tried in Washington.

Man's Ills Increase En Route to Physician

The ailments of J. W. Moffett, 52 years old, of 1012 I street northeast, increased yesterday afternoon while he was en route to his physician's office in the Medical Science Building, 1029 Vermont avenue northwest. While crossing Seventh street at Pennsylvania avenue northwest he was struck by a light truck operated by Ernest W. Downs, of 481 H street southwest.

Moffett continued his journey in an automobile and was treated for lacerations of the hands and body bruises, as well as his other ailments.

Man Gets 19-Year Term For Passing Bad Checks

A sentence of 19 years' imprisonment was imposed on Charles R. Schroth, of the 800 block of Quincy street northwest, yesterday by Judge Isaac R. Hitt in Police Court on charges of issuing nineteen worthless checks totaling $250.

Schroth was arrested Saturday upon complaint of several merchants and taxicab drivers. Imposition of sentence was suspended by Judge Hitt in eighteen cases.

Choice of Capital City To Be Celebrated Today

The 140th anniversary of the definite selection of Washington as the National Capital will be celebrated at 5 o'clock this afternoon with a patriotic program at the Old Brick Capitol, First and A streets northeast.

Choice of this city as the Capital of the Nation was approved by George Washington, as President of the United States, on July 16, 1790.

Detective Bureau Changes Slated

Traffic Policeman Will Be Made Sergeant by Two Moves.

Two changes in the personnel of the Detective Bureau will be made today as a result of the selection of Detective Sergt. Ira E. Keck as aid to Commissioner Crosby.

Detective Sergt. Eugene Davis, now attached to the automobile squad and paired with Detective Sergt. Jacob Wolf, will become a member of the bad check and business fraud squad, and Traffic Policeman Joe Sincovitz, formerly stationed at the corner of Seventh street and Pennsylvania avenue northwest, will be assigned to the automobile squad as a detective sergeant.

Sincovitz was formerly an amateur football player on the Washington sandlots and is well known in athletic circles. Physically he is one of the largest men on the force.

Two Autos and Truck Collide; Rider Injured

One man was injured yesterday when a truck and a roadster ran into another auto on Maryland avenue at Third street northwest. George Hewitt, 42 years old, of 933 Ninth street northwest, occupant of the third car, was given first aid at the scene of the collision.

The truck, operated by Warren H. Eaton, of 1010 C street southwest, and the roadster, driven by Hamilton H. Blandford, of Ballston, Va., were going east on Maryland avenue when the other auto, operated by Richard Colbert, colored, of 1433 T street northwest, emerged from Third street.

Purse Snatcher Hits Girl With Shoes, But Is Foiled

A new type of purse snatcher, who uses a pair of old shoes wrapped up in paper to knock his victim into insensibility, made his appearance in Washington yesterday.

Entering the hallway of an apartment house on U street near Seventeenth street northwest, the purse thief, described as a young colored man, threw his missile at Miss Mary Williams, 20 years old, of F street near Sixth street northwest. The heel and sole portions of the package struck the young woman on the head.

Although dazed, she took a firm grip on her purse as the colored man tried to grab it from her. She screamed and the man fled down an alley, leaving the package of shoes as a clew for police. The Negro was also seen by Mrs. Jafis Hunter, of U street near Seventeenth street, who told Eighth Precinct police that he appeared to be about 25 years old and was wearing a light gray hat, no coat, tan shoes and dark trousers.

Police are working on the theory that the bandit is a successor to "the Black Cat," a purse snatcher who terrorized certain portions of Washington last year with his thefts.

City's Dry Spell to Reign 40 Days, St. Swithin Says

The legend of St. Swithin may be just a myth, and all that sort of thing, but at least it has the indorsement of the Weather Bureau for the Washington area for the next few days. What happens in the way of precipitation after this week is something else again.

According to the ancient English superstition, it didn't rain yesterday, which was St. Swithin's Day, and therefore it will not rain for the coming 40 days. The Weather Bureau is not so canny, however, and refuses to predict beyond this week.

Not only will the rest of this week continue fair, but it also will be warmer—much warmer, in fact—the Weather Bureau states, although it was explained, possibly by way of preparing for the worst, that it is illogical, to say the least, to look for the present dry spell to continue uninterrupted much longer.

At any rate, whatever happens, the Weather Bureau is not inclined to place much credence in the occult powers of the late St. Swithin as a weather prognosticator. If it rains, that will be final proof that the belief is all wet, and if it doesn't rain, it will be just too bad for the farmers.
